Foreword

Only way I can pay tribute to the writer and author of this book, Sri Anjaneya, is to describe the experience and benefit he bestowed on me as I started doing translation.

While in USA I tried translating a message and after 2 days, gave up saying the language is too difficult to translate, in particular the poems. I was hoping Sw. Sujnananda will find someone else to do the translation. After I came to Parthi end of Oct, when he said there is none else to do translation, I told him I will do it but at my own pace, probably before end of 2023. On Nov 17 while meditating I heard clearly 'dakshina'. I understood translation of this book is Guru Dakshina. It made me dive into it seriously, even though at that time I was suffering with body pains, boils on my stomach and back due to reaction. When entire translation and proof reading were done by Jan 19, 2023 - 248 pages, 150 poems, I myself got stunned. For me that's a miracle!

While translating, on Nov 19 had a vision where I saw Amma Visalakshi sitting with Sujnananda on her left side resting his head on her shoulder, while I was on her right side, all of us sitting on the steps. While in the middle of translation in Dec, I struggled and finally formed a sentence, I heard 'chala bagundi' (very good), another time heard 'anthey' (that's it), on Jan 10 when translation was done heard 'santosham' (happy), and on Jan 19 after proof reading got done at 8:40pm I heard 'Guru Dakshina' and then 'Prasad'.

Here is the punch line for all of above experiences - Q161 12-5-2019 Hanuman ji said - 'When any program is undertaken, or started a work selflessly so that it is useful to a score of people, whatever energy, power needed to fulfill that work is manifesting through you. For those works, whatever energy is needed to that degree it is manifesting. That is, the power, energy manifested is not based on you, but based on the work being performed. When you don't know this, you are in the illusion that you have or possess that energy, power. That is why, periodically you get egotistical. But the fact is, when work is undertaken to please God, or for social goodwill, God manifests through you the needed energy, and skill. Once that work is complete those skills and energy are withdrawn by God. That is, you must realize you are a tool in the hands of God, a mere agent.'

I felt, not only Swami gave me the energy and skill that I did not have to translate this book, but also gave me an accelerated course of his teachings where he covered 13 months of messages in 2 months. Namoh, Namoh, Swami!

Over the course of the translations of the first and now the second volume of Anjaneya's Command, a consistent theme is emerging which I used to hear in Hanuman Chalisa but never appreciated the way I do now. They are 'Gyan gun sagar' and 'Ram dwaare Tum Rakhvaare, Hota na agnya bin paisare'. First one means 'ocean of values and Jnana', second one 'you are the gate keeper of Rama's kingdom (liberation), without your permission none can enter'. Here are the supporting excerpts from messages given by Hanuman ji himself.

'In ongoing life as much as possible reducing desires, listen to the words of this servant who is a servant of Rama, this good friend who came close and become intimate, and always helpful. Once servant gives admission, directly king can be visited. Think ! Live a meaningful life !' - Anjaneya, Q91

'Words that do not know exaggeration are in this Anjaneya's speech. Unimaginable secrets being revealed by this Bajrang Bali's words are to mend and show you ways, mysteries to Baba's (Sathya Sai) nearness that you desire, that is, to be very firmly present with Baba (Sathya Sai) !' - Anjaneya, Q92

'Did you ever imagine in your life that this Anjaneya will sit in front and give you divine teachings? this is God's will, isn't it !' - Anjaneya, Q78

'You are forgetting your duty ... I tolerated your childish actions made you aware of your mistakes (in these messages) ... this Anjaneya got ready to charioteer your life ... I am expecting that signs of fear, anxiety, despair, fickle mindedness, attachment, do not show up.' - Anjaneya, Q75

'after setting up these cool Kuteers, handing you delicious fruit called Anjaneya's spiritual teachings, even then the bitterness called anger and intolerance is not leaving you, and mind is not peaceful, then how?, is the doubt that is not leaving me (Anjaneya). In fact, as long as one carries the desire-anger, jealousy-hate, attachment-delusion even Kuteers are a battle field! When these are not in the heart, even a house is a Tapovan (spiritual retreat, hermitage)' - Anjaneya, Q82.

'...Because prior life's experience get utilized very nicely. Hence, continue your sadhana without running here and there. What you need, this Guru will give you right away. Definitely Jnana will be attained, and sadhana is continued. Only when you follow the words of this Anjaneya !' - Anjaneya, Q83

'...One must know the non-dual Jnana, infinite Jnana that gives liberation which releases one from entire sufferings. This Anjaneya's concern/ anxiety is for that. As Guru came to plough your field (mind). Plant the seed of good attributes and good character....' - Anjaneya, Q62

'...Non stop without rest I had been preaching to you and you keep on listening. Merely listening has no use What you heard, what you got to know, put at least one in practice, I will be happy Only this love, no matter how many troubles in ocean of samsara, it will turn the boat of your life towards love and attains success If you don't let hate, anger, jealousy come near you, you will get closer to unmanifest bliss ...'. - Anjaneya. 4-12-2018 Pg 140

‘..Because, purifying contaminated minds is not an easy task. For that, Sadguru's guidance, complete non-dual Jnana of Brahman, uninterrupted sadhana, are very necessary and required. Step forward by completely grasping the teachings of this Anjaneya who is preaching as a Sad Guru. I am entreating you to discipline your life in that direction and attain good results.’ - Anjaneya, Q105

‘How necessary is a boat for crossing the river, a Guru is that necessary for growth in the spiritual path Real Guru is this Anjaneya ...’ - Anjaneya, Q106

‘....It is the nature of this Anjaneya in assisting every second for your mental blossoming by elaborating, as if done for little children, by giving useable messages of the hidden obscure meanings in every little thing....’ - Anjaneya, Q109

‘.... If you lose this opportunity that you got, it might take few lives before you get this opportunity again.’ - Anjaneya, Q133

‘...You must have fear of sin, but not fear of God. You must love God entirely/ completely. Only then God is attained by you. This is Anjaneya's guarantee!’ - Q138

‘.... This Anjaneya's duty is to specify direction to continue forward when facing failure.....This Anjaneya is reminding repeatedly that sadhaks must accept the responsibility of making their mind travel on a good path....’ - Anjaneya, Q146

‘.....This Anjaneya is awakening you to very easy paths, giving you assistance and collaboration. Digest it easily, facilitate your life journey!’ - Anjaneya, 14-05-2019

‘..... Currently there is no one externally to give you that complete (Paripoorna) Jnana..... In that situation this Anjaneya became Guru, Sadguru, is handing you effortlessly the infinite brilliant Jnana.....’ - Anjaneya, Q146

Hope the reader got ample understanding by now of why scriptures call Anjaneya a ‘Maha Jnani’ and ‘gatekeeper of Rama's kingdom (liberation)’.

All of our deep gratitude and humblest prostrations at the feet of Bhagwan Sri Sri Sri Sathya Sai Baba, Sri Rama Bhakt Veer Anjaneya, and Mata Viswatmananda Giri for sharing with us these unbelievable nectarines messages that are unravelling many of the spiritual mysteries in clear easily understandable, implementable terms for assisting us to travel on the inner journey ! Namoh, Namoh !!

1) A life without your presence is meaningless, Swami !

Just imagine once how you would have been, if you did not come in contact with this Anjaneya who can teach you proper Vidya (knowledge) and appropriate character, moral fiber. It is scary to even imagine how it would be if one does not have firm resolve to do sadhana. This Guru has the capability to set right the destiny accrued in many many lives. This is the auspiciousness you found due to your good luck. Did you understand? Did you recognize? that this Bajrang Bali's arrival is to make your life proceed smoothly. This Guru has undertaken the task of not letting your minds get diverted sideways or on wrong path. It is my responsibility to guide you to progress in the right direction. The awareness of what this Guru has undertaken - leading, guiding responsibility, awakens creativity in disciples. New thoughts start budding. For growth and success all you need to do is to take the grand resolution to do sadhana, that is enough to act as Sri Rama's protection makes you walk on the path of victory. One drop of ink that took the form of a word is an inspiration to hundred thousand minds, word becomes a weapon. Thought lets a transcendental miraculous power take over. Once a thought is focused, one comprehends what to accomplish, how to accomplish, efforts and experiments done in the past, their success-failures, lessons learned, changes/ additions/ deletions/ alerts while making the project plans. Enthusiasm bursts forth. Get up! Wake up! Do not rest till success is attained! So saying this Anjaneya's victory heralding reaching your ears gets you, should make you spring into action ! A key principle is to better utilize one's time. The path in front of you is, to proceed forward while properly utilizing time. Once it is determined that there is a goal, then how far is one away from that goal, and in how much time one needs to reach the goal, becomes evident. Evaluation gives right view. What was the thought, what is the action plan? To what extent the possibility-impossibility, and available resources were estimated correctly? How much effort got made, how much accomplished? What gaps arose? Why did they arise? This kind of evaluation and diagnosis produces great benefit. If frequently evaluated, it has great benefits. On this matter an aspirant (sadhak) has a great need to explain to his mind. It must be stressed that it is important to observe everyday how one is spending one's time. If time is used beyond a certain limit for chit-chat, entertainment, that will slow down the speed, which will increase the time to reach the goal, during that time unforeseen change in circumstances might occur, one needs to get rid of the habit of procrastination, and If one lets go of that lethargy and gets used to stay wiser and alert, it is my (Anjaneya's) responsibility to let you know that it will be like heralding further enhanced discipline, dedication, and efficiency. Primarily sadhaks (aspirants) must learn the habit of reviewing how much time is getting used for what. Due to which they will turn inward and develop the habit of taking responsibility on their own. Past life and past avocations disappeared into time. Make a habit of welcoming with renewed enthusiasm, new thoughts, with discipline and discrimination. Motivate yourself to gain additional skill, proficiency, fulfill your duties with even more vigor, make this Anjaneya happy, my sweet little children.

2) Swami, what does Aparigraha (non-possessive) mean?

To attain completeness men must let go of entire enjoyments of vishaya (objects, comforts etc), and must depend only on God. Sadhus (mendicants) rely on God's grace for their daily needs. In Bhagavad Gita also Lord Krishna said he will look after the needs and welfare of a devotee who surrendered to him completely (sarva sankalpa sanyasi). Just before the birth of a baby, God has filled the mother's breast with nutritious milk. Therefore, why should a devotee need to gather his personal needs by himself? Why safe-keep for his future? Those who have this kind of faith in God have realized this truth practically.

Once a thief decided to steal from Tulasidas's (well known devotee of Rama) Kuteer (hut). But, he saw two handsome princes with bow and arrow guarding the door of Tulsidas's hut. After undergoing through great surprise at the sight of those divine princes, next day on his own he submitted himself to Tulsidas and told him about his divine sight. Tulsidas's response to what he heard highlights the pinnacle of his devotion (Bhakti parakashta). Tulsidas understood that Lord Rama and Lakshman were actually protecting him. He felt ashamed that God himself had to descend down to protect him and his possessions, so he renounced all his things, and those that were not his, along with the Kuteer he lived in.

Hence if you do not renounce the things you are supposed to renounce, then you really do not know the meaning of sadhana. This ego filled body, based on ego conceals this understanding from thoughts. Therefore, remember this always. When viewed from lofty spiritual outlook this body is also an instrument. Desire to enjoy the luxuries and conveniences is the reason why body takes birth again and again. When desires are uprooted in entirety, then Jiva (individualized soul) has no need to wear a body. Then that Jiva gets released from this birth-death samsara, and is liberated. Per Advaita Vedanta, Atma is not-two (advitiyam). It is transcendental to the duality of enjoyer and object of enjoyment. Not only that, Atma is infinite and omnipresent. Not limited to the cage called body. In this manner you will reach to the state of total renunciation (sampoorna tyag). Paripoorna Aparigraha (total non-covetousness) means living like birds with no shelter and without any worry about tomorrow. Whether you realize or not, your current state is arranged the same way by Swami (Sri Sathya Sai Baba). Recognize it and express your gratitude. This Aparigraha is related to thoughts also. Filling your minds with unnecessary information, thoughts also becomes breach of Aparigraha dharma. All the thoughts that cannot turn your mind towards God are obstacles. A spiritual aspirant (sadhak) should not disregard this even a bit. Every action that you undertake to accumulate, earn is taking it away from someone else who needs it. Every morsel of food is grabbed from someone else's hand. When you fill your plate full of food items and get ready to eat, there could be many who could be staring at you. One beggar might stretch out his hand and pitifully beg. Dog far away may be eagerly waiting for the morsel you throw at it. You might notice the crow that is sitting on the branch of a tree. You can see the ants going hither and thither around your plate waiting for the food particles to drop. The eyes of this many beings that cannot accumulate for themselves are looking at the food that you acquired dharmically. That is why I am saying you do not have the right to accumulate more than that. Having more than your needs, not sharing what you got with others, these two are indicators of cruel hearts that do not have compassion, love, and do not seek others welfare. I will tell a small story for this!

One sanyasi (mendicant) has only one possession, two loin cloths. A rat tore one of them. To protect the remaining loin cloth, that sadhu got himself a cat. He started rearing a cow to provide milk for that cat, to take care of the cow he got himself a cowherd. These took place one after the other. Steadily as the number of cows got large which increased the number of cowherds. To sustain the cowherds he bought farmland and became a landlord. In the end to build a mansion, he took up the grihasta ashram (householder). One day another sadhu who was his friend was going by the house and got surprised at the pomp. When he enquired into the cause, the first sadhu replied in sanskrit “kaupina samrakshan-artham ayam pata-topaha” (to protect loin cloth, I got destroyed by the cloth). Cultured or refined does not mean endless increase of desires, instead it is limiting the needs and conveniences intentionally and voluntarily. How to live skillfully in the absence of them is real refinement, culture!

Those who listened to Anjaneya's words with humility beget limitless good fortune

with conduct full of discrimination, humility, discernment,

Your singled minded goal should be to leave 'you' and reach 'me' my sweet little children!

3) Swami, it is said greed leads to sorrow?

Many a time those who consider riches and prosperity is everything, do not know why they are accumulating. Those kinds of people neither enjoy their wealth nor do they let others enjoy it. They would not understand that their own greed is the cause of their mental agitation and lack of peace. Just because it is coming free if one oversteps the dharma of non-covetousness (aparigraha) what will it result in is highlighted by the following tale.

One young man was traveling through a forest. He came under a banyan tree when he heard “Would you like to have seven jars of Gold?”. He gave into his avarice and said “yes, I like to have”. He heard “Reach home, seven jars are placed over there”. Young man reached home, and was surprised to see the seven jars. He was full of glee. He uncovered the jars and saw that all were filled with gold except one. It made him very dissatisfied. To fill it up he put all his gold ornaments into it. But that magical jar stayed empty. Entire household started starving, saved and bought gold with it to fill the jar. Despite all efforts the jar won't fill up. He pleaded with his employer to increase his wages. Employer doubled his salary. This additional earnings also were swallowed up by the jar. He got emotionally depressed. Employer who observed his state, questioned him “what happened? When you were salary was half of what I am giving you, you were happier and more contented. But now, despite twice the salary you look sad, and worried? Did you by chance get those 7 jars of God?”

Young man was stunned and said “Sir, how do you know this?” Employer replied “the characteristics exhibited by you now told me so. That magician (yaksha) also tried to lure me with the 7 jars of gold. I asked him if those jars of gold are for spending or just for preservation. As soon as I questioned him, he disappeared. That wealth cannot be spent by anyone. It is only for accumulating and creates temptation and greed. Right away return all the jars of gold to the yaksha (magician).” Young man realized ‘greed leads to sorrow’ returned the gold to the Yaksha and attained peace!

4) Isn't jealousy the cause of unrest and lack of peace, Swami?

I will tell you of an incident. Once an argument arose between a currency note and a piece of paper. Sarcastically paper said humiliatingly “You and I are one and the same, what is the difference? Why so much value for you? Did they make you out of Gold?” Then that green back replied smilingly “yes. I am a paper like you. In terms of physical object, there is nothing special in me. But, in life not even once would I get the chance to see waste paper basket” said it humorously. Paper was left speechless!

This sounds like a casual parable, but if thought deeply the green back taught a good lesson to all of you. Among you many do not recognize the talent, and strength of others. Instead, on top of that you react with jealousy saying ‘what is so great in them?’ “If I want to, I can be like that. But I don't have any desires like that” saying this they try to nicely disguise their lack of skill, and effort. If you were to ask “all of us have same Atma, why only some get respect, and importance?” My answer is as follows. “Yes! There is one God's power in all. But, in some based on what they stored in previous lives, and based on their effort God manifests more of his power in them. That is why, one person single handedly defeats 10 people, while another person gets petrified in facing just one person. If someone is given a lot of respect, then it means that person has to some degree or other God's power, isn't it! Although people are all alike, based on their attributes (gunas), their skill and capabilities they get recognition. Based on their effort, God keeps transmitting his energy to them. God gives results based on their hard work. Those who cannot become hard working remain as escapists, constantly keep criticizing others. No matter how much others are progressing, these people compromise with life and stay as they are without any progress. But outwardly they state that they are happy with what they have, and do not have any desires. In their heart they keep burning with jealousy at other people's growth. Set aside this duality oriented nature, become hard working, and if able to live by improving skill/ capability, it will be beneficial to you !

5) Is it mandatory to perform Karmas, Swami?

Once a young disciple questioned his Guru "if one is working all the time like a donkey, how can one attain peace?" He indicated that by running away to a forest or into mountains one does not attain peace and said "A person to live peacefully left all his responsibilities and went into the Himalayas. 40 years passed by. Once he came across an old friend accidentally. That friend asked 'did you find suitable place for doing sadhana?' He replied 'I had been searching for the last 40 yrs for a suitable place'. His friend got surprised and asked 'even in wonderful Himalayas you still did not get a suitable place?' He expressed his helplessness and said 'there are wonderful places but my mind did not alter in accordance to the surroundings'. Therefore, whosoever's mind gets purified, those who do not desire anything else except Atmic bliss, only such people with firm determination can stay without doing any Karmas. Rest all must necessarily perform Karmas. Just by not doing Karmas man cannot gain freedom from doing Karmas. By merely disregarding Karmas one cannot attain Atma Jnana (Self Realization). Without moving one cannot get to destination. Likewise without performing Karmas, freedom from Karmas (karma rahityam) cannot be attained. How so? To reach to the roof you climb the stairs to get there. After reaching the roof, you sit down comfortably, breathe in the cool breeze, perusing the vast sky, you enjoy the beauty of nature. If climbing the stairs to reach the roof is like doing karma, after reaching the roof sitting down and relaxing peacefully is freedom from Karma. Therefore, to reach to the state of freedom from Karma, performing Karmas is necessary!

6) It is said one must perform Karmas with diligence (shradda), Swami?

Once a Guru observed his disciple while he was dusting a room. Since his way of working was not right, Guru went up to him and showed him how to dust the room. After the disciple completed the task, he asked him to go meditate and said the following "If you do your work with diligence (shradha), then you can do meditation with as much diligence. For both, mind is the root cause, and an instrument! Therefore, to get expertise in any work, it is necessary for mind to be trained. One who works all week knows the value of weekend. A student who goes to school all year knows the value of summer break. Likewise, employees who performed work duties all their life would understand the uniqueness of leaving work. Unlike that, someone without doing any work, not fulfilling any responsibilities, staying free without any work, how would they know the value of rest? How would they understand the uniqueness of rest. Instead, laziness increases and they become useless. Turn into lazy bums and become a burden to society. Those who inculcated verbal Vedanta in terms of Atma Jnana and Atma Ananda will turn into lazy bums. One must perform Karmas and travel the path of progress. How does a hungry man develop Atma Jnana? One suffering in poverty how is it possible to do Atma Dhyana? Misunderstanding the Vedantic words like Atmic bliss, liberation, letting go of swadharma (obligatory duties), becoming heirs of lethargy, then individual growth and societal progress gets handicapped. Hence there are two paths pravritti marg - performing karmas, and nivritti marg - freedom of Karmas (Karma rahityam). Progress is attained by performing Karmas, and by freedom from Karmas (Karma rahityam) state of Atmic bliss can be attained. If Tamo guna is let go first and become active, progress is possible. After that how to become free from activity gets understood!

7) What is the necessity of awaiting (nirikshana), Swami?

Many of you have low threshold for tolerance (sahanam). As soon as faced with unfavorable aspects, you get irritated. As soon as criticism reaches the ears, you get upset. Even after knowing that patience is needed for lofty results, no tolerance. You want immediate results for everything. When faced with unfavorable results, you get depressed. You give up by saying it is not possible. Gold is tested by touchstone, likewise man's mental steadfastness is tested by the obstacles. Obstacle does not only mean hurdles to the work being done, but delays are also obstacles. During this waiting period staying without giving up hope, exhibiting patience till the goal is reached, staying firm till the final results come in, the final victory is hidden in enhancing these characteristics!

A Guru called his disciple and told him to go to a cemetery as a part of sadhana. He said 'no matter what, practice meditation over there for 41 days. Do not give up sadhana no matter how much your mind entices you. Do not leave cemetery to return back'. He said ok and as per Guru's command disciple put up a thatched hut in the cemetery, stayed there, ate there, and like that he did sadhana for 39 days. He did not see any benefit from it. Then the disciple started thinking 'how useless work I am engaged in. I am wasting my time in a forlorn place without any ties with the world.' He started losing hope thinking that the experiences stated by Guru are not going to happen in near future. In this state of mind he thought of returning back. On 39th day when mind warned like this, he thought, what will happen in next two days that did not occur now? What kind of teaching and sadhana is, living among the dead? Why did Guru say like this? Maybe he is not a good Guru! Doubting like this, lost his patience and thought 'this is enough, I will leave'. Right away he extinguished the fire in the hearth with a bucket of cold water, tore down the hut. Putting on a shawl, in that cold night he walked out of the cemetery. After walking a little bit, he started thinking like this. 'How foolishly I am behaving, after doing sadhana continuously for 39 days I am leaving it when only 2 days are left. Why not do the sadhana for next 2 days?' Thinking like that he returned to the cemetery and did his sadhana. On the last day he acquired the treasure of Jnana (wisdom). That disciple would have lost the infinite treasure of Jnana if he caved in to restlessness (chanchalatwam) and lost his patience and tolerance.

You will also encounter similar circumstances in your life. In many instances the difference between success and failure is a hairline. Those who withdrew with sigh saying it is no more possible for them, are the ones who retreated after coming very close to victory. What is needed for accomplishing a goal is not just words of wisdom, but constant patience to await the victory! Any delay in the work undertaken, losing patience they get ready for stopping it all together. You don't even have the awareness that by stopping the undertaken work in the middle, all the valuable time spent on it till then gets wasted. Change this habit for sure, increase your endurance and tolerance and make your life journey easier. It is patience that yields the sweet result in the sadhana towards a goal. Keeping this understanding in your memory forever, make the effort!

8) Swami, why it is said 'as is effort, so are results'?

If one wishes for colored stones, a little effort is enough. But if they wish for precious stones then one must toil day and night for them. Little education is enough for a job where one serves others. But if one wishes for a job where others serve them, requires a lot of education. Like this, greater the expectation, greater is the effort. No matter where, the result is based on the work. Those who have capabilities and skills, they get better results. If one has to toil so much for impermanent comforts, then how much sadhana one must do to attain highest level of happiness granted by Paramatma? That is why I am saying that lofty things cannot be attained easily. I am giving you beneficial advice that one must give up certain things for attaining higher something else!

Once a disciple expressed a doubt to a Guru, "Why am I not able to see God? Why am I not getting that highest experience?" Then Guru said to him "Gaining God's vision and grace are not that easy to obtain! Many sadhanas have to be done. If you desired to catch a big fish, you need to get ready with things like - a fishing rod, proper bait etc. Likewise, if you wish to eat butter, what is the use of merely saying there is butter in milk repeatedly? You need to curdle the milk, make butter milk, churning the butter milk is when you get the butter. Similarly, just by reiterating that God is there, can one have a vision of God? What is needed is effort." If the goal of human birth is reaching the highest state of nearness to God's feet, to proceed on that highest objective journey, one has to deviate a bit from the worldly path. Only then the steps to the highest state will properly get you closer to that divine goal. If highest level of happiness is to be attained, one has to endure the related difficulties. If one wants success in a work, one must know the essence of that work and put in the required effort. One who dives into deep ocean with courage, they will find pearls, corals, and precious stones. If you get depressed thinking that you are silly, afraid of diving, and stayed back on the shore, then how are you going to get precious stones? Those in sadhana who enquire into the Self (Atma avalokanam) with steady devotion, will get merger (kaivalyam). One who does not do that will be struggling on the shore of samsara (transmigration). When man gets freed from the prison of worries, only then he will get near to God. He will be ecstatic with God's vision!

9) Swami, how many kinds of pride (mada) are there?

Unfortunately nowadays the amount of desire one has for buildings (bhavan) is not there for God (Bhagwan). On top of that, till one gets closer to funeral pyre, they are worried about property, or children, or position. First one must get out of that rut. Along with worry you all have another disease - blind with pride. That pride where you think you have something that none else has, makes you swell up. These prides are of eight kinds. 1. Artha mada (pride of wealth) 2. Anna (food) mada 3. Stree (woman) mada 4. Vidya (learning) mada 5. Kula (caste) mada 6. Roopa (beauty) mada 7. Udyog (position) mada 8. Yavvanam (youth) mada. Man is swelled up with pride in one of the above all the time. From above wealth to youth, not realizing that none of them will stay permanently with him, gets egoistical lacking discrimination. First if one makes the effort to gain freedom from these 8 types of pride, only then real freedom!

10) What is the prominence of 'sound' in human life, Swami?

Sound is very important for human life. An infant when it moves away from mother, all it takes is a little sound or a call and the baby rushes back into mother's lap. Performing any work without speaking is quite difficult. Language is very necessary for human relations. In human life, for sure, language links people with each other. In this manner without speech, words you cannot do any work. For the thoughts and feelings that arise in mind to become actions, the link is through speech. If one has to work with other humans, speech is a necessity.. Language is needed for liaison between humans, and for performing daily activities. Not only that, to learn anything or to teach it to others, words are needed. In human life during initial stages, words are necessary to conduct various roles. Observe the words that come from a mother. They are loving, affectionate and seeking the welfare of the child. Same words from a friend are used for encouragement and courage. Therefore, one word's meaning and its implementation is dependent on how and when it is said, and who said it. For a person to grow and gain good name, they need words from such people. Good speech leads to good work. Hence for any work, words are absolutely necessary. In this manner in a family and society, the words heard through parents friends relatives or any others reaches one's physical body. The sound of every word generates many kinds of feelings in your physical body. Some sounds make your mind happy. While other sounds when heard make one cry.

Some sounds make one feel like dancing. When hearing some songs one goes back 20 yrs into past. In this manner due to the waves of sound many kinds of reactions occur in the physical body. Your body has inseparable relationship with sounds. When hearing some ragas (notes), bhajans, mind gets peaceful. When mind concentrates on it, it gets ecstatic. When you are weak and need energy, hearing good music is very much needed. Hence, sounds give rise to experiences to many parts of the human body. Every sound and word that you hear gets deeply imprinted in your heart and mind, and if you wish to convey or direct anything, it is feasible only through sounds. Therefore sounds are very necessary. So, these kinds of sounds, music, speech are all related to the physical body. Different sounds generate different reactions, responses. So is this enough for human life? No. Because, along with physical body everyone has Atma. Are there any sounds to wake up such an Atma? To wake up physical body, there are sounds and words. In fact there are some special sounds to wake up the Atma. They are called mantras. When mother sings any song, it is with compassion, love, and sympathy; and that may be for the welfare of the child. In society many words spoken in many different ways by many people are all pertinent to physical body. So the words used by you to link yourself to Atma are also called mantras. The reason they would link you to divinity is because those emanated from divinity. That is why, when they are uttered, no matter who, will get linked to Atma right away. In this manner Vedas contain crores (millions) of mantras. If you hear them, Atma will wake up. You don't need to think about meaning of all the mantras. In case if you know the meaning, the sound waves of those mantras and their energy gets linked to Atma. For this, there is no relationship to the religion. There is no need for any special languages. That power, energy of mantra gets linked to Atma, which gets energized, and links you to God. To fulfill the highest purpose of human life, it is not enough to have physical body, brain, and intelligence. You need something different and separate. That is Atma! That Atma must be able to merge in God. Only then the life's highest goal gets fulfilled. From that God, these mantras emanated to wake up this world. They are boons granted by God out of his grace. Many kinds of boons got granted from God. Nature (Prakriti) is one of them. Every tree, living being, air, water, and all those that are used in your daily life are granted by Prakriti (Nature). Mantras are also wondrous gifts for physical body. They are invaluable gifts to human life along with others. Because they link human with God. Human body got generated from Prakriti (nature), and to sustain it many things, substances are needed in daily life. But, the mantras that emanated from divinity are entirely related to Atma only. Therefore, first it is necessary for you to hear the mantras. There is no need for you to utter them as soon as you hear. You need to hear them for some time. Due to the energy and power of the waves of mantras you will acquire what you need in daily life. After that, select the ones that are easy, chant them slowly. Many benefits due to uttering of the mantras. First health of physical body is attained. By uttering every word clearly, a kind of reaction (prati charya) occurs. In ancient times if any one gets ill, Agni (fire) mantra used to be uttered. Those sound waves fall on physical body and restores the health of the patient. In this manner, there are occasion based usable mantras for body, mind, and Atma. All these are sacred sounds related to God. There is love in the words of a mother. So, mantras turn one towards God. Therefore, one should keep hearing mantras and chanting them. Every mantra has meaning. It is enough one hears them peacefully. You can select the one easy for you and use it in your daily prayer ritual. Mantras are useful first for the person uttering them. After that it cleanses the surroundings. All that area becomes energized. For example, when you are uttering it in your home, infinite energy gets generated, that whole area becomes energy base. Steadily it gets mixed into the air and becomes a part of Prakriti (Nature). Later it spreads everywhere. Hence, utility of uttering a mantra is not limited to one person but extends to many. That is, the reason for Swami (Sri Sathya Sai) loving Vedas and getting many to chant Vedas. Therefore, hearing mantras is also a boon from God. Partake that boon and lead a lofty life!

11) Swami, what is the cause of restlessness of mind? How to restrain it?

Anything that increases bondages is not worthy of approval. That which reduces bondage is very beneficial. So out of all, one that is very prominent is the method that yields freedom to the mind. Because great amount of energy gets expended in restraining the mind. By letting the mind go, all the paths that expend energy get closed. One must know the secret of mind. Mind vacillates ceaselessly. That becomes an issue to the humans. Restraining it is very difficult. Because it is very sensitive. If unable to turn it in the right direction or path, life gets ruined. For example, if a thought arises that it should be like this, along with it arises a thought that it should not be like this. In the thought of I want, there is also I don't want along with it and vice versa. In the thought this is good, there is also not good in it. One is sankalpa, while other is vikalpa. These are sensitive and subtle. When a balance swings in one direction, in a moment other angle becomes evident. If you chase anything with positive feeling, you will encounter the negative. If you accept the negative then you will not grasp the positive. Therefore, instead of constantly struggling between sankalpa vikalpas, taking both of them as aspects of the physical world and a part of Maya, if one lets it go completely then the flux of thoughts would reduce and in a short while one can practically experience the state of Samadhi. That itself becomes a seed for liberation, freedom. This is the spiritual essence of life. To experience this is the ultimate goal / meaning (paramartham) of human life.

12) Swami, what is the role of a Guru?

During this time of your sadhana experience, the seeds that fall on the slate of your mind will become fruits later. Hence you must conduct yourself very carefully. Otherwise it will decimate your moral values. Destroys Dharma. As an aspirant it will make you sidestep your duties and responsibilities. Sadhanas devoid of understanding (knowledge) is very harmful. How so? Suppose you have a gas cylinder that is full of propane gas. If you draw it through a tube little bit at a time, you can cook food and eat it. Say, you take off the tube and light it, then you will blast yourself. That tube is Guru and that gas is Sadguru. Guru helps in drawing through a tube from Sadguru and making it reach the disciple so that they can cook good food. Currency called Guru is a legal tender forever. 1) Spiritual 2) Worldly. A disciple must only view one side. Should not even glance at the other side. Because, to prevent that kind of attention from falling on the disciples, a Guru stands in between always seeking disciple's growth. Guru is beyond the reach of your vision and your thoughts. Not only to sustain the plant called disciple, but if necessary may use a blade, a knife, or a scissor to cut and trim. Although it might hurt the plant but if not curtailed it will not grow the way it is supposed to. Therefore, if Guru's responsibility requires to cut, then Guru will cut it out. Guru will protect the disciple from weaknesses in all different ways. Only when a disciple goes in search of a Guru, then both the path and knowledge will have value. Seeking shelter of a Guru and proceeding on the path outlined by Guru is the best. For thousands of years human deviated from the path and lived, due to which bodies are filled with Rajo (activity) and Tamo (lethargic) characteristics and degenerated. They need to be set aright. Whatever I enumerated in the past are naked truths. I said many things, you all heard it. Change does not come due to that. Also not possible to change. No matter who, a strong feeling needs to arise from inside of them to transform themselves. You all are also getting satisfied by merely learning about it, but not trying with purity of mind (chitta shuddhi). Ignorance (Ajnana) is the result of bad karmas. Atma Jnana is the result of meritorious work (uttama karma). Burn down the tendencies (samskars) of many lives in the fire of Jnana. Make proper use of your lives. For that, Get ready to surrender to the instructions (Anathi) given by Swami (Sathya Sai Baba), change yourself so that Swami can guide and drive you, assist Swami, and turn your lives into flowers of gratitude. If the love that Swami asks for gets burnt it will smell bad. Will not be suitable for consumption. There is nothing that you need to spend for it. Live peacefully, manifest love with tolerance from your inner being. It is for thismy (Hanuman ji) coming, and what Swami (Sathya Sai Baba) is awaiting!!

13) Swami, What are mind's affairs? How to restrain them?

Mind is the cause for your lack of peace and sorrow. Mind is always thinking about something or other. Fear, sorrow, lack of peace are experienced due to that. Difficult to concentrate at the time of meditation. If mind has no sankalpas (thoughts) then there is no mind. Then it is like the obstructing wall between you and Paramatma is removed. Complete peace and bliss (paramananda) experienced due to that. During awake state, mind is thinking about all kinds of things. One feels happy or sorrowful due to that. Steady peace gets disturbed. In dream state mind creates a world of its own. It gets either happiness or suffering from that. Hence, lack of peace. But in deep sleep there is no mind. Not a single thought is there. No happiness, No sorrow. Hence peace, happiness, bliss. That is, one understands that there is lack of peace if there is mind, and when mind is not there, it is peace.

In a town there is a great poet who wrote many books. Everyday many elders and friends visit him. One day a friend visited, after enquiring about their well being, he picked up a book over there into his hands. He turned pages and read about two or three paragraphs. He praised the poet and said "Wow! How nicely you have written this book! When did you write this? I cannot state your greatness in words." Poet replied "Oh, there is no greatness of mine in it. I got unforgettable assistance from my wife in writing this." Friend said " Oh, so your wife is also a great scholar! Nice, wonderful couple!" Friend left. Poet's spouse who was inside overheard the conversation said to her husband "My dear! How could you utter such a blatant lie! Did I help you in the writing of this book? Actually when this book was being written I was visiting my parents and family. What help did I render?" Husband replied " You going to your parental home is the biggest help. If you were to be here, I could not have written this book. That is the assistance you gave me". Just the way the poet's spouse not being present helped while writing the book, similarly when singing Lord's bhajan or meditating if mind is not there, one gets highest peace (param shanti). Very existence (uniki) of mind is the cause of Jiva's (individual soul) sorrow. Absence of mind is the highest bliss (param ananda). Therefore, one must merge such a mind in Paramatma and attain highest peace. That is the root reason Swami (Sri Sathya Sai Baba) made you to undertake the construction of these Kuteer. He got these established so that his sadhana inclined children don't get diverted from the path. Contaminated environment deters your one pointedness. Those who under the guidance of Sad Guru perform activities like homam (fire ceremony), chanting of mantras, parayan (recitation), meditation with sacred feelings, for them their mind becomes steady and develop diligence towards sadhana. For sadhana, Brahmacharya is absolutely necessary. Brahmacharya means leading a discipline and devotion sanctified life with control over the senses. In ancient times Gurukuls used to be there. Over there disciples gathered and did service to the Guru and practiced the spiritual learning. Likewise, residing in the Swami (Sathya Sai Baba) arranged Gurukul Kuteers, following the directions of Guru who is handing you the teachings of Sad Guru, always be earnest in sadhana, following Brahmacharya, merge the mind and reach the goal !

14) Does shelter of a Guru needed to experience bliss, Swami?

For those who revel in Atma, for them it is bliss and bliss! Happiness or sorrow arrives when one turns toward this ever changing world. But for those great souls (mahatmas) who witness the world with dispassion, with complete detachment, without any feeling of worldliness, all the time revelling in Atma, becoming one with Atma, knowing they themselves are Atma, and staying as Atma, for them it is bliss and bliss! That is the bliss of Atma (Atma-ananda). Bliss that does not know what sorrow is. That bliss need to manifest in one's face. That is called Muditha Vadan (blissful face). There is no language to describe that bliss. To attain such Ananda (bliss), one has to seek the shelter of a Guru. While imparting spiritual wisdom a Guru sits in the north facing in southern direction imparts the wisdom, nature (tattva) of Paramatma to the disciples keenly seeking wisdom. It means, disciples should always sit facing northward (Uttar). Because Uttaram is Uth+tharam (above + beyond). It means rising above and going beyond the worldly feelings and relationship with worldly connections. Disciples seeking liberation Uttaram is necessary. Dakshinam (South facing) means increasing the worldly connections and relationships and getting stuck here. Then does it mean that Guru is stuck here (because he sits facing southward)? No. A Guru is of the direct form of Parabrahma (formless God), hence there is no world for him. Therefore there is no question of getting stuck in this world. That is why when you give Uttara (above and beyond), Guru takes that as dakshina (offering) and hands you the wisdom. That is why this Guru has come to accept the Uttaras' from you. Give them with Ananda (delight). No need for sorrow at all!

15) When does a person grieve, Swami?

When one believes that their desire will get fulfilled for sure, and when it does not come through one feels agony. In fact watch how strange human life is! It keeps going from birth to death in the wheel of birth-death. At times one declines and other times progresses. They are like good-bad, light-darkness spread throughout life. During bad times he begs. Same person in good times gives alms to others. When any relatives die, he weeps. When he himself dies all close relatives weep for him. All these are unavoidable as long as man is in the illusion that he is the body. As soon as he realizes he is Atma, entire circumstances change. Does not experience hot-cold, happiness-misery. State of Atma is State of God itself. It means the witness-principle, witness hood. Attain that state where there is only witnessing without any experiences.

let go of that ego that shows up first, with paraphernalia,

16) What Sadhana to do to reduce one's tendencies (samskars) Swami?

Sadhana is absolutely necessary for transformation in the spiritual path. When feeling of detachment (vairagya bhava) occurs in the inner being then sadhana becomes a game. If not, it becomes a battle. Another unusual characteristic, it is harmful to do any sadhanas without inner purity. Because, if bad thoughts start coming out forcefully from inside of us, even if we try to suppress them a little bit, or decide to put them into action, the amount of samskars increases further. Karma bondage continues. Attachments, bondages get stronger. Life gets derailed entirely. After getting transformed in terms of Jnana, there is no possibility of increasing bad karmas even while melting away past life's karmas. Because, from 'I am so and so' feeling one turns to 'I am nothing' feeling, past looks like a 'zero' (nothing). Even present continues in the same fashion. For it to continue in that fashion, this Pavan Putra came near you and is assisting you in crossing the river!

17) What is the difference between samskar and samachar, Swami?

Observe the difference between tendencies (samskar) and information (samachar). Samskar means experience that belongs to past lives. Samachar means knowledge of vishaya (objects, emotions, thoughts) that is gathered with the five senses (jnanendriyas). That exists in the world. Therefore, they can be something that is recognized first time by you. In this manner the information that enters into you gets recorded as samskars. That gets remembered over the passing of time. For example, you may have witnessed a murder personally, or, may have observed a temple on a pilgrimage. Both of them are newly generated information. Because, although you may have witnessed murders before they may not be like this one. Newly visited temple means that it was not recorded in the past! But, these are gathered based on the nature of our inner samskars. If Tamas guna is exacerbated in the inner being, that scene might induce fear. If Rajo guna is heightened, strong emotional reaction might occur. Instead if Satva guna is heightened then it might seem like an ordinary occurrence. Likewise when visiting the temple, if Tamo, Rajo gunas are exacerbated, only faults are noticed. Creates hostility. All this is your inner being only and not outside actual world. This means, every incident, information that occurs in your life is a reflection of your inside, and not related to the outside world. A Jnani makes effort to correct himself. An Ajnani tries to correct the world. One small example. Huge trees on either side of the road are green and flourishing. Farther away smaller trees and plants in the field look dried out and sun burnt. What is the cause of one flourishing while the other looks burnt out? Roots of huge trees have gone deep underground and reaching the water table. Hence they are acquiring plenty of water. Roots of smaller trees and plants in the field are smaller and shallow. Hence they are unable to access the water and getting burnt out. Those whose mind is immersed in God they will be flourishing with God's grace. These are the ones who are ever contented. Instead, those whose mind is shallow i.e. whose mind is on impermanent and worldly things, unable to acquire God's grace, get burnt out. That is, they are ever discontented. Ever contented are the ones who are dear to God!

in this creation there is nothing that is bad, there is only good good bad is in the vision of the one seeing there are no two in creation, there is only one Atma is you Paramatma is you, good is you bad is you there is light all around the lamp, but darkness underneath it
It is not darkness, it is only lack of light
Hence why not call light-dark as light - lack of light?
True! Is not it simple!
Where is bad? It is merely not good!

18) What disciplines one must follow to attain life goals, Swami?

No matter how many difficulties, one must have the outlook and attitude of facing them. Life must be taken as a gift granted by God. Instead of feeling bad about what we lost in the past, it is important to think about future. One must take step forward to attain the self-confidence (atma viswas). In any one's life at least once, selfishness destroys happiness and faith. Just because thousands of buckets of water is poured onto a plant, it is not going to yield fruit right away. Likewise, just because you are working too hard, it is not going to complete all activities in minutes. For everything right time has to come, patience and tolerance are needed. Based on how they behave during this time, one gets respect and honor. One cannot get them based on caste or clan. In case if you gave it on that basis, then your humanness is dead. Every living being has hope and desire. But greed and avarice will not work. Limitless desire and a leaky boat are never going to be stable. One day or other it will harm you. Everyone is in need of right thought. For turning man in the right direction, and make him ready to address the activity, goal. Hence right thought is very important. Goal is not an opportunity, instead it is an aim that needs to be faced. It is not something to await for - instead it needs to be attained with effort. Let's examine the personality of human. Circumstantially conflicts might develop with some. Anyone may be responsible for that. You might develop dislike towards those who hurt you or your feelings. From that time on, whatever they do might seem faulty to you. Your reaction towards them will be full of dislike or hatred, no matter how good they are, how learned they are, in the end even if they are your Guru or Sad guru. Jealousy can also be a cause for hate. You imagine in what way they are better than you, then imagine that they are showing off their superiority over you, and interacting with you egoistically. Misunderstandings, and hatred gets generated. Jealousy and hate are like fire. Whichever wood has embers burns itself, likewise those who have jealousy and hate, they themselves get burned. Strengths of humanness, spirituality, and strength of Atma will easily take one's life towards the Goal!

Human body was, is, and forever a great laboratory. Limitless mysteries still exist. Another form of awareness power (chaitanya shakti) that operates the body is mind. It is a great imperceivable discriminating center. It is the birth place of entire thoughts and emotions. In the world every object that is useful, has a power with it to satisfy us. Because of that power you view it as a boon and desire it. In this manner the God principle (tatvam) present as usefulness power is a boon to awareness. For life only two things are important. One is love, second is money. But now, only money has become important. In order for love to sustain, money is needed. But, earning is not merely securing, but helping, supporting is also earning. Biggest cause of your stress is conflicting thoughts. Importantly, the hate towards others will depress you considerably.

But, never slide down to the level of others and increase your hate. It only collects negative thoughts in you. Some agonize too much over minor things related to them. Instead, if you can gladly laugh at your weaknesses you will be always lively. Hate is like darkness. It is cause of illness. Even Sun and moon may not be able to remove it. No medicines will work on it. Hence, healthy people should not let it come near them. If words are sweet like sugar, it attracts people, and is pleasing to God. In God's creation everyone has some specialty, and everything has some usefulness. Therefore you must not strut with pride that you have a specialty that others lack. You must not get burnt with jealousy that others have specialties that you lack. No matter who, they need someone else's help. Helping each other in need, living with mutual love and affection needs to be developed and practiced. If one is able to live like that, individual experiences in the end become spiritual experiences. Individual life becomes one that is not one's (selflessness). Those who lost the 'I' individuality are lucky ones. They become those who earned God's grace. In those kind of people a bright, lofty, evolved state gets established.

20) Swami, What disciplines we must follow to lead a life in freedom?

In fact spiritual path is put together only to provide health. It is put together to free the human race that is stuck in the bondage of attachment, from the root, and to provide them with complete freedom (sampoorana swecha). But, complete freedom is attained only by those who experienced complete Jnana (poorna jnana). Those who keep increasing their bondages, living in the intoxication of worldly point of view, do not even have an opportunity to gain freedom. Those who get the resolve to better utilize this rare human birth, they will have to follow some regulations in daily life. Like Dharma, Seva (service), Sadhana, Dharana (concentration) etc. Besides those, for man to elevate his mind to a higher state there are four rules. 1) Common sense (ingitha jnanam) 2) Nijayathi (sincerity, truthfulness) 3) Responsibility (badhyata) 4) Courage (sahasam). They need to be given first place in life. This world is like a cave that resounds its own voice. That is why when proficiency and morality are shown on other person, good results reflect back. Clouds rain equally in all the places. But the amount retained is dependent on the depth of the locations. When rains get widespread and fall on earth, increases greenery and makes it pleasant and happy. Same rain when it falls on the desert, or rocky soil, can't even grow a blade of grass and looks lifeless. That is why forgetting the appropriateness pride, conceit etc, if exhibited on others indiscriminately then one gets the same results as the rain. In the homes of those with humility, there is no room for conflicts. For good results in life, humility's role is extraordinary. Swami (Sri Sathya Sai) tells frequently to study the shastras. You may have heard of it. For study, individuality has to die i.e. I know everything, no one need to teach me. I am beyond everything attitude (ego) has to go, only then humility prevails in man. If you let go of ego, you will become instruments in the hands of God. You will turn into a flute in his hands. Flute is always with Lord Krishna. It dances on his lips, keeps moving in his hands, and sleeps by his waist band. An axe chops the wood - it is not the greatness of the axe. A pen writes great manuscripts - it is not the greatness of the pen. You do great things - that is not your greatness. For entire things the doer is God - it is his greatness. Then why the ego?

21) What disciplines to follow to face life's circumstances, Swami?

As are your thoughts, so is the world around you. World is good when your vision is good - when seen as bad this world looks bad. There is an advice in Upanisads - everyday man must hear a good thing, read a good thing, contemplate on what is read, practice what is contemplated. Many a time you behave and react without thinking, with anger. Without understanding the realities you get angry. But in any matter, and in any person there are dimensions that you do not know. Make it a habit to always see not from your viewpoint, but from other person's viewpoint. To stay firm in any circumstance there are two rules you must follow. Never to take 1) help of tears to express your emotions and 2) help of words to express your anger. Sage Vyasa used to say blossoming of human life is dependent on harmonizing the worldly life with spiritual life, it sharpens human intellect.

22) Swami, what is the difference between a fad (craze) and devotion?

Although great attraction towards worldly things is called a fad, spiritual divine pursuits are not limited to that word or that meaning. Divine love that is exhibited by a person towards God is called devotion or Bhakti. Fad for worldly things can be satisfied by pursuing them. Bhakti, the more you do the more it increases. For existing in front of God's divine feet, a Bhakta's mind must get anxious, will get anxious! That in itself transforms into severe tapas (penance). As God's leelas (sport, activities) are heard, spiritual thirst gets quenched while thirst for desires gets destroyed. Worldly beauties increases the fascination of a desire thirsty person. Those lofty seekers of God who are experiencing the divine love with God as the goal, as ultimate meaning of life, for them the thirst for divine love never quenches. Life is impermanent. Death can come anytime. Can destroy one's existence. For Lord Yama (god of death) and his noose, there are no distinctions like, is one old enough, or one too young to die. A Bhakta who increases his love for God instead of worldly fad, submerges himself in the nectarine emotion of eternal love and becomes extremely pure, attains freedom from the ocean of bondage (bhav sagar)!

23) Swami, How to sanctify one's time?

Man must carefully put to good use every second of the priceless time. Every person must not waste even a bit of the available time. One must not develop bad qualities like violence, wickedness, revenge, hatred, injustice, bad habits, blaming others, anger etc. Meritorious work (punya kaarya), charity, dharmas must be practiced that are needed in this world and beyond. Put time to better use by contemplation on God. There is adequate amount of time. You can do as much as you feel like. Without knowing, you are wasting a lot of time. How so? In the morning while bathing, while eating, while going to work, while returning back from work, while getting ready to sleep, by reducing the gossiping or chit-chat time. If one engages in chanting the name (nama smaran) during these times, then time is better utilized. You do not have to postpone any of the daily activities time. Do any work, but do not let go chanting the name. It is the result of chanting the name that brings brightness, and goes with you. In the available time if a moment is sanctified, it is like sanctifying your life. It might be a little burdensome in the beginning but one gets used to it steadily. If inclination is there, then many solutions like this will surface. If priceless time is not wasted and put to good use, then one can attain happiness in this world and beyond. Bodies are not eternal. Prosperity and wealth is not permanent. Everyday death is getting closer. During holidays instead of wasting time in dinner parties and entertainment, one must spend it on meritorious work (punya karma). To be charitable, helping those in difficulties with appropriate help, assisting those who are in hazard, to have tolerance, being friendly with good people (sajjan), having darshan of God (temples, altars), participate in bhajan activities, one must allocate time for these activities. Everyday pray to God. Do not forgo Japa (chanting the name). Sanctify the time in all different ways!

24) Swami, how to attain thoughtless state?

Essence of Vedas is "World is Maya, life is Maya" (illusion). If this is realized, man would lead a life of Dharma and Purity. This body made up of five elements is auspicious (shivam) when there is consciousness - and a corpse when (individualized) consciousness leaves. When body has consciousness, the only sustaining nutrients you must give to lead a life according to Dharma are egoless-ness, detachment, and purity (nirahankar, nirmoha, nirmal). When entire mind is godliness, destiny bows down to you. Just the way Sun lights up the creation, the Sun called spirituality makes this body shine. Lets you attain godliness devoid of rebirth. Grinding and buffing brings out the value of a diamond. To enter into the state of thoughtless-ness one must enter into aloneness (ekanth). State of aloneness is the state of attaining Jnana (kaivasha stithi)! State of thoughtlessness! When one travels into the state of thoughtlessness, that journey is infinite, unparalleled awesome state of Ananda (bliss). Not possible to state in words except experiencing it. Experience of Ananda in body, and in the world is transient, impermanent. That thoughtless state is the very best (athi uttamam) state to attain immortality, and is state of extraordinary Ananda that gets you the experience of the permanent Ananda. To acquire that state Dhyana (meditation) is the only path. You undertake meditation with purity and detachment to know who you are? Through meditation unlimited powers are attained. In loneliness pain/ suffering manifests. In aloneness Jnana manifests. Loneliness gives rise to unhappiness. That is why Rishis', Jnanis' desire aloneness strongly. In aloneness man demonstrates discrimination and with insightful knowledge, nectarine thoughts acquires the state of 'Anand-o-Brahma'. When this body is for the sake of others is realized (idam shareeram paropakaar-artham), one becomes detached, becomes egoless with purity, and strives every moment for the uplift of Dharma. There is no doubt. Pure gold is made only when gold is melted in the oven. Likewise when mind is melted in the heat of truth, and by purging the sins, then man can become glorious. When everything attained is for one's own sake, even living hundred years is for the sake of cemetery. Not realizing the truth that all luxuries for one's own sake is for the sake of cemetery, misunderstanding that life that is dissipating every moment is permanent, man aspires to live permanently in this life. Taking this to be the reality (Satyam), remembering God when aches and pains hurt, seeking shelter of parents when difficulties arise, thinking this is the truth feels that he is following the right path. Forgets the truth that exists, that is heard, and that is experienced. What is the reason for this? Man's selfishness, egoism, and ignorance !

knowing well fire burns inadvertently you burn yourself

25) What must we follow for attaining a Goal, Swami?

It is very great thing to be able to recognize one's life goal. But if you do not make an effort to attain it, then it is useless. Many people know what to do but they want it to happen without putting in any effort. Not making any effort is worse than not having a goal. If there is a goal, you will make a plan of how much time is available and what needs to be done. If your thought is on it constantly, then you will not able to avoid it. You will recognize your goal and make the effort to attain it. Develop good habits. It teaches you good values. Good habits need to be developed by practicing them. It is not an easy task. Every time you need to attain it by practice only. Truth, compassion, sympathy, sincerity do not come by themselves, you have to make effort for them. That is why your habits need to be transformed into 'good' habits. There is a lot of science and knowledge in this world. Select what you want from that. Everyone imposes their principles, interests, and many other aspects on you. You decide what you like and select. Take their pointers into consideration. Select the way your mind and heart tells you, the way your Guru taught you and act accordingly. Those who have come this far, they are in the last stage. There is no answer. They start turning inwards and be able to spend time in their personal experiences. Whatever is learned, keep revisiting it. What you want to learn, you decide. Through your Guru's teachings, those whom you love and dear to you may not agree with you on various matters. Their's and your thoughts and feelings being in contradiction and unable to separate from their thoughts and feelings, you need to move farther from them, but not move away from them. Differences are in thoughts and feelings only, but not with the individuals. What you need to learn is not to take revenge or not be stone hearted towards them. Instead of breaking your relationships with them, break with the thoughts that get instigated by them!

26) Swami, how to resolve mental difficulties caused by others ?

Many among you under the guise of sensitivity get mentally weak and constantly over react to the words and behaviors of others. For days on you keep thinking about it and feel bad. While keep recollecting that others behaved improperly, you complain to many people and end up merely collecting criticisms. Like this for years if you spend your time from morning till evening criticizing one or other, by the time you get 40 or 50 yrs old your mind will be filled with complaints and criticisms. That is why, whenever and whatever is spoken to others some dissatisfaction is expressed. So what happens to you because of that? With that mindset you became your own enemy. You ask your mind to get hold of something, it will get hold of it. If mind gets weak, every thing will disturb you, and worry you. When your mind is firm, no external words and actions can disturb you. The foundation for a firm person is a stable restraint of mind reaction and behavior. In fact the disturbance caused to you by others is very minor. But your mind increases it by 10 times and gets distressed. Your peace will not get disturbed if you can stop searching for adverse meaning to others words, actions and agonizing over it. Many among you get irritated when you see others. Because you don't like their behavior at all. Dislike their mode of interaction. Their words, thoughts, and actions brings out your anger. You keep thinking why are they not like us? why don't they behave like us? Reason for you to think like that is due to aspects like, your family environment, social circumstances, and your friends companionship. This outlook makes your beliefs and opinions. Everyone does not have to be like you. Others have as much right to think differently as you do. If they don't have that freedom, then you won't have your freedom either. If you recognize this reality, you will be able to harmoniously interact with others. In search of ideal Guru the sadhana you all need to do now is to make the effort to get the field of your mind free of impurities. When your mind is purified, then you will understand the way highest Guru (parama guru) Pavan Kumar coming directly and absolving (tarimpa) you. Those who have sincere keen spiritual enquiry, those who wish to attain progress in spiritual journey, those who intensely pine for God's vision, will definitely attain the shelter of param gurus (highest gurus)!

27) Swami, how do we attain God's vision?

Maya is the attraction human has for worldly vishaya (objects, emotions, thoughts). This Maya has to be transcended. A devotee asked Swami "I had been observing Japa (chanting the name) and Tapas (austerities) but did not get darshan (vision or experience) of God". Swami replies that there is no rule that by observing deep steadfast sadhana that one gets God's darshan. How will one get freedom, if Maha Maya is not gotten rid of? For that surrender to God is to be attained. Seek shelter in God only. Only by his grace Maha Maya will be removed. Without God's grace, his vision (darshan) is not possible. It does not mean that you need to give up Japa, and Dhyana (meditation). When a flower is held one gets its fragrance, when sandal wood is rubbed on the grindstone one gets its aroma, likewise by steadfast spiritual sadhana steadily higher goal, purpose gets awakened. When everything is left to him, surrendered to him, that God who is the lord of Maya, the one who created Maya will get rid of it!

28) Swami, in what way Shama, Dhama necessary for spiritual progress?

Sam-yama-nam means restrain, and control. Shama is control of mind. Controlling body and senses is Dhama. Necessary requirements of a sadhak are discrimination (viveka), detachment (vairagya), then Shama Dhama are important. Removing all the desires in the mind is Shama. Bearing the aches and pains of body, bearing inconveniences is Dhama. If body and senses are not controlled, progress in spiritual life is impossible. Hence, a sadhak must practice Shama Dhama and must make effort to gain progress spiritually. For this, one must get the shelter of a Guru. Because he is the one who can navigate across to the shore!

29) Swami, what is the greatness of a Guru?

I will tell you about an event. One person wished to praise his Guru and thought he would compare him with Sun. So Sun gives light externally. But Guru is one who is capable of driving out the obscure hidden ignorance of Tamo guna. Not only that, Sun is not seen during night, eclipse, and when covered with dense clouds. But Guru is free of the veil of ignorance (avaranam) all the time, and is effulgent all the time. He told the assembly, hence Guru is greater than Sun. Later he thought of comparing with moon, and even that example did not fit. Because, moon goes through waxing and waning, during the phase of new moon it becomes unseen. Not only that, moon has a blemish in it. But Guru is free of increase decreases, free of blemish, and is perfect. All the time cheerful and self shining. Hence Guru is greater than moon. After that he thought of comparing with vast ocean. Although ocean looks very deep, its depth can be measured. But, depth of Guru's kindness, grace is immeasurable, and endless. In the depths of ocean there are valuable pearls, precious stones while the heart of Guru is filled with precious stones called compassion, pearls called tolerance, corals called detachment, flourish in an invaluable way and hence Guru is greater than the ocean. While comparing to fire, it can only burn gross things. But, Guru with his Jnana vision can turn into ashes the entire karmas that are subtle and accumulated over many many lives. Hence Guru is greater than fire. To compare with Brahma, Vishnu, Maheshwar, the presiding deities of creation, sustenance, and dissolution, those three activities occur due to the power of Parabrahma, the eternal Sathyam (existence). Guru has that shakti (power), transcends the three gunas (guna traya-teetha), of the form or nature of Parabrahma, so saying in an emotional voice silently without further words offered his obeisance to Guru. Those who have that kind of Shraddha, confidence in the Guru, for them Guru's directions become daily observances, disciplines, and they flourish. Life of such people becomes fully satisfied and achieves their objective. Aim for the state where you can receive Guru's grace, compassion. Following Guru's command is the real offering (dakshina) that you need to give on Guru Pournima. Parents gave birth, while Guru sets right the goal and journey of life. Instead of earning Jnana by oneself, by taking shelter under a Sadguru who is a torchbearer of Jnana, everything becomes obvious and known. Ordinarily when you journey to a far away place or a new place, you take help of someone who knows that place before you travel. Journey becomes easier. Likewise, for those who wish to reach the goal of liberation, Sadguru will point out the obstacles in the path of sadhana, will let them know the solutions on how to handle them and assists in reaching the destination. Literally Sathya Sai Baba became Sadguru, this Anjaneya who knows the aim as Guru, are like the wish fulfilling cows (kamadnenu), attentively listen and step forward by practicing what is told my sweet little children!

Ignorance stands as a huge obstacle in the path of spirituality and puts aspirants through many difficulties. Because of this ignorance the true nature of Self gets forgotten, hence gets subject to many kinds of illusions. With the five elemental vision (worldly vision or outlook), it is not possible to get the vision of the goal of Truth (sathya patha darshan) which is beyond Nature and five elements. Hence it can be said that 'Jnanam nasthi Guru vina'. Jnana is not possible without Guru. Darkness of ignorance is removed by the dark eyeshadow (katuka, collyrium) of Jnana, and to attain the real vision/ outlook of this Anjani Suta, Guru helps by getting together with the Sadguru, who is an ocean of mercy. No matter how long milk is boiled, if seed of little yogurt is not used, butter cannot be made, likewise however much yoga or meditation is done there is no success without Guru's grace. Without Guru's grace detachment from world (vishaya), tatva darshan (direct experience of Atma), sahaja avastha (natural state) ... all are very difficult to attain. So, to get Guru's grace, think about what you need to do. Even if a generous donor gives limitlessly, accepting is within you. When you go near a great river, whatever size container you take, you can bring only that much water. Likewise, Guru's compassion and grace is limitless and is equally towards all. But if you have shadows of narrow mindedness and ego, even though that compassion is flowing, will remain incomprehensible. A magnet attracts all the iron nearby. But, if that iron has rust on it, it will not be attracted. Here the fault is in the iron and not in the magnet. Therefore, when you make the effort to address your faults, keep your mind pure, you will get the complete grace of the Guru. These are the words of this Anjaneya, who is fulfilling the Guru's role gifted to him by Sadguru, and administering, handing life sustaining values. Also these words show the path, and am blessing you that it will walk you the path of freedom. I am laying this treasure of Jnana in front of you to encourage you to travel the path, my little children!

30) What is the cause for not attaining mind control, Swami?

Everyday if you are meditating for some time means you are attaining progress on the spiritual path. Day and night thinking about the worldly things, moving around with people with worldly thoughts, getting immersed in worldly interactions, how will mind stay still? In a day meditating for sometime, chanting name of God few times, will not yield mind control. You must examine why is your mind restless, as and when it occurs. You think about so many things with this mind, you conduct so many interactions and set things right. So why will the examination of mind be not possible? In fact you will get to know your faults and weaknesses. But you do not make effort to overcome them. You know what Dharma is but cannot practice. You know what Adharma is but you can't let it go. Many a time while knowing that you are doing something wrong, cannot refrain from doing it. While knowing it is correct, yet don't try to practice it. It is heart that can take a person to an exalted state. Not mind. Because, God speaks through your heart. Man speaks through the intellect. Hence develop an expansion of your heart first!

31) Swami, what is the necessity of a Guru's shelter ?

Every person in their life must seek shelter of a great Guru. By learning matters of knowledge (vidya vishaya) they have to change into a great sadhak (aspirant). Also without forgetting the Guru the disciples who learnt the knowledge must have gratitude. In the field of spirituality a disciple needs to advance his life by following the advice of Guru. If God gets upset, Guru protects. If Guru gets upset, there is no one who can protect. That is Guru is greater than God. Everyone must seek shelter of a Guru and worship him. Vidya (spiritual learning) must be practiced facing the Guru (surveillance). Here it does not mean observing the form of the Guru. State of Guru enhances the stage of disciple. Conquering the body consciousness with Atma Jnana and become swarupas of Paramatma is what Paramatma constantly desires. Death is put in place for that. Pulling you away from your close ones and letting you know that body is impermanent. Overcoming your senses with your mind, if you put in your share of effort in making Jivatma still, God will render his share of assistance. For falling asleep, when you make your effort by lying down and closing your eyes then sleep comes. Likewise, meditation is possible only if you sit still!

despite learning sixty four vidyas, only dissatisfaction is leftover 32) Swami, what kind is a Guru? What do we need to imbibe from Guru?

One Swamiji's disciples and devotees used to believe that he rose to higher spiritual stages. They did not know what his spiritual state was, and his experiences were. But among devotees some believed that Swamiji had vision of God (sakshatkar). He never used to converse anything about sadhana or what his experiences were. In spite of that, devotees disciples wanted to hear directly from him about what is spiritual life? Why? How? Among them some were curious. Others were around him to know about the various and different aspects of human life. For some devotees who had keen subtle perception, he was an embodiment of love, causeless ocean of compassion. He did not have differentiations of rich-poor, learned-illiterate, selfish-selfless, religious differences, jnani-ajnani, and he was devoted to selfless seva (service). He loved and served everyone. Disciples and devotees understood this much about the sadhu (swami). Interesting thing is none of them wanted to become like that

Mahatma - embodiment of love and kindness. They could not feel that loving everyone is the measuring yardstick for individual spiritual state. They used to think that he is constantly diving into some non-worldly bliss and they used to pine for that kind of experience. They tried to be around him all the time so that he might tell them an easy way to attain that experience. He did not have desire, liking for life, nor dislike or hate towards death. He did not exhibit any effort or anxiety to obtain happiness through objects or changes in them. He did not show through his actions that he had any desire for attracting, or turning them towards him. He used to say that he did not particularly have anyone who is his own. He used to elaborate further on it by saying 'everyone is his won'. It was difficult for them to describe or interpret him. After seeing his state, a devotee asked "Swami ji! In fact is there a God?" He answered immediately "God alone is". Devotee was surprised at the answer. Without fully understanding the reply he said "Did you see God?" He replied immediately "I did not see anyone else except God". That person again asked "if you have seen God, could you elaborate on his form, his nature". Swami ji replied "Without understanding the two replies I gave, if you pose another question, that is a meaningless question. It only reveals your Ajnana (ignorance) and cannot give you Jnana." With that answer devotee slowly started transforming, restraining his desires, viewing creation as God's leela (sport), and was able to ascend to higher peaks in spiritual life. Later on many events started happening, coming and going. He merely observed them. Although did not get the sweet care from God but, by sacrificing the selfish needs, by staying detached (udasina) instead of getting perturbed by issues, by contemplating on God, by conducting in a way that pleases God, he realized how much happiness all these gave. In the end, "If my suffering gives you happiness, let it stay. You gave me the disease. You also gave the desire to get that cured, and witnessing the fun. You are creating the fear of death by making me see deaths. To ward from that death, you are watching the hundreds of efforts I am making, and smiling away" saying like this reached the state of surrender (Atma samarpan). The way this is, like scaring a child into crying by covering oneself with a bed sheet and making sounds of a devil or demon. This life is such kind of a game. Make it a habit that whatever you are seeing, doing, and thinking, all of it is occurring according to God's will. Leave your life activities at the feet of God. Adopt Sharanagati (surrender). That is why, every step of the way Anjaneya is energizing you by revealing such incidents, and clearly making you understand what you are giving up, letting go in your life!

33) Swami, what is Swadhyaya? How does it help in spiritual growth?

Many people go to Guru. They make effort for spiritual growth. But, only few get benefited. Do you know the cause? First, it is the samskar (vasana) of the individual. Second, shraddha (unwavering faith). Only real jijnasus' (keen seekers of Truth) can attain higher states through sadhana. One disciple asked a swamiji "please let me know the way to conquer desire, craving". Guru said, 'for that do Hari naam smaran (chant name of God)'. Disciple reacted "what is this name chanting he is asking me to do? I thought he will show an easy path to get rid of desire, craving. May be this swami ji does not know". Went over to another swami and he was saying something. Disciple started eavesdropping. First swami saw that and he dragged the disciple aside and stressed to him "the yoga sutras that you are listening to, if you practice them your mind will be on the body, it won't turn towards God. Listen to me and do chanting the name of Hari (God)". After hearing that the disciple firmly resolved, with faith in the Guru's words, he did as told by Guru due to which he got the result in a short time.

Studying (adhyayan) one's own self is Swadhyaya. You all think that swadhyaya is through hearing, reading, and observing. You think that earning Jnana through Shravan (hearing understanding), Manan (contemplation), Nidhidhyasa (meditation) is adhyayan (study). Key purpose of adhyayan (study) is understanding many varieties of thoughts, ideas and digesting them. Only then the inner meaning of those teachings get understood. Thinking deeply about them, intensely meditated upon, then those thoughts ideas become your own. Else, only gathering of information is the result. There is a great difference between sangrahan (extracting) and sekaran (collecting) of the inner meanings of those thoughts and ideas. Buying a medicine and putting it in the pocket is not enough. It works only when you swallow it. Likewise, when you deeply analyze what you read, understanding it well, adapt it to daily living, only then the study becomes efficacious. Someone else's spirituality can neither be understood nor estimated. State of Jiva (individual soul) is understood only by Jiveswara (Easwar, God). When mantras are uttered your heat reaches up to sahasrahara (crown chakra), quickly matures, substance gets ready to be consumed. Hence, no sadhana can estimate your spiritual state. You bend your path into spiritual path, which means, conquering the ari shadvargas (desire, anger, attachment, greed, pride, jealousy), living far from 'woman, gold' (sex, wealth), improving sense control, living in the state of Atma, coming out of the intoxication of world, staying away from worldly vishaya (affairs). Anjaneya is stating emphatically that anyone who enters this path, after examining it from all angles, understands and does sadhana for sometime without fail, you will be able to see your own change, this Anjaneya's explanation is a petition to you !

34) What is the inner meaning of Ramayan, Swami?

I think you understood the inner meaning of asking you to do japa (name chanting) of Ram naam everyday. Doing japa of Sri Rama's name with mind, word, and action is equivalent to doing Sahasranamam (1000 names) chanting as told by Lord Shiva himself to Parvati Devi via the chant of "Sri Rama Rama Ramethi". Lord Rama is omnipresent. It means that which is inside, outside, and spread everywhere is Paramatma and bringing that into experience is the highest meaning of human birth. To know the Rama in every living being, how your behavior must be towards others is shown practically by Lord Rama during his life. The Dharma you follow becomes evident by you behavior. Ramayan is that Lord Rama's story! Today I felt like conveying to you the inner meaning of Ramayan. The Ramayan you know is, Dasharath has three wives, four sons, Kaikeyi's desire made Rama go to forest, faced separation from Sita, Hanuman searched and found the location of mother Sita, went to Lanka killed Ravan, came back to Ayodhya and Rama was coronated as King.

But, if you look inside deeply, the inner meaning of the story of Rama is very very very very great. In Liberation called Ayodhya city, to Parabrahma called Dasharath had three wives - Iccha shakti - power of desire (Sumitra), Kriya shakti - power of action (Kaikeyi), Jnana shakti - power of wisdom (Kausalya). In the womb of Jnana shakti (Kausalya) 'Atma' called Rama incarnated. Got educated by Shravanam (Sage Vasishta), journeyed with Manana (Sage Viswamitra), killed Avaran - ignorance (Thataki demoness) with sharp arrows of Jnana. He threw into ocean iccha - desire (Marichi), and destroyed demons called Vikaras - desire, anger, attachment, greed, pride, jealousy. Pardoned good behavior/ actions called Ahalya, entered into (city of Mithila) aloneness. There saw peace (king Janak), broke the bow (jealousy), married bliss (Sita). Overcame the confrontation of pride (Parusuram), reached the city of Saket called liberation. Kriya shakti (Kaikeyi) created the obstacle of fickleness (chopalathwam), journeyed with bliss called Sita and vairagya (detachment) called Lakshman. Crossed the mind called river Sarayu, received respects from Buddhi called Guha. After that entered into Tapas called Chitrakoota (a forest), destroyed eye called sankalpa (thought) of the mind called Kakasura, and gifted Nirvikalpa - thoughtlessness. With courage called hand, defaced the Maya called Shoorpanaka, and destroyed Agami karmas called Khara Dooshanas. With the help of desire (Marichi), Rajas called Ravan, put on vanity - sanyasi form, and abducted bliss called Sita. Then Atma called Rama with vairagya called Lakshman went in search of Sita (bliss), on the way gave higher spiritual state to Viveka called Jatayu, and broke worry, sorrow called Kabandha. Agreed to the pooja called blossoming of mind done by happiness called Shabari. Breaking through ten kinds of sounds called saptha-thalamulu (seven chakras?), killed fear called Vali, brought up decision called Sugriva, and encouraged Nidhi dhyasan (meditation) called Hanuman. Then he crossed the ocean called Moha (attachment), killed greed called Lankini, destroyed the bad habits called demons, found the whereabouts of Sita (bliss). Later, demolished thought called forest of Ashok Van, lit up the great fire called Silence, burnt down sorrow called city of Lanka. Then Atma who is Rama got energized, built the bridge called Nischal tathwa (perfect equanimity), welcomed Satva called Vibhishan, destroyed Tamas called Kumbhakarn. Vairagya called Lakshman became unconscious due to weapon called Illusion (Bhrama), gained consciousness by Nishta (devotion) called the herb Sanjivini, contradiction called Indrajit got removed. With the help of good thoughts called monkey army, with arrows called Jnana, all bad habits called demons got destroyed. Then faced the Rajas called Ravan, severed the ten senses called ten heads and destroyed the ego. After that, took the hand of Sita called bliss that arose from the fire of silence, became Parabrahman, reached city of Ayodhya called liberation, ruled the kingdom called direct experience of Brahman. This is the essence of the very deep secret of Ram Naam, and Ramayan. Lastly, recognize one truth. Fill yourself with universally appropriate feeling that he is pervading in every Jivi (individualized soul), in every thing, and break your gunas with Rama Nama, and offer tributes to the real devotion (bhakti)!

35) If life becomes impassable, what are we to know, understand, Swami?

Musk deer not knowing that the fragrance is coming from itself it runs all over the field. It smells every blade of grass passionately before letting it go. No flower smells like the smell it desires, in the end it gets exhausted. So without turning its nose towards itself, no matter how much it goes through the plants in the orchard, the birth place of that fragrance never gets known to that animal. In the illusion that you know everything, you also search for peace, Paramatma, just like that dumb animal in all kinds of places and get exhausted. In that search by the time you experience, understand everything, you reach your last moments and leave helplessly. To know that there is nothing anywhere you search all over. You must search! Let it be related to worldly relationships, or related to God. For, that failed effort in the end makes you prudent, wise. A sadhak who takes shelter under a Guru, travels the path indicated by Guru, then his path is made easier by the Guru who himself will explain where you need to go? How long will it take to reach? What is there on the way that will trouble you?. For that, Guru will come down lower than your level, performs many dramas and takes you towards the goal. You must have that faith and confidence (nammakam, viswasam). Without that, if one play acts while in the position of disciple, then the goal also becomes a drama. A Guru is one who can, not only externally, but can examine one internally also. As a disciple one has limitations. When disciple realizes those limitations then he will develop obedience. Only then he will recognize his state and stage and will be able to savor the fragrance within himself. Else, see the bird sitting on the sail of a boat, it did not observe the boat moved from the river into the ocean. Later when it recognized it, it flew northward to reach the shore. Could not see the shore. Returned back to the sail of the boat. After resting a bit, it flew southward. Could not reach shore there either. Tired, returned back to the boat. After resting a bit, it traveled towards east then towards west. Could not see the shore in either direction. In the end it sat peacefully on the sail. Just like that bird, for attainment of bliss you all turn towards wealth and prosperity, towards name and fame, towards position and authority, towards relationships and bondages. You keep on running towards them till you get tired, and then much later somewhere along the way, you finally understand that bliss of Atma is the lasting real happiness. Instead if you screamed "O God, where?" and shed thousand tears, Paramatma melts and responds consolingly saying "I am here, I am here". So says this Pavan Kumar again and again that these are facts, truths (sathyalu) !

neither heaps of wealth, nor heaps of grain

36) How is Sakar Bhakti (devotion of a form), Swami?

Suppose there is unlimited amount of water, that is great ocean. Cannot see the shore. Here and there in the water there are icebergs. They get formed due to extreme cold. Exactly in the same way due to Bhakti (devotion) called cold, vision of God with form occurs. Do not nurture disbelief or doubt about God's form. Have the faith and belief that there is a form. After that whichever form appeals to you, meditate on that. Just like me a devotee is one, a God is one, I am one, you are one. Body is like a large vessel. In that there is water called mind, intellect, ego. Brahman is like Sun. It reflects in that water. Because of that a devotee can have vision of God's form. God has become Jivas (individual souls), and world (Jagat). God gives vision in the form of pure consciousness. First get the vision (darshan) of God. Both formful and formless! He who is beyond mind, words, he gives vision (darshan) with form for devotees, speaks to them also. God is with form and formless too. Above that he is beyond both form and formless. He is infinite thoughts, feelings, emotions (Bhavamaya), infinitely powerful. But, Devotee likes to see God as a person. That is why, God takes a form and gives darshan. Whatever form devotee wishes to see, he takes up that form. As human, as Devata (Demi gods), as bird, as an animal ... whatever the form wished for he gives darshan in that form. God's forms are infinite. He is the doer of creation - sustenance - dissolution. His Aishwarya is infinite (prosperity, greatness). He is rich with entire Gunas. To suppress evil, wears all kinds of weaponry as the situation calls for. He takes on fearful forms. But, he comes to the devotees in peaceful and beautiful form. Prahalada prayed to fearful form of Narasimha (man-lion form) to take on a benevolent form. Arjun prayed to Krishna to withdraw his fearful form and put on his prior peaceful form. Today this Anjaneya is also same! Anjaneya pahimaam (surrender), Sathya Sai pahimaam (surrender)! This pavan kumar's work is to protect the one who pleaded and surrendered. Even in the world parents control their anger, forgetting position and prosperity, they cuddle their children. A devotee is very dear to God and is like his own child. God is very soft hearted, like a child. In front of devotees he gives darshan taking up a form. What other proof do you need? Therefore, you travel directly towards your goal !

37) Swami, what is the cause for us not reaching the goal ?

The main reason for you not traveling directly to your goal is your mind's restlessness. When you proceed towards one, wanting it, your mind should not get diverted to something else. Your priorities should not change. Once the eye of an Eagle latches onto a serpent, and picks up speed towards that, then there is no possibility of its eye diverting from it. A leopard once it picks up speed after a deer, no matter how many other animals it encounters, it does not divert its eye. That is what perseverance is ! Many among you have a thought every moment. Recognize that God is trying to transform you all the time, select the one you want and attain the real victory. Not only that, do not let go what you take up till you reach the end. Human birth has to travel the six changes through the sorrow filled wheel - Asthi (existence), Jaayathe (birth), Vardhate (growth), Viparina-mathe (change), Apakshiyate (decline), Mruyathe (death). Although the body undergoes all these changes, the Atma in our inner self stays still without any change. To let go of the body consciousness, and establish the mind constantly in the Atmic state, gaining firm foundation in inner purity is the cure !

38) Swami, what is the need for a sadhak to enhance humility?

Once in the court of a king a discussion on literature took place. Arguments ensued between two scholars over the usage of words. One scholar who had a good grip started arguing vigorously. Not only was he getting angry at other scholars who did not have as much understanding on the usage of words, he started belittling them, with sarcastic remarks and insulting them. King was observing all this and he said to those nearby him “One who has knowledge about a subject, when they understand that others do not have that knowledge and are making errors, they need to restrain themselves and with compassion must show calmness. An expert is turned into an aspirant by humility”. This attribute (guna) is an additional sharpening tool to your talent (pratibha). Quite often you all are just like that egoistical scholar, limiting yourself to your talent, with your pretentiousness without humility, are unable to grow as aspirants (sadhaks). Like someone said, in this world in fact there is nothing that stops for anyone. Nothing is dependent on any one person. Everyone of you must realize that your loss is not that important that it cannot be filled by someone else !

39) Swami, what is the effect of samskars (tendencies) on a sadhak ?

You need to recognize the bad thoughts in your minds, and need to set them right then and there. Else, it is difficult to move forward in spiritual life. Knowing your own swabhava (nature) is good for you. In the mind many samskars (tendencies, vasanas) are hidden. Some good, some bad. In ordinary worldly life these samskars are in a way restrained. But, once decided to lead a detached spiritual life, bad samskars get activated and start a counter attack. Because, in spiritual life the opportunity door for the natural manifestation of those samskars gets closed. That is why, the samskars that were gentle and mild prior to spiritual life, seemed cooperative without clashing, after that decision the very same samskars begin counter attacking and start bothering. In the lives of many sadhaks this is what happens. In this manner a battle ensues. Anyone who surrenders to the bad samskars quickly, for them this battle, fight is over. But, those who fight with these bad samskars, and continue their spiritual life with firm determination, they will be victorious in tackling these bad samskars. Because, they have the strength of God's love, devotion, and sadhu sangatyam (satsang). Therefore if sadhana is practiced with discipline and devotion for some years, mental disturbances decline steadily and the spiritual life proceeds more smoothly !

40) Swami, How long should one do Sadhana (spiritual practices) ?

One devotee asked Swami, "Swami! I had been doing Japam (chanting) of the mantra given by my Guru for last 12 years. How much more time should I do?" Swami said immediately "Do the Japam till you lose the feeling that you are doing it". Man does not forget 'I'. Likewise, he does not forget the '12 years' ! In the temple while doing 108 pradikshanas (circumambulations around inner shrine), is your attention more on God or on the number count? Majority of people if replying honestly would say 'on number count'. But after the pradikshana one kind of satisfaction is left over. You tell others that you did 108 pradakshinas. It is an entry into your Bhakti account. But, in fact real satisfaction is not in that number or in telling others. As your inner conscience gently tries to tell you to forget the count, instead think of God, you trying to subdue it, is that appropriate ?

41) Swami, In sadhana what is the importance of planning to reach goal ?

Over a long period of time the keenly interested aspects that you wish to attain, resolve and make them your goals. To reach the decided goals, divide them into stages - short, medium, and long term - and make the effort to attain them. In fact to attain a desired goal making one's utmost effort is not enough. There is no guarantee of what is aspired can be attained even with determined effort. Along with effort, determination to attain the selected goal, you need a plan that shows the stages and direction. Planning means observing the future you are dreaming in the present. Planning is a colored picture of your desires and ideals. Entwined with time, raising many questions, planning warns you on one side, while shows you progress on the other side. Enthuses you, energizes you, and it makes you step forward. Otherwise, due to Seva and God's grace even if desires are fulfilled far exceeding the expectations, you do not get satisfied and keep worrying. If anyone utters a negative word, you keep thinking about it and feel bad. Many of you stay in this mental state. A derogation that occurred a while back, but you keep on remembering and feel bad. If opportunity is there, then that is enough to start pouring out your bitterness. Even if someone says that it transpired a while back and why now? yet you won't listen. Why so much turmoil? If it is truth, correct it, if not let it go thinking it to be words with no substance. Only then you will get peace !

Important things

1. One common man after undergoing great difficulties got the audience of the King. That King asked him what do you want? He said pumpkins, watermelons. What can I say?
2. If no matter how much this body is cleaned, it gets dirty again, is known, then a kind of disgust develops. This feeling leads to detachment (vairagya). If one's own body is repulsive, then how does one have attraction to others bodies?
3. Those who do not give a handful of food to a hungry person, how can they seek liberation? Those who feel dirty even by the whiff of air coming from others, how will they purify others?
4. When meditating on God, the procedure is one begins with vision of the feet and work up to the face. Abhisekam (bath) to God is done from above the head. When worshipping or pleading to God, they prostrate to the feet. This means, there is no differentiation of foremost place and last place. Then, the humans created from the cosmic form of God, why the differentiation, distinction among them?

5. Without adapting good values, good feelings, good gunas, what is the use of doing Stotras, Shlokas, Pujas, songs, vows, rituals or memorizing them ?

42) While performing Karma how to suppress ego, Swami?

Do not feel proud that it is your greatness or that you have great skill and prowess when any great work gets done, or whenever you do good work that is praise worthy by scores of people. You must think of it as God's play. Because, for the benefit of world when any work gets decided and work begins, or when conducting a divine program, as you get closer to them with pure heart and selflessness, the energy transmitting from you gets increased. Manifestation of that energy is dependent on your degree of dedication to the program or activity. Either their need or your need for them gets complete, then that's it ! That energy stops transmitting. In the night when you are done with kitchen work you turn off the lights. When you are done with family room activity, you turn off the lights. You turn on the lights as you go to bedroom. As you get ready to sleep, you turn off that light. Likewise, wherever as soon as the work is complete, that energy stops. You don't need to feel insulted thinking that you are so weak, incapable now, earlier you did such great work and what happened to you now? If you felt insulted like that, then that is only ego. If you felt insulted thinking that for such a long time I was a very energetic person, then it means there is ego feeling. Therefore, entire energies, ingenuities are God's. You must stay as yourself, free of ego, detached, thinking that you are incidental and just an instrument in the hands of God. You can understand how strange is the play conducted by destiny, and how powerful destiny is by the following incident. Ordinarily every person when occasion arises speaks as follows. When someone gives work to do and says "how are you going to do? Do it carefully". He replies "ok, sir! You don't have to worry? I will pour my entire energy, ok?" This statement indicates that he has some great energy or power, and he is going to pour all of those into that work. But, do you really have energy, power? Not there. But, each piece of work that we do gets done greatly, isn't it! True, based on the work you do those energies, power are manifesting through you. When any program is undertaken, or started a work selflessly so that it is useful to a score of people, whatever energy, power needed to fulfill that work is manifesting through you. For those works, whatever energy is needed to that degree they manifest. That is, the power, energy manifested is not based on you, but based on the work being performed. When you don't know that, you are in the illusion that you have or possess that energy, power. That is why, periodically you get egotistical. But the fact is, when work is undertaken to please God, or for social goodwill, God manifests through you the needed energy, and skill. Once that work is complete those skills and energy are withdrawn by God. That is, you must realize you are a tool in the hands of God, a mere agent. You must operate with that knowledge. When energy and skill transmits through you, you need to worship them. If capable of worshipping like that, God will utilize you for social benevolent programs, God ordained activities to the extent needed. When that work is complete, those energies, skills will stop manifesting through you. One must take that as God's command. In the current times the great soul who experienced this state is father of the nation Mahatma Gandhi, who with a body of skin-and-bone, born in a vaishya caste, tied up the handloom cloth covering his body (kollayi), attracted the people and could make the entire nation walk behind him, that is all divine energy, power. God selected that individual and conducted God's work. As soon as that work got completed, he stopped just like Arjun did. Then God said in the form of Godse (God say), your work is done, come back. See ! Even the name perfectly exactly fits the purpose ! God's language is strange at the same time miraculous. When, how, and through who, gets said to whom !!

43) What must we know to experience Atmic principle (tatva) and let go of body consciousness, Swami?

When you peep into a tank with water you see your reflection in it. What would you say? You say it is 'me'. But when you discriminate, you will know that you are not 'that', 'that' is me but I am not 'that'. You are calling the reflection as 'me' because of body illusion. If that is punished with a stick by many people, you don't get hurt. But, if someone criticizes the reflection, you will get angry. Upon punishing it physically no hurt, but if it is criticized anger arises. When punished it is not me, but when abused then it is me. This is the secret of Vedanta. When heart and Atma Tatva (principle) is kept as one, anyone with any suffering is also mine. But, in body consciousness, whatever might happen to them, it is not me. This expansion of thoughts and teachings occur due to Vedanta. Searching for mistakes among the people you live, weakens your spiritual firmness and resolutions. Therefore you must practice seeing only their good characteristics and not pay attention to other characteristics. This world is filled with shortcomings. Others can see your flaws too. Hence, it is best for you to notice your own faults and set them right!

44) Swami, How to reduce bad samskars ?

Love your Guru. Treat his work as worship (pooja). You need to surrender to his lotus feet. You should try to become worthy of his merciful glance. Once you attain faith in the word Guru and Guru's feet, then they must not be left at any time or under any circumstances. Mind should be turned towards energizing thoughts. If done that way, one can withstand the chasms of bad samskars. In this sadhana sequence bad samskars are weakened slowly and steadily. Remember one thing well. You chose this spiritual life. No one forced you into it or pleaded. Therefore, initially some bad samskars might trouble you, but by leading a sanctified life all those will slowly get wiped out. You must make your spiritual sadhana life successful. To travel in this spiritual life you have to further firm up your mind. With firm resolution if you lead a sanctified life, Guru's blessings will be on you. You will definitely gain success in the spiritual life. When mind is firm, external words and actions do not disturb you. Firm attitude of restraining mind is the foundation of firm personality. In fact the disturbance caused by others is very minor. But, your mind increases it by ten fold and agitates over it. If you can stop searching for opposite meanings in others words and actions and feel anguish over it, then no disturbance will occur to your peace !

45) Swami, what are the disciplines (niyama) a sadhak must follow ?

In an ashram a satsang was going on. A female devotee came late to that. After the satsang, Guru looked at the devotee and asked what is the reason for coming late to the satsang. She said "Swami ji ! I did not keep an eye on the time. That is why I got delayed." Swami ji said looking at her "when one wants to go to something they like, they keep looking at the watch again and again. You came late to this one indicates that you do not have keen interest (asakti) in it." Guru ji was not merely speaking about punctuality, he followed it with great discipline and steadfastness. Without fail he would watch time and exactly reach the discourses, and gatherings. Swami ji expected the time discipline from devotees. One morning some folks who met Swami ji said "we have an incubator. There we put the eggs in it. Provide the needed food and other things. But, out of them some come out as crows, and some as cuckoo birds. What am I to do in that !". One female devotee immediately questioned "Swami ji, can you change a crow into a cuckoo?" Swami ji smiled and said "that is definitely not possible for me. Whatever samskar one has, their conduct will be in accordance of that". Then the devotee asked "Swami ji, can we change our samskars?". Swamiji replied "If you make effort, samskars can be changed steadily. Through satkarmas (good, selfless actions) combined with sadgunas (good values, characteristics) bad samskars can be overcome". Then Swami ji smiled and said "one should have taken birth along with God's grace. There are many disciples who had God as Guru. Should have been born with their nearness." One of them immediately said "at least we are born in your time !" and everyone laughed. Then Swami ji clarified it further "You see! Many go to a Guru. Make an effort for spiritual progress. But, only few get the benefit. Do you know what the reason is? First, individual's samskar. Second, shradha (unwavering faith). Real jignasus (keen seekers) alone attain higher spiritual states through sadhana" !

46) Swami, like to know about the Shat-chakras (six chakras) in the body ?

As a sadhak proceeds in the field of sadhana he gets to know that there are six chakras in the body. The one lowest chakra of yoga is at the bottom at excretory organ and is called Muladhara. Second one is at the reproduction organ or Svadishtana. Third at navel or Manipurak. Ordinarily due to the mind of a worldly person staying in one of these three chakras, they stay interested in Ahar (food), Nidra (sleep), Maithunam (sex). Fourth chakra is at the heart location. When a sadhak's mind turns upward (higher) and attached to higher ideals then his mind reaches this fourth chakra. During meditation in that heart position one experiences the presence of a topsy turvy (adhomukham) lotus. With the contact of Kundalini the lotus leaves open upwards. There is a danger of the mind turning downward from this state. Because of that the sadhak must make effort day and night to keep the heart lotus petals turned upward. When mind thoughts are vibrating upwards (higher), meditation becomes natural. Due to cessation of thoughts, breathing in and out get bound to a discipline. Fifth chakra is in the throat, and Sixth is in between the eyebrows. When sixth chakra is reached, a lit up form of preferred deity's vision is experienced. Sahasrahara is when you penetrate the sixth chakra. Once one gets there, mind dissolves and state of Samadhi is attained. All this happens due to Guru's grace. Guru's touch, Guru's feet begets you matchless divine Jnana. To understand this inner meaning, this much of subject knowledge containing message had to be shared!

wake up! wake up! wake up from slumber

47) Swami, what is the necessity of laugh or humor ?

One person was well versed in literature. He went to North India for a program. There he came across a scholar (pandit). In conversation pandit mentioned that he is writing a commentary on Tulsi Das's Ramcharita Manas. Further, he mentioned that he and Tulsi Das have a similarity and because of that he decided to take up this composition. Those who were listening did not understand that and they asked in surprise "What is similarity between you two?" Then that pandit said a little proudly that 'he also stays serious, reserved like Tulsi Das all the time. Apparently Tulsi Das learned that from Hanuman ji. Therefore, no matter how much you try to make me laugh, I will not laugh at all'. The one well versed in literature always used to entertain the assembly with humor. Therefore he was speechless when he heard the pandit. He thought what kind of a person is this who did not even bring a smile to his face. Nearly for the last 20 years that person did not laugh at all. He felt bad that how much anguish did Tulsi Das feel with this kind of person writing commentary on his Ramayan, and Hanumanji feel for being taken as an example! Recollecting this incident in an assembly he said that 'I did not know whether to laugh or cry for that pandit understanding the equanimity of Tulsi Das in that way. That is why when he asked me to give my opinion on his composition, I did not want to get infected with 'no laugh' disease, hence I declined.' Among Navarasalu (9 emotions) most healthy Kala (art, skill) is humor! In this entire creation human is the only one living being that can laugh freely, genuinely. Pollution free laughter is an evidence of purity of mind. Human is in fulness only in a smile. Even if a person does not have any wealth and prosperity but has the characteristic of laughing happily, then that gives him as much splendor as decorating with nine precious gems. But, humor is not to be used excessively. You can laugh by speaking hurtfully to others. But the one who heard it feels bad. With your speech both you and the other person should be able to laugh. One Guru used to speak very humorously. Whenever he got an opportunity he used to crack jokes upon himself and used to make the surrounding environment enjoyable. Once he referring his large body said "my large body is a great protection, do you know? When I was younger I used to swim freely in the river, did you know that no crocodile would come near because they were afraid to eat my body?". This is gentle and soft humor. It is an indicator of his purity, simplicity. As much healthy, entertaining humor is, mockery ridicule excessive laughter are as much harmful. But many of you think satire, sarcastic remarks as quick witted replies and get caught in arguments. You attack other peoples feelings due to loathing, hate. In fact humor needs to be associated with civility, culture, and either directly or indirectly should not hurt anyone. Just because laughter is entertaining, one must not laugh all the time without occasion or timeliness becoming a clown, and not end up becoming a target of ridicule. While protecting your dignity, share and receive healthy humor, lead the life enjoying 'Anando Brahma (Bliss is Brahman)' !

48) Swami, what is the prominence of forbearance ?

Those were the days when Pandavas were facing all kinds of difficulties by coming to live in the forest for 13 years, due to losing in the evil gambling game of chess to Duryodhan. One day Markandeya Muni (sage), who with ceaseless tapas (penance) burnt down his entire karmas, came to them. He praised Dharmaraj's great attributes "O son of Dharma! It is my prior life's left over good karma by which I am getting this good fortune of seeing you. Yayati, Vainya, Naabhagudu like kings ceaselessly ruled according to Dharma and reached to high heavens. By following Shakuni's evil plans, adopting the path of Adharma (non-righteousness), king Dhritarashtra got such an ill repute that another king like him cannot be found. You are the best among the courageous (Dhira Varenya) who did not breach the path of Truth. Your desire will be fulfilled soon" so saying blessed him. Draupadi heard that and unable to see the great difficulties husbands are going through, and with pain complains against God by saying "O husband! Letting go of hatred towards enemies and following the timidest path of austerities/ penance, is this Dharma of kings? Forbearance is a characteristic that needs to be shown based on situation, but when used all the time it stops being a good quality. Like little children playing with toys, God is having fun with this world's living beings. That is all, he is not treating with love and affection like parents, siblings and giving protection and respect. Good people are getting subjected to great afflictions, difficulties. Bad people are brimming with pleasures and prosperity. To Anantha (God) Anaryas (inhuman) have become relatives". Without reacting to that complaint, with calm face said soberly, "Draupadi ! Anger can bring downfall. Destroys discrimination (viveka). A discriminating person (viveki) puts out the fire of his anger with the waters of knowledge and understanding. We have become known for ceaselessly following Dharma, and for us to go on the path of anger is not right. One with the quality of forgiveness is the real hero. There is nothing that is not possible for one with the quality of forgiveness." Hearing those words Draupadi realized her mistake " I am not foolish to deviate from the path of Dharma. But, only through karma anything can be accomplished. I said that Kshatriyas (warrior class) with their prowess should subjugate the enemies who did injustice." Bhima supported her statement. But, Dharmaraj gave his word to do thirteen years of forest dwelling, and to honor that word he asks them to have tolerance and patience.

What did you understand from this discussion? For humans what is the evidence of strength? What is the characteristic of the weak? One can know what is Dharma, what is Adharma, what is duty, what is dereliction of duty in a variety of situations. In families, in society struggles are considered to be the indicators of progress. Creating an environment lacking in peace. Fail to know that there is no happiness in lack of peace. Man is made powerful by not having ego, following through commitments, forbearance, forgiveness, tolerance, love, sacrifice, service, kindness, equanimity, purity. Differences in one person to another is the degree of these qualities in them. Being a king, Dharmaraj while undergoing unbearable difficulties did not lose his balance. Likewise, Sri Ram, my Ram, went to forest underwent myriad of difficulties, but did not say a word to mother Kaikeyi or father Dasaratha. This tolerance proves the powerfulness of a person. Nowadays the difficulties you undergo, are they really difficulties? For them you yourself generate a fire in your samsara (life). You are losing your peace. Deceases that come to 'body' are not contagious. Diseases that sticks to 'mind' are the dreadful contagious disease. Ill health can be cured after sometime with medicines and doctor's advice. But, the other disease not only won't reduce but will turn you upside down, show its ferocity and ruins you. Don't fall under its feet. With discernment, detachment, forgiving heart, the day when one is able to forgive, know that you are taking spiritual steps. Man can make his own the principles of infinite and bliss (Ananta-tatvam, Amruth-tatvam) when he lets go of obstacles to peace, which is the limited individuality of identification with one's own body as 'I'. It will become his swabhava (nature). If one lives all the time with this goal, human becomes a Mahapurush (great holy person), Rishi (sage) !

49) How to go from narrow mindedness to broad mindedness, Swami?

God's breeze of grace is always flowing. This Abhay-anjaneya is giving you a guarantee saying, all that you need to do is raise the sail of your boat. You who are enjoying God's protection every second, cannot attain total surrender (sampoorna sharanagati) without undergoing suffering and difficulties. Helping Jiva (individual soul) is helping Siva (cosmic consciousness). Entire creation is pervaded by Brahman. In entire living beings only one Brahman is shining. It is not kindness towards Jiva but feeling it is Shiva while helping. No matter what state anyone is in, preach goodness to them and turn them towards God. This is your duty. One Guru used to preach to his disciples that everything is pervaded by Brahman. One disciple used to keenly listen to Guru's words. He used to speak highly about spiritual things. He used to observe Guru's actions every second. He did not see any greatness in him. Guru purposely used to hide his wisdom, without abiding much in the external spoken things, but used to observe the disciples mental state. Once while doing fire ceremony (Yajna), one naive person, who did not know what Yajna was, came and lit his cigar. Disciple got angry and hit that person. Guru was watching but did not say anything. Seeing that, disciple got angry and said "what kind of Guru are you? Don't say anything and do not say what he did is prohibited?" Then Guru said "He is a naive person. Since he is ignorant, first thing to be shown is kindness with discernment. Secondly he is also of Brahman nature. Knowing that there is nothing else but Brahman yet you hit him, that is ignorance". This opened the disciple's eyes. Ordinarily no matter how much they know about the principle of Brahman (Brahma tatvam), they are over interested in externalities, in external things,. A person is not called a devotee just because they are wearing a japa mala (rosary), smearing the forehead with marks, or bathing many times a day or by offering a basket full of flowers to a deity. Whosoever's mind, life breath (prana), sub conscious (chitta), intellect, ego are totally engrossed in God, who does not have the feeling I am so and so, who sees God all the time, in fact those are the Bhaktas. Those are the ones who attained Brahma Jnana (experience of Brahman). That is, those who do not have desire or dislike for external objects, chanting the name of God, contemplating over his Leelas/ sport, sharing them, who are immersed in them, those are the real devotees (Bhaktas). In hog plum fruit there are skin, meat, and seeds. When seed and skin are thrown away what is left is fruit meat. But, to know the weight of the fruit, skin and seeds are to be accounted also. Likewise, discarding the world of Jiva (neti, neti - not this, not this) must reach Sat-Chit-Ananda (existence - awareness - bliss). After that, one gains the feeling that entire Jiva world is Sat-Chit-Ananda itself. Wherever the fruit meat came from, the skin and seeds came from the same place. Butter from butter milk, butter is actually a part of butter milk. If you get direct experience of God, he is the cosmic soul, he is everything, and he is the infinite Sat-Chit-Ananda. After that one understands that oneself has become this entire Jiva world !

50) Swami, what is the necessity of perseverance in attaining a goal ?

In this generation many people are not moving forward by persevering till the end. With some excuse or other, they are letting it go. After initial enthusiasm they are turning back half way through from the victory. Primary reason for that is your lack of focus and concentration on your goal. Not only that but do not have the perseverance to see it to the end and not let it go. Once work taken up, continue till you complete the work. As soon as your friends instigate, you turn the other way. Some call themselves as well wishers. They desire your short term convenience (Preyas) instead of your longterm benefit (Shreyas). Failing to understand or unable to understand, lacking belief, you lose whatever gained by diverting away from the path. Spiritual journey is a journey in aloneness. In that journey mother, father, relatives, friends, none can accompany. Only one who can show the way is Guru. Do not let go of Guru. If you do not know what you need, or what you are wanting, then who is your saviour? Those who constantly try to change you, or make you forget, extracting and attaining what you need out of that is true victory. Your perseverance must be so strong that you don't see anything but your goal. Thoughts spread out like spilled mustard seeds. Then it is quite difficult to gather them up. It is time to make the effort to bring a change in the thought process and make it a part of sadhana. By describing such things again and again, it becomes easier to grab your attention. Even for difficult things, you get inspiration to try as hard as you can. Strength is life. A clear ideal for having strong firm thoughts should be there. Need to move forward with firm dedication by making thoughts into plans worthy of implementation !

51) Your teachings of Jnana are greatly helpful to us. Many gratitudes, Swami ?

Understanding the actual circumstances faced by today's sadhaks in their sadhana, what are the things to be explained, to what degree they need to be illustrated, considering the realities and current situations, this Anjaneya is teaching all those things that need to be taught. You need to think deeply of the step you are taking and proceed. This is the time to wake up before opportune time passes. If you contemplate once on the things Guru has said, by keeping that feeling in your mind, you will get to know how to perform your responsibility. There is no need to lose sleep, or food over this !

52) Swami, What is the necessity of sufficient sleep ?

Sleeping early, waking up early yields health, discrimination, prosperity. Two hours of sleep after midnight is equivalent to one hour of sleep before midnight, therefore stop all work by evening and even if you can't pray, but sleep by night. Otherwise there is a danger of forgetting to live. A Guru taught his disciples "There are no awake, dream, deep sleep states for a Jnani. Everything is Turiyam (pure consciousness)". Disciple who heard that asked Guru with a doubt, "I heard you snoring in your sleep". Guru replied "Yes. I heard that snore too. Keeping eyes open all the time they get tired, hence need to close them for sometime. That is why I close them". No matter what, one cannot understand the states of Mahatmas (great holy ones) without doing some spiritual sadhana.

Instead of getting a headache worrying over shortage of sleep, it is better to meditate. Ordinarily meditation is quite difficult for ordinary people. That is why, tiredness crops up and in a second sleep occurs. Few who carelessly threw away their sleep, seek shelter in sleeping pills or intoxicating substances. If sleep is like flying into the sky, then drowning in intoxication is like jumping into abyss. As long as one is floating in the air it is fun, thrilling. But, once touching the ground, it is practical hell. Therefore, with good sleep habits give training to the mind and make your life a breeze !

53) What spiritual progress is attained by disciple in the company of Guru, Swami?

In the presence of Guru, sadhaks (aspirants) give shape to their ideals and objectives. They proceed making the impossibilities into possibility. In the initial stages the support given by Guru gives great amount of inspiration. Guru creates an opportunity for the disciple to make their dreams manifest. Guru's support gives rise to vows (diksha) that makes even an ordinary student attain extraordinary results. They grow to a certain stage by crossing the tests in the disciplines taught by Guru. Without dandana (punishment), deservedness to receive dandam (obeisances) does not occur. That is, when you are getting recognized by others with obeisances, means your samskars (good characteristics) have improved! For their growth Guru helps without your knowledge. That namaskar (obeisance) is for the Guru! If you think it is for you then it means your ego is not subsided yet. Those who perform undertaken work philosophically, selflessly, dedicatedly, with conviction, as a responsibility of the Guru, they will shine as ideal representatives and torch bearers to future generations. Even for Mahatmas (great holy ones), direction setting by Gurus is very necessary. Disciples are like their own children for Gurus. Gurus are so kind that even-though not natural born, they take care of their disciples with far more compassion. Guru's role is noble and exemplary. Because parents responsibility towards their children is only so far. They can only fulfill the needs of food, shelter, clothing, physical education. Guru who is in the position of God along with these, he initiates spiritual contemplation, sets direction for life and gets them to reach the destination. Today without any blood relation, Swami's (Sathya Sai Baba) love the way it is entwining you two in bondage of love and taking care of you like eye lid does the eyes, is a matter of great rejoice. His love should not go waste. You who are being moulded in his hands must rise to lofty heights, pay off your runam (debt), become diamonds out of dirt, and must stand as evidence, example to the world! This plant which is in the role of Guru and mother, is in two roles, that is in mother's role the fruits borne by the (spiritual) tree are fed as nectarine food and satiate hunger, and in Guru's role sustaining all the flowers and buds to become fruits, then that child's duty is to supply sadhana as water. Even this Hanuman, from the second he entered into the stage of sadhana had to face hurdles. First mother Anjani devi had to get distanced. Became closer to mother Sita. A huge disturbance, worry ensued in the kingly palace. On top I am not a human, but a monkey, why this much importance to him? I was always near Lord Rama and that raised lot of whispers among officials of the kingdom. I had to face many many like these. They with their evil made many schemes to distance me from Lord Rama. But my resolve was very great. Nothing could withstand against my resolve. The way I held onto the Guru's and Sadguru's feet made this Anjaneya chiranjeevi (eternal), and made him into a spiritual Guru forever. Thinking that it will be of use to you, I presented you a page from the Anjaneya's life book !

54) Swami, how to increase the intense longing for God ?

There is a thief in a room. Somehow he found out that there are hordes of gold in the next room. There is only a wall between the two rooms. What is the situation of that thief? He cannot sleep, he cannot eat, he cannot drink. His mind is totally preoccupied with how to steal that gold. When someone believes fully that the quarry of bliss, heaps of grace, splendor of God are all here on this earth, can they stay without making effort to attain that God? As soon as one believes that God is here, then that very second he would madly want to attain him. The one who realizes that there is a great life beyond their current life, realizes that these senses are not everything, realizes that this transient life is not better than the deathless, permanent Atmic bliss, then he would get mad to attain that eternal bliss by himself. I say that kind of mad thirst is the wake up call for ceaseless effort. One who gets that state becomes the one who acquired Jnana. It is like the salt doll goes to measure the depth of ocean but gets dissolved in it !

55) When the aim of Atma Jnana is not working, what other sadhanas to do to attain Vairagya (detachment), Swami ?

Once a devotee entreated one Jnani "Swami! Please sanctify my newly purchased car by sitting in it". That Jnani right away said "I am already sitting in a vehicle (body)". There are very few great souls who attained Atma Jnana. It may not be that easy for everyone to attain that state. But, if you conduct yourself as if you are not this body, all your issues get resolved. In fact the real cause for your jealousy-hatred, ego and possessiveness, greed-attachment, anger-fury, fear-tension, concern-rigidities, is forgetting that life on this earth is short and transient. It is ok if you did not have the experience that this body is separate from the Atma. Your possessiveness (mamakar) disappears when the feeling of when this body falls off where does the bird in this cage flies to, starts to occur in your mind. Only then you will be able to play your role capably in this drama called world, and become those courageous ones who exit happily !

56) Swami, What are the effects of Ari Shadvargas (six bad qualities) ?

In the life journey your mind praises quite often about how the past was glorious. Unable to know future, mind gets suffocated and out of fear gets tortured. No matter how much it is taught it stubbornly does not want to travel the path of living in the present. How strange? Just like a wave that rose spontaneously very high, endless desires keep rising. When others do well envy-hatred bursts forth. Mind suffers thinking your life is still like a lump of mud. If someone feels sympathy at your troublesome situation, your ego rises up hissing and rebukes them. Burns up with jealousy. To listen to good advice it has no interest, on the other hand does not hesitate to criticize others in any circumstance. This is the first step. Then what moves around in them constantly is anger. Considering everyone as enemies and keep increasing anger with hostile ideas, become cause for many troubles and calamities. Increases greed feelings to the degree of not giving a morsel to birds, attachment and lusty thoughts encourage one to commit sins. Success achieved in any field takes one closer to pride and jealousy. In this manner mind filled with Ari Shadvargas won't let mind walk the righteous path and blockades it from all directions. That is why there is no reading of good literature. No satsang. Spiritual teachings fall on deaf ears. And devotion is not visible even an iota. This Anjani Suta is strongly lamenting - who is that valorous person announcing with the sound of a conch his effort of blockading this awful mind, when is the cleansing of the sins, and turning towards God!

57) Swami, how is Guru's grace ?

With Guru's grace rustics, harsh people also can transform into great souls. Lives of Valmiki and Shabari are evidence. With Sage Narada's grace the highway robber Ratnakar got transformed into sage Valmiki. Mathanga Muni's grace turned the teenage girl Shabari into doing tapas. In the forests many sects called Kondalu, Koyalu, Chenchulu, Kiratakulu, Boya, Shabari used to hunt and do farming. Among them Boyas', Shabaris' used to strike and kill birds and sell them as their main living. Fourteen year old girl called Shabari used to hunt with projectiles, hit the birds, catch and carry them in a basket. In that forest at the bank of a river near a Banyan tree Mathanga Mahamuni (a great sage) ashram was there. Everyday Muni used to bathe in the river and worshipped the Sun God. Quite often on the path leading to the ashram, Shabari was seen striking the birds in the trees by the Muni. The bird hit with the arrow launched by Shabari used to writhe and fall down, its children with no wings and other birds used to cry, Muni used to hear it and used to create turmoil in his mind. Could not meditate. He was thinking, how to get Shabari to stop this violence? one day with God's will he saw a vision. Under a big tree a lion was groaning with pain and lied down with its mouth open. A peacock was taking out a thorn lodged in its mouth with its beak. The Muni was surprised to see this vision. Right away he had a thought come up in his mind. He wanted to show this vision to Shabari and get her violent nature removed. Then Mathanga Muni called Shabari who was launching arrows at birds, showed her the vision and said the following words of benevolence "Shabari ! Lion is a violent animal yet it was looking with gratitude at the peacock because it was relieving it of pain. Although there is the danger of death from Lion, peacock was removing the thorn stuck in its mouth with its beak and relieving its pain. What you need to know from this is, removing the affliction of those who are afflicted is Dharma. Hurting them is Adharma. Peacock did not care for fear of death, it is ok even if life is lost, it was removing Lion's affliction. Although peacock is its food, lion was looking at the peacock with gratitude and love because it was relieving its pain. One should not hurt others in any way. It is atrocious to kill dumb birds for the sake of food. Fruits from the trees, tubers, grains, cow's milk, and water from the river, are they not enough? Shouldn't you have the compassion that birds and animals have? Making living beings suffer for food is great sin." Shabari got Guru's preaching, Guru's grace, and servitude towards Guru. Since then she became a disciple of Mathanga Muni and undertook penances. After some time has passed, Mathanga Muni called Shabari and said "Mother! My time to shed body has arrived. I could not get the vision of Rama. But you will definitely have the good fortune of his darshan (physical vision)." So saying he blessed her and let go of his body. Would a Guru's word not get fulfilled? During his forest dwelling stage, Lord Rama came to Shabari ashram and absolved her. Getting Guru's grace means sanctification of human life !

58) To restrain thoughts what kind of precautions are to be taken, Swami?

A skillful sculptor taking his instrument, with lot of patience, puts in effort and carves the stones, then those stones take the form of beautiful sculptures. That is why this Anjaneya is saying, you are the stones and you are the sculptors. It is your responsibility to sculpt yourself and make yourself a beautiful sculpture. You not only need to transform your own future, but be able to mould the future of sadhaks who came near you. Need to step forward with good thoughts, with good action plans, and an exemplary sadhana direction. Every day on the average you have 50 - 60,000+ thoughts. Except by taking great care, else they keep coming like a flood. Those thoughts make a permanent home in your mind. If one is not careful about this daily ceaseless activity, these thoughts can divert you. Some due to experience, some due to samskar (tendencies), some due to subtle examination, some due to spiritual enquiry, your thoughts get you to be careful and not fall down. But, Guru's experiential Jnana, samskar, holy and good thoughts are definitely useful in the performance of one's responsibility based role.

59) What attributes must a sadhak have for attaining the goal, Swami ?

Victory is attained by those who are in a quest to know. Those who enquire spiritually, they would have an understanding of values. Those who can think in line with the scriptures, they would have the swabhava (nature) to make an effort for attainment of success. One must understand that it is necessary to have quest to learn, skill that is useful for learning, and dedication. Everyday a different thought, every month a different path means you will just stay put wherever you are. In every work, every goal there are issues and questions. Obstacles are encountered. If one gets fearful just by them, then no one can attain anything. Always move forward with firm goal, and unwavering Atma viswas (self confidence). If you retreat issues don't go away instead they get complicated. Becoming fearful just because one steps backward, cannot escape the problems. Those kind of people should travel the life journey always remembering courage, and God. Then God will definitely give them the needed courage and God's grace. Only yesterday a Guru was telling to his disciples, that I will share with you. This Maruthi thinks that it will increase your degree of confidence. That Guru shared about a wrestler who was a Hanuman devotee. In Calcutta an arrangement was made for a wrestling match between two wrestlers. One of them is great devotee of Maruthi named Hanuman Singh. Another one came from Punjab, a very strong wrestler. This one got his body ready for wrestling match fifteen days prior by eating butter, meat. On the other hand Hanuman Singh kept chanting Anjaneya's name, took limited amount of food and entered the match. Everyone thought that wrestler from Punjab was going to win. But, Hanuman who entered the match chanting Maruthi's name stood victorious. In this manner, even those who are not strong, if they surrender to God then there is no chance for defeat. Guru shared this with the disciples. The way God has given protection, for sure he will give shelter and support you. !

60) Swami, What is the prominence of Nama Smaran (chanting the name) ?

What are called Ari Shadvargas (six evil qualities) - Kama (desire), Krodha (anger), Moha (attachment), Lobha (greed), Mada (pride), Matsarya (jealousy) - are constantly enveloping man. Due to their effect thoughts get polluted. Life's journey becomes chaotic. To come out of such miserable state and change the thought process, Japa (name chanting) Dhyana (meditation) are good solutions. If you say, how to conquer desire? Where there is God's name, there is no place for desire. Once one gets habituated to chanting the name of God, then there is no chance for desire vasanas (tendencies) to arise in the mind. It might be possible in awake stage. But, while sleeping if desires pursue in the form of dreams, you might have a doubt saying then how to protect. Those who found how to do chanting of the name in those kind of dangers, day and night they do not leave it. Then just like breathing action, digestion action, even while sleeping the chanting of name continues. Efficacy of chanting name prevents dreams. Keeps body and mind pure. In case if any dreams do arise, power of chanting name wakes them up right away. Protects day and night. Bad thoughts lead man into ruin. To escape them and to purify those thoughts, need to get accustomed to the principle of love (prema tatvam). Be in the company of the holy people, saints (sadhujan). Only then you will be purified. Those kind of people get closer to God. Cleanliness and purity are related to body and mind. When mind and body are pure, worship gets concentrated (ekagra). If body is dirty, mind may not get concentrated. Likewise if mind is filled with pollution, body also may not be steady. That is why when body is cleaned through bathing, body gets energized and mind gets enthusiastic. Day and night body is secreting filth. That is why it needs to be purified with bathing at day break. Elders taught us the habit of finishing morning ablutions as soon as we wake up and then bathing. River bathing is even more beneficial. Because, flowing waters carry with them many kinds of salts and minerals. It is a kind of energy flow. By bathing in a river at day break, mind and body acquires consciousness energy. Due to bathing in a flowing river, entire body gets equal amount of pleasant touch. The coolness of the water alleviates the heat and stress in the senses. Superficially bathing process is considered to be for body cleaning, but purifies the activities of mind and speech. Enhances restraining power of senses. But, in many people under the guise of custom, have excessive madness for cleanliness. Many times they create turmoil saying “they touched this, they contaminated that”. As if suddenly they touched something dirty, or got contaminated, they keep bathing day and night without heed to time. Cause for such madness is mind that is contaminated. Mind loses sanctity due to committing terrible sin. Getting doubt about everything is an illness. Mind does not get sanctified due to that. It is not an ordinary thing to purify a polluted mind. These useless and mad customs turn into an obstacle to sadhana. That is why, at all times, always, by chanting name of God transformation of mind is definitely possible !

61) Swami, What are the precautions that need to be taken to face difficulties or tests of life ?

One young man was disregarding the entire world in his search for Truth. But, he was taking very lightly the way Guru was communicating, and Guru's words. He used not to like Guru's thoughts and feelings (bhav). He used to think strongly that he was very intelligent. His great intelligence could not mitigate his hunger pangs. On top of that, his spiritual thoughts got distanced. To consider Guru's words, his ego feeling became obstruction. After he had been away from Guru and God for sometime, he realized their value. He sought his Guru's shelter again. Guru did not consider his misdeeds, took him in, and ordered him to go to the temple and have darshan of the Lord. After his darshan of God, he could not ask for worldly desires. He tried that a few times. He understood very well that when one goes to a king (God) one must pray for gems (devotion, discrimination, detachment), and not pray for pumpkins (worldly needs). His Guru graced him and his family that they will not face any shortage of food and clothing needs. That youth felt relieved and with God's name and praise, continued his sadhana. In the journey to the highest, it is natural for everyone to undergo such tests. The difficulties and pressures that you encounter, all must be changed into spiritual ones. It means, the burden of worldly difficulties must be harmonized with the responsibility of higher spiritual goals. Then you will get answers for every question. Every problem will be resolved. Difficulties and pressures disappear. Then it is happiness every moment. When everything is improving, ego feeling engulfs as darkness. As you keep getting better than others, those who become hindrances you feel like suppressing them. In that manner at heights others can't reach, the freedom one gets makes their mind roam around irresponsibly. In situations where one needs to be humble they exercise their superiority. Mind falls into the illusion that the 'yes-men' are its close allies. It looks with suspicion at well-wishers who alert them. In the end even the God who is responsible for your life is concealed by mind. As long as we walk on the ground, everything proceeds seamlessly. But when acrobatics are done leaving the ground (support), situation loses its resolve. Whatever needs to be at what level, it should at that level only. Danger is when limits are exceeded. That is why request the creator to give you everything in limited quantities, and see that the situation does not lose its aim. Pray to him that he leave you only with that by which you and your everything can be known. Plead to him for only that much freedom by which you can get closer to God, and you can offer yourself to his love. Except for few karana janmas (purposeful births), many souls do not have the skill and capability to sustain the great boons given by God. That is why, you all with limited vessels, even if God gave undeserving charity (apatra danam), you go through many difficulties unable to digest them.

Not only many riches, recognition and name, but very large family and relations makes a person lose discrimination, forgetting what is right and wrong. Like that excessive relations lead to misunderstanding and trouble. Entanglement of many relatives takes you away from God's will. The faith God placed in you goes waste !

62) What are we to know from scriptures (shastra), Swami?

By nature your knowledge is divisive. Knowledge that sees differences. Because, you are in ignorance. Hence I and you are separate, he is separate - and you think that Paramatma is different from all of you. Due to this separate-separate called divisive vision, is why you are getting stuck in Jiva Bhava (body-mind feeling). And getting stuck in bondage of samsara (world). Becoming a part of birth-death. To remove this divisive vision (bheda drsthi), Jnana is needed. Scripture tells you the Truth. It only tells you, but experience does not come. Need your effort for that. Must do sadhana. There was an assembly going on. That scholar called upon one "let us know about your particulars". That person immediately got up and said, "I am a woman, fair in color. I have put on a dot on my forehead. Wearing a green color saree with a matching blouse. Wearing 4 gold bangles in right hand. A wrist watch on left hand, two rings to two fingers, 2 chains in the neck, earrings in ears. I am daughter of so and so, daughter-in-law of so and so, and spouse of so and so." Why all this? Whatever you said are already known to us, we are seeing with eyes ! If we have hindered vision then you need to tell that, narrow vision is seeing to the extent eye can see, but not able to see everything. If you think that what your eye can see is truth, then what is the need for scripture? Scriptures are there to tell you what you cannot see, make known the unknowable. To make known what you already know, then it is not called scripture. There is no need for scripture, or Guru to let you know what you already know. In a village there is a Guru who is well versed in duality philosophy. He is indeed a scholar in it. "Jiva is separate - God is separate. These two can never be one. A devotee can never become God. Devotee is devotee, God is God". So saying he was preaching duality traveling through many villages and cities, with his power of eloquent speech he was attracting lot of crowd. He was receiving at many places felicitations, new titles, and gifts. He was preaching like this and reached a village. There is a non-duality association over there. On that day the scholar got together a huge gathering and spoke eloquently. He was challenging the non-dual association saying "Jiva is Jiva, God is God. There is always difference in them." At that time a washer man was going by carrying a wash load on his shoulder. He thought of having darshan of the scholar for few minutes. During this time a person from non-duality association came up on the stage and called out the washer man. He came apprehensively on to the stage, bowed to the scholar and stood aside. Then that non-dual association person said to the washer man "Sir ! You are Parabrahma, Paramatma. You are God, Bhagwan" and paid obeisance to him. Washer man got shocked. Shivering with fear "Sir ! That's blasphemy! Where am I, a sinning human being, where is God? Blasphemy, great blasphemy! Please do not say that" so saying reprimanded himself. Then that person looked at the scholar said "Sir! Scholar! What you are saying is known to our washerman also. To tell that Jiva is separate, God is separate, where is the need for the scriptures, or scholarship? Our washer man is enough for that. Why do you have to come this far through all the difficulties? It is like digging a mountain to catch a rat, what you learned from all your study is what our washer man already knows". The scholar returned back the way he came. One must know the non-dual Jnana, infinite Jnana that gives liberation which releases one from entire sufferings. This Anjaneya's concern/ anxiety is for that. As Guru came to plough your field (mind). Plant the seed of good attributes and good character. Man must always have faith. It is very important. No one can say when does nammakam (faith) arise for whom, on whom, why, and when. Discussion and argument over it is a waste of time. But, faith creates miracles. Makes impossible into possible. This is true! First man must have faith on oneself. Then on God. Do you have that faith? If you do, then listen to Anjaneya's preachings and put them into practice !

63) Swami, What is Tapas? What are the paths of Tapas (austerities)?

Every person thinks that all the people, who they consider as their's, should stay with them forever. Knowing that it is not possible, they don't develop the Nissanga buddhi (detachment). He does not prepare himself for the bereavement. That is why, when whom he considers his own leave, he is subject to grief. Remembering the memories caused by attachment, goes into the past and grieves or passes his life reminiscing sweet memories. But he is not making an effort to understand that death is going to remove him from drama of life also, and the purpose of life is living using God as the support. That is your weakness, your drawback! You must come out of this drawback. Must practice detachment from association (sanga rahityam). Without identifying with anything, engage mind when needed, withdraw it from person, object, or incident as soon as thought occurs is Tapas. This is the land of Tapas. That is, this land is residence of people rich with Tapas (Tapo Dhanulu). Charity, kindness, meditation, Japa, sankirtan of God's name, helping others, study of good books, upholding truthful words, self control, all these are paths of Tapas, part of Tapas. All these can be practiced by everyone per their energy and desire. But the question is, are you considering these as wealth? If you consider these as wealth, practice will occur. Else, they all stay as words in a book. Because you are not considering these as wealth - seeking riches, pleasure which is totally contrary to this sadhana life; urgency that something needs to be experienced; grief that time is running out; agony that what was aspired is not accomplished; jealousy that someone else has more, greed; all these have penetrated into man's mind. That is why, journey of a Jiva has become very complicated. Your understanding of life is in chaos. A highway has been made for purposeful life. Leaving aside that highway, traveling in by-lanes, you are even forgetting that there is a highway and that you got lost. If you are on the path, one day or other you would reach the destination. When all paths are lost, where is the happiness for that person? Where is the peace? Fear and doubt destroys man. Taking the best of best ideal, one must deploy entire energies to practice that ideal !

64) It is said emulating (Anukarinchuta) is not good, Swami?

Real problem is comparing with others and feeling bad. God grants to everyone one or other elegance, and variety. Instead of feeling bad for what you do not have, one must learn to be happy with what they have. Actually in the path towards highest goal, areas one needs to compare and compete are Vairagya (detachment) and Pari Tapam (compassion). And not in the areas of talent, strength or scholarship. In the path of sadhana one must move in the direction of gaining freedom. By emulating others do not develop obstacles unnecessarily. Only then you will be able to immerse yourself in permanent peace. I will tell a small story for that. In one forest a crow was contentedly living. But it saw a swan one day. It thought "this swan is so white and beautiful. Among all the birds in the world, probably this one is most happy". It told its opinion to swan. Then that swan said "True. I thought the same prior to seeing the two colored parrot. With green feathers, red beak the parrot lives more happily". Then that crow landed in front of the parrot. Then that parrot said "Before I saw peacock I thought the same too. But, after seeing the multi colored peacock, I thought it was living more happily". Crow immediately went to a Zoo to meet the peacock. It was stunned that hundreds of people were coming to see the peacock. After they left Crow said "O my dear peacock! How beautiful you are. Everyone who sees me tries to shoo me away. But thousands of people come to see you. Among all the birds on earth, you are the one who is beautiful and happy." Then peacock said "Among the ones in the world I thought I was beautiful and happy. But my beauty made me a prisoner. I perused everything around here. Crow is the only bird that is not jailed in a zoo. I had been thinking for a few days that If I were a crow I could fly and go anywhere". When it realized its good luck the crow flew away freely. This Anjaneya is saying find out and examine your good luck !

your mind decked itself with flow of thoughts and impact of dreams

65) Swami, What is the purpose of God incarnating ?

To set the direction and guidance for spiritual seekers, the formless Parabrahman (formless God) takes a form and becomes formful. God himself appears for the sake of devotees. So, devotee wishes to see God in a form. With as much happiness God accepts the love of devotee. For these two reasons, God takes the human form. God with his affection for the devotee, and the love of devotee for God gets mixed and creates a Leela (sport). In God entire energies, powers, siddhis, and entire prosperities and riches are inherent in him. If all of them are manifested, devotees would stand far with fear and devotion, in order to shove aside their fear, with the intent of bringing them closer with affection and love, he hides his entire greatness, prosperities, puts on an ordinary human form, to enact a kind of Leela (sport) God comes down taking a form that is nearer to you. God incarnates in this world with a form without manifesting his infinite powers, for devotees in an ordinary way, with soft heart, endless mercy, patience, gives a nice cool vision !

66) Swami, How to overcome mental weakness ?

You are children of that all powerful God. You are sparks of that infinite divine fire. How can you be useless persons? You can accomplish anything. This self confidence should shine in your hearts. The power of action (kriya shakti) that can bring forward such people is self confidence. If depravation occurs or faults accrue, remember this Anjaneya's words! If you lose your self confidence means losing confidence in God. If you have confidence (viswas) that this Antaryami (all pervading) is present in every sub atoms, in your entire body, mind, and Atma as criss-crossing through and through, then why get discouraged? You may be a small water bubble, or a mountainous wave. Why sadness? That infinite ocean is your field of support. All your erudite scholars say 'purity is your nature, fullness is your natural characteristic'. That is all, incompleteness and pollution is not your nature. One Maharshi (great rishi) at the time of death alerted his mind to recollect the great works, and great resolutions. Did not tell the mind to recollect its faults and shortcomings. See ! Do not forget this beautiful example ever. Faults ... will be there. Weaknesses ... will be there. Yet always keep in memory your actual real nature. This is the only method to prevent your faults !

67) Swami, How is direct experience of God ?

When direct experience of God occurs, all doubts are removed. One is hearing, seeing is something else. Just by hearing complete faith (100%) does not happen. Direct experience (sakshatkar) of God, Vision of God (darshan), or attaining God are all one and the same. All kinds of doubts arise in man's mind. Is God there? Can one have God's darshan (vision)? After sakshatkar (direct experience) do all the afflictions cease and one gets permanent peace? Is what scriptures and Mahapurush (great saints) say true? First doubt is can we have darshan of God. Meditation, and aloneness now and then, which means being/ staying as you are only and not restricting the body. Must undertake techniques like chanting the name of God, discrimination of real versus unreal. One develops understanding that God exists. Darshan is attained through devotion only. You were told in your school days that water is due to joining of two elements. Even though you agreed, somewhere a small doubt occurs. How did 2 gaseous elements combine to make a liquid substance? Is it true what Guru had said? This doubt is clarified when one finds out for themselves that water is generated by mixing oxygen and hydrogen gases in right proportion. The root cause for entire doubts is Ignorance. When sakshatkar of Brahman of the form of sat-chit-ananda occurs, ignorance is destroyed. As a result the doubts are cleared out. When God's grace happens, in a second, the eight impediments (ashta pasha) leave you. Do you know how? In a room that is dark for 1000 years, when a lamp is lighted, in a second, darkness disappears. Did you see magic? Many knots are tied to a rope. One end of the rope is tied to something. Grabs the other end and once or twice pulls on it. That's it, all the knots are untied. No matter how much someone else tries to do like that, cannot do it. When God's compassion occurs, then there is no fear. If child gets hold of father's hand then there is no fear. Likewise, God out of his grace removes doubts and gives direct experience (sakshatkar), then no more bondages, suffering. The illustration of a room that had been dark for thousand years bringing a light into it, means, ignorance that got accumulated over many many lives, light called God's kindness dissipates it. That is why, God is called causeless ocean of mercy (Ahetuka Kripasindhu) !

68) Swami, What is the prominence of devotional path ?

For few days be alone and acquire devotion Bhakti, after that you can be anywhere. If feet have shoes, one can walk easily in thorns also. Do you know why you are told to do Naam Jap (chanting name of God), contemplation on God in aloneness? Day and night being in samsara is so much Ashanti (turmoil), where brothers kill each other for small piece of land. But, they put a fence around a plant. Else animals and lambs graze it. But once that plant grows and gets big, it does not need the fence. Even if you tie an elephant to it, there is no loss. Doing sadhana in aloneness, after enhancing the devotion for the lotus feet of God, it is ok even if one is in samsara. Do contemplation on God In aloneness. Must pray to God with anguish asking for devotion. Why fear thinking that samsara is a hell hole, a dark jungle? Those who hold onto God for them that samsara is a Ananda Kutir (abode of bliss). Why fear? So what if it is a path of thorns, hang onto him? Put on foot wear. In hide and seek game the one who touches grandma don't need to become thief again. When jackfruit is cut after applying oil to hands, then hands will not get sticky. Likewise, after acquiring devotion, there is no danger in fulfilling the responsibilities of samsara. Very easy solution for gaining God is devotion. For attaining devotion living alone is most useful solution. Why aloneness? Man's mind always gets attracted to vishaya (objects, emotions, thoughts). In a restless mind sadhana is difficult. Therefore, away from enjoyments of vishaya (O, E, T), by practicing Japa and meditation makes restraint of mind easy. Then you can pray to God single pointedly. Sitting a few moments in aloneness and making effort to do prayer, all the feelings samskars that are in subconscious come up and hinder the sadhak. Then the sadhak gets to know how he should do sadhana. He will get to know which things he need to show interest in, and which ones to purge. Then mind itself becomes Guru to sadhak. The feeling that God is the destroyer of karma phala (results) gets born. Steadily interest in vishaya objects, attraction starts deteriorating. Even most beautiful object cannot subject the devotee to temptation. Hence, living alone in the beginning is very necessary. Everyone knows that samsara is a plague. Just like the feet are protected by the shoes from the pain of thorns, devotion to God will not get you unsettled/ jolted by the sufferings of samsara. If you partake these Anjaneya's word half an ounce your thirst will be quenched. This is certain! certain! certain!

69) Swami, What kind is mind ?

There is a close relationship between mental attitude and suffering. Those who are dedicated to good works show amazing courage during difficult times. Soldiers returning with wounds from the battle field, do not pay much heed to the pain from the horrible wounds. To sacrifice for mother land is an aspect that gives satisfaction to the soldier. Hence, they don't heed much to the wounds. An ordinary person's reaction to those wounds would be different. For him the wounds create agitation. A soldier despite a horrible wound, will not agree that there is suffering. Same person instead of in battle field, if gets wounded at home, he would express his suffering. Therefore, the feeling of pain or not feeling, it is dependent on your mental attitude. Once in a while your fears take the form of physical suffering. I will say ordinary illnesses to paralysis, joint arthritis like big diseases are all generated by inner fears, and inferiority (Atma Nyoonatha) complexes. Mind gets purified by contemplating on the preachings of God, or by chanting the name of God, or doing selfless service (seva). Prevents your suffering, improves mental firmness, steadiness. You feel very sad at your financial losses. But, you do not pay attention to how much time is getting wasted by useless thoughts, and day dreams. Mind's mental power and capabilities are unlimited. More it is concentrated on any aspect, it becomes even more powerful than that. This is its secret. Therefore, if one desires to have a powerful mind, for sure inner cleansing is necessary. Every person behaving according to their will is natural. Good attributes (sadgun) give rise to happiness. Likewise, bad attributes become cause for suffering. Discrimination between Atma (real) and An-Atma (unreal) is the right and simple method for self-mastery (swa-adhipatyam). Increasing understanding of your Atmic principle (Atma tatva), mind restraint/ control becomes easier. Believing that everyone bears the results of their own bad karma helps in moral behavior. In fact, there is a thing that you do not understand. Mind in fact is not consciousness by itself, yet it is not inert. If mind is made to think about the inert substances constantly, soon mind loses Buddhi's (intellect) skill, talent and becomes lethargic, like inert substance, becomes Tamo guna predominant. But, you all are doing this everyday. Due to this, mind gets dull steadily. Capability to think higher ideals, ability to understand decreases steadily. That is why, mind does not get dull among those who do a lot of meditation, and those who utter name of God ceaselessly. Not only are they always afresh and clever, but are able to keep their mind happy, and energetic. Due to old age the body might bend but they can keep their mind enthusiastic. In fact those who are Satva guna predominant have greater one pointedness. Their minds are always peaceful. They are contented with minimal conveniences, ceaselessly seeking searching Jnana. If they exercise their will, they have the skill and capability to attain any worldly desire easily. But, they do not strive for them. Those who are predominant in Rajo guna constantly without a break keep trying to fulfill worldly desires. They have great attachment to property-prosperity, authority, food. They don't have much interest in holy merit generating activities, improving morality, character. Those with Tamo guna predominance have primary characteristics of laziness, lethargy, carelessness, lack of clarity, over sleepiness, lacking specific objective. In fact this one pointedness should start from mother's womb. Those born with prayers will be Satva guna predominant. They will have one pointedness, creativity, dedication to performing activity !

70) Swami, What kind of outlook must we develop ?

Paramatma, sitting in body, mind, buddhi, identifying with them, and starts transacting through them, becomes Jivatma (Jiva, individualized soul). Stepping aside from them, stays as itself, becomes (remains) Paramatma. A person traveling on a horse becomes horseman (cowboy). Driving a chariot becomes a charioteer. Driving a car becomes a driver. Driving a plane becomes a pilot. Leaving all of them aside, walking on the road remains himself, an individual. Likewise, Atma sitting in body, mind, buddhi, identifying itself with them is becoming Jiva. Separating from them staying alone, it is Atma. Therefore, first Atma has to be separated from Anatma. Then leaving the field (kshetra) must stay as itself, Kshetrajna, Atma. One must have the skill of separating and seeing them. Kshetra perishes. The one who knows kshetra is the Kshetrajna. Till one knows whatever is to be known, Knower's real form and real nature cannot be known. That is why, the kshetra that is to be known is examined again and again to separate the Kshetrajna (the knower of field). To separate like that a sadhak's buddhi needs to be very subtle. For buddhi to be subtle like that mind needs to be peaceful. Mind is distraught with all kinds of issues, unfulfilled desires, fears, and suffering. That is why to attain the ultimate goal of Moksha (liberation), a mumukshu, seeker of liberation with intense desire to attain it, must have a firm conviction that all these worldly vishaya are impermanent, mithya (illusion), in reality they do not exist, and without reacting to them must develop peace, calm. You got a rare and wonderful human birth. What birth one gets next is unknown. Don't be in the mis-notion that you are reading Bhagavad Gita everyday hence may get higher birth. As long as you are sitting here, you are in Satva feeling without second thoughts. As soon as you cross the threshold, jealousy, hate, attachment like qualities start appearing again. What is the use of that? Your future lives are getting built based on what all you are thinking and what all you are talking. Hence due to some prior lives surplus merit earning deeds (punya), this human life is attained, hence must make it worthwhile. Must make it free of rebirth. As long as you are Jiva, can't escape rebirths. As long as you go to sleep, can't escape dreams. Dreams stop when you wake up. As long as you are in Jiva Bhav (feeling you are mind, body, intellect) the results of karma stay with you, rebirth will keep coming. Don't want rebirths, Jiva Bhav must go. Removing that Jiva Bhav, I am a Jiva feeling, must stay in firm conviction that I am Atma. Remain as Atma. When Jiva gets rid of ignorance, lets go of the limitations (upadhi), then it is Atma, it is God. This is Advaita Jnana. There is only one. Due to ignorance, that which is one seems like another. That is illusion, ignorance. Man knows everything but does not know who he is. Tries to know everything but does not have time to know himself. This is bad luck, unfortunate. It is great ignorance that without knowing oneself man pines to know everything else. Everyone he comes across he enquires - who are you? what are you doing? where are you going? what are you studying? But does not enquire as to - who am I? where did I come from? where should I go? how to go? Enquiry is to be done on these. Who is this who is asking who am I? Everyday, every second this 'I' is being used. But do not know its swarupa (real form). Don't even think or try to know. I am seeing, I am hearing, I am speaking, I am thinking, I am walking, I am sitting, I am writing, I am eating, like this 'I' is being used in everything. When every organ meets this 'I' only then it starts working. When the current of 'I' meets the eye, eye is able to see. When 'I' meets with ear, then ear can hear. Like this when 'I' meets any body part, then that functions. Body moves. If it does not meet, everything sits still. In Brahma Muhurat (few hrs prior to day break), wake up, slowly get into sitting position, putting aside all thoughts, without allowing any sankalpas (resolve) to come, take your drushti (focus) towards your heart. 'I', 'I' sphurana (throb, pulsation, light) is felt like a bubble in water. Enquire into where is it coming from and what is its swarupa (real form or nature). Not recognizing the real power-energy that is granting the awareness (chaitanyam) to body, mind, buddhi, and allowing them to function. That is Atma. That is nityam (eternal), satyam (truth, real), shuddham (pure), buddham (all knowing). Wind can't move it, fire can't burn it, water can't wet it, sword cannot sever it. That is 'you' ! That is your real form/ nature (yadartha swarup) !

71) Swami, How to recognize Satyam (Truth) ?

To forget one's suffering by putting the burden on someone else, to be able to breathe relaxedly, human got God as a great boon. Whatever religion, character, caste, region, humans at one time or other they will pray to a God they like. They speak out what is in their heart. They put the burden on God and stay worry free. That is why they view prayer as divine medicine to overcome the pressure and stress. Life is a bondage, an impediment. Death is the only path to freedom. They thrash around with disappointment thinking this life of death is but an ocean of tears. That is a mistake. When human effort is made with three fold purity (thought, word, deed), then pray for the divine grace. Vedas praise Virat Purush (creator God) as seven worlds above - Bhu lok, Bhuvak lok, Suvar lok, Janar lok, Tapo lok, Satya lok - and seven lower worlds - Atala, Vitala, Sutala, Tala-tala, Rasa-tala, Maha-tala, Patala. That is why the exemplary Bhagavat (leelas of God) speakers said 'do not entertain any doubt that He is in this, and not in that'. Hence, one can get the benefits of prayers by - chanting Vedas, performing annual death ceremonies to Pitrus' (ancestors), offering oblations in fire for Gods, feeding the animals and birds that are around you, felicitating the fellow beings, all these are Yajnas (sacrifices). Do not do anything with a feeling of 'mine'. Dharma is for the sake of God. Effort is for Dharma. Once this Nissangatvam (non-attachment) gets habituated, this miraculous secret is comprehended. How is that? At the same time it becomes intense activity and peaceful steadfastness, when there is action and non-action, comprehension occurs. This is the secret of prayer to God. What eyes cannot see, can be seen by mind. What mind cannot see, buddhi can see. As you keep doing effort, God becomes a partner. Once it is started like that, greatness of God's effort is understood. 'I' means it is not state of body, it is not externalized state. Body is beginning less, endless Atmic steadiness (Atma Dhrti). It means, five elements, five sheaths, five airs, nadis, are both supports as well as supported that are covering the Atma. Like ashes covering the burning hot coal, God's power shines brightly inside. It is a lamp of enormous light (maha kanthi). Never fading flower of infinite consciousness. By sitting in a lofty place a crow cannot be great like Garuda (vehicle of Vishnu). Where is Garuda who got rid of his mother's enslavement by stealing the Amrith (nectar), and became vehicle to Sri Hari (Vishnu)? and where is a crow that eats bugs, dead eggs, rotten flesh? Like that, prayer must be done with sacred feelings by keeping the mind and body pure with contemplation of God. Jiva also must try to move about like Paramatma. Because world is a reflection of Paramatma, Jiva must love from ant onwards to Brahma (creator). Must move around with love that is untarnished, pure, and holy, and with meditation on God. God is a miracle, a marvel. Meditation on God is even more supreme. Experiencing joy, happiness in life, to transform oneself satisfactorily as an ideal person, man must invite holy habits (sad-abhyasalu), holy relationships (sat-bandhavyalu), connected with God's leelas (sport, miracles). Early morning warmth of Sun's rays, with chirping of birds, with howling of little children, with fragrance of flowers, with movement of cotton like clouds in blue sky, with moonlight in the night and twinkling stars, with melodious music, if we go on counting there are many divine happy moments ! Thirst and a wound are same for everyone. Exceptional brotherhood should shine in all humanity. Increasing affection, letting go hatred, must live in God contemplation. Divinity is like sea of milk. If churned with churning rod called devotion, defects and foulness in the ocean of mind will disappear. Devotee does not need anything but God. Does not seek anything from God. In principle of devotion there is no room for desires. Devotee only sees God in every drop of water in the ocean of his mind. Due to total complete surrender to God, becomes eternal. In search of Truth you will have to subject your inside (mind etc.) to research. Must churn it with sadhana. Paramatma stays right there. Searching for him is right there, and attaining him is right there ! Such an important internal (mind, heart etc) you must reform it with great effort !

72) What must we do to live in the present contentedly, Swami?

In the jungle Lion only goes out hunting when it is hungry. After it quenches its hunger with the animal it catches, till it gets hungry again it does not think of another animal. It enjoys the rest in the cave. It does not put up a sign saying 'I am busy'. Thinking ahead, meaning, with the doubt that it may or may not get food tomorrow, it does not kill another animal and store it. What about human? The Jiva that does not even think about tomorrow, will not have any thoughts like - how to live in old age? In which bank to keep deposits? How to get pension? That JIvi is always in the present. Stays profound and deep. Enjoys peace. Lives as one who has complete faith in God. It oozes confidence that the father that created me, it is his primary duty to quench my hunger. Looking at it one way, a lion leads life more courageously than a human. Not only lion but all other living beings do not have thoughts, anxiety about tomorrow. They do not have a strange mind like human's that constantly lives either in the past or future forgetting the present. That is why, they are enjoying greater peace than human. It seems that they have greater faith in God than you all. It is quoted that among Jivis human is the most elevated Jivi. Then in what way are you loftier than the animals? You have more fears than them ! How to navigate this life boat in the sea of samsara might be the question? So at last do you understand now that it is a-viveka (lack of discrimination) to hang on to this world where everything is associated with some fear or other? But, it is not that easy for everyone to have intense detachment (teevra vairagya), therefore as a second path you need to learn to lead a life where God is used as a support. Whatever effort you make, do it using God as an instrument, as agent. Behind every victory you attained, must feel there is divine grace. Do not get proud thinking that it is all self effort. Take victory - failure equally. Know that whatever is acquired, whatever has happened is for your own good. You tend to think less of a great prosperity given by God, while you think great (maha dakshina) of what little or minor offering you make. God has great amount of love for human. But when you do not have confidence in God, you do not learn to live using God as support. Art of living (jivana kala) is difficult for you. Art of living means every person must feel oneself as an instrument of God and keep performing one's obligatory, prescribed duties. A devotee asked a sanyasi "what is the relationship between God and man?" He said "As long as man (I as ego) exists, God is not there - where there is God there is no man". What it means is in this world there is only one resolve (sankalp) manifesting. That is God's resolve (sankalp). But due to man's ego he thinks "it is happening due to me" and falls into trouble. One must keep aside one's likes-dislikes, must offer everything to God's will. Constantly having good goals, utilizing oneself with good effort, whether results are favorable - unfavorable, one must learn to react alike to them. This is the real lesson to be learned from life. Only then real peace, supreme peace occurs !

73) Swami, What kind of cleanliness (Soucham) must we have ?

Soucham means inside and outside complete cleanliness. That is, to be completely clean, holy both physically and mentally. To be clean physically is also important. If living far from society, alone, then this thing may not be that important, but human is a social being. Therefore, when examined from others viewpoint, how you are living is very important. Purity is not expensive make-up, clothing, jewelry. Even with ordinary clothes, adornments, they are to be clean and appropriate. One needs to make a habit out of this external purity. What you have in not important. You may have a few things only. But if they are clean then that is enough. Because they reflect your mental state. If one thought is planted as a sapling, one nice action flowers. If this action called flower is allowed to fructify, that is, good deeds recur, fruit called habit comes to fructify. If one is able to relish the fruit called habit, it develops good character (sat-sheelam). In the first phase of life you develop your habits. In the last phase of your life you are known to this world through your habits. Those who are evolved spiritually they have less awareness of surroundings, hence they forget, ignore external purity. But those who are in beginning stages of sadhana taking them as an example copy them, then their spiritual growth gets handicapped !

74) How does one attain peace, Swami?

Among the niyamas (disciplines) you must follow, one of them is happiness (santosh). To live contented and be satisfied with whatever one has. Only then peace gets firm in the inside. When mind is going round and round around many vishaya (objects, emotions, thoughts), immersed in unlimited preoccupations, how does one get peace? To attain higher spiritual values, contentment is required. Discontented mind even though taken to higher states, it again falls down into abyss. Unsettled mind due to lack of satisfaction, runs here and there. That is why the saying 'having little is not a deficiency'. If you adjust to few things you possess, mind will get peace and one-pointedness. Now a days, it has become a habit to join a course for learning English, course for expressing one's feelings, lastly course for tips on child raising. Does one need course for living peacefully? Your ancestors despite living modestly, lived with contentment, and finished their lives meaningfully. Once contentment is developed one understands that there are not a lot of paths for living happily, living happily in itself is the highway. In today's supermarkets starting from daily needs up to modern technological instruments, many new models, many new brands are available in many varieties. Additional memory chips for computers, additional hard disks may be bought, but did not create/ cannot create yet another mind in your head. State of mind is the basis for worldly and spiritual life. That is why, this Anjaneya shared about the happiness attribute with the intention to do a great benefit to humanity !

75) Swami, What is the resolution to tests or problems that we face ?

You are forgetting your duty and acting as great embodiments of compassion, as detached, and as one full of Jnana. I tolerated your childish actions with lot of patience and made you aware of your mistakes. Realizing your mistakes, whether you pleaded or not asking for the right path, this Anjaneya got ready to charioteer your life. I am not wishing you to lead a painful life. You do not need to become totally detached getting rid of everything (sarva sanga pari tyagi). I am expecting that signs of fear, anxiety, despair, fickle mindedness, attachment, do not show up. This is the reason of my arrival for giving teachings that inspire you to fulfill your duties. After all, what is your problem? Your problems are hopelessness, fear, disturbance, tension, attachment. Cause of these problems is the feeling of 'I', 'mine'. You will understand your situation if you examine the way you react, respond to the everyday events that occur in your life. If someone passes away next door you say 'so sorry', then comfortably you eat your dinner and go to sleep. If someone passed away in your home you cry letting go food and sleep. Likewise, if jewelry worth a huge amount gets lost next door, you stay in silence with equanimity. On the other hand, if you lose even a needle from your home, you will not let your neighbors sleep over it. Reason for this biased outlook is because of being bound by the feeling of 'mine'. My brothers, my relatives, my friends, my husband, my children, the thought that all of them are going to leave at one time or other gives rise to vairagya (detachment). If it is real love, compassion, kindness then one must grieve for all of them. Cause for your grief and intolerance is the 'mine' feeling. There are no separate others. You experience and know about childhood, prime age, old age, hence do not grieve. But, do not know what will happen after death therefore, you are afraid of death. That is why, just like a new dress is worn after the older dress is torn, after death Atma wears another body, those who understand this are real heroes. Hence, let go of the bondage of delusion, attachment. Some people asked a Jnani, "after you pass away, how to do your last rites?" Then he smiled and said "real 'I' you will not be able to find. What you think is 'I' (this body) , do last rites to it like you do to everyone else". If you interact with the understanding that you are not this body, then all problems will be resolved. In reality, the main reason for jealousy-hatred, greed-attachment, ego and possessiveness, anger-fury, fear-tension, concern-rigidities, inside you is forgetting that your life on this earth is a three-day excursion !

76) Swami, What is the significance of Sankalp Shakti (resolution power) ?

Many kinds of resolutions (sankalpas) are taken and think of 'must start from Jan 1' (new year resolutions). You start them too. When those resolutions disappear before seeing February, you make a mental adjustment saying 'that's mind's destiny'. Actually where do your resolves get strength? Where do they come from? Think about it. Resolution is born from desire. Intensity of that desire is Ichha Shakti. This is called Will power. Due to this will power the resolution occurs. Man when his desire is not fulfilled, he is subjected to anxiety. Will power and mental anxiety are opposite poles. A smoker decides that 'from now onwards I will not smoke'. But fails to implement it. Reason for that is his resolution has no will power in it. There is only 'won't power' in it. Will power is related to mind. To increase will power, exercise for body, and meditation for mind are necessary. You might ask, how does the resolution to do exercise and meditation everyday is attained. Here is my answer. Never say that you are a weakling. What is it you cannot do? You can do everything. There is that divine Atma in you. Have faith in the power of Atma. If you have confidence in your Atma's power and make an effort, your resolution will definitely fulfill. Whichever path is taken to reach the peak, then rest of the paths are understood. If you have an ego that says it already knows, to everything that is said to it, then you cannot become sadhaks (spiritual aspirants). Everyone thinks that they are complete (pari poornulu). If you have the curiosity to examine or test, thinking - is the other person accomplished, how much spiritual growth do they have, am I in illusion imagining what is not there? - and if you are deficient in enquiry of whether you have the deservedness to be a sadhak?, then thinking that you are complete is a sign of non-discrimination, and ego. You all are not practicing the virtues, values. For one reason or other letting go of the values, searching for excuses to wrong actions, becoming opportunists saying 'times are bad', on the other hand eagerly looking out to counter attack. But, no matter how much circumstances entice, one must abide by Dharma and Truth. Even if Dharma is not followed rigourously due to mind filled with selfishness, if able to follow some, then you will bring meaningfulness to your birth in this punya bhumi (hallowed land) !

77) Swami, How to attain Janma Rahityam (freedom from rebirth) ?

Not having enough interest in karmas (actions) that are beneficial to Atma, keep on increasing interest in family affairs, personal addictions, when old age comes close, you will be unable to do anything and get overwhelmed into a state of helplessness. If you can think at that time wisely, you will know that all these bodies are variety of clothes Atma is wearing. You will know that all of them are pure parama-hamsas (supreme swans with superlative discrimination) in their Atma swarupa (real form, nature). Cause for rebirth is mind. Because of karma Avidya (ignorance) arises. Due to Avidya body is subject to karmic bondage. Due to this karmic bondage one is unavoidably exposed to many births. In this manner due to the prior lives vasanas in your mind you ended up with this life. Based on the desires in your mind in this life, next life is determined. Future lives (Agami janma) are dependent on Asha (desire, want, hope) and alochana (thoughts). Whatever vasanas are in mind, a body is generated in synch with them. Due to your increasing excessive attachments (mamakar) to this world, your series of births also cause recurrence. Even those who are living very detached externally, unknowingly in their mind they would have strong attachment (anurakti) for an object or a person. They float in desires for vishaya (object, emotions, thoughts). Do not develop too much attachment to things, to persons, to properties, to relations. Nature will mercilessly at one time or other will separate them. As a result due to that sudden change, one suffers deeply. That is why, under the guise of aloneness you are kept here. You without knowing the inner workings show inclination towards attachments, then I am warning you that it is like letting go whatever you attained spiritually. That is why you yourself under the guise of aloneness (ekantam) must separate from all those entanglements. Must be careful not to get stuck in those chains and bondages. You have to immerse yourself in enquiry of Atma (anveshan) through study of scriptures, sadhana, spiritual rigor. All your life if you are immersed in human relationships, I have indicated how precarious it is. A dog due to hunger pangs goes house to house, either gets hit with stick or eats thrown out food as per destiny, likewise a Jivi will experience the destined likes-dislikes (O,E,T) in all the three worlds. Jivi attains illumined worlds due to satvik karmas, worlds of sorrow due to rajasik karmas, worlds of suffering-attachment due to Tamasic karmas. One Swami ji while addressing, as part of discourse indicated that 'happiness comes with a crown of grief, that is why stay away from enjoyments that lead to grief.' Right away a young man came up to him and said "Swami ji! We are not feeling that way. We are enjoying the pleasures. We do not have any kind of grief". Swami ji replied 'yes, you are thinking that you are enjoying pleasures. A dog gets into the neighbor's house, eats the food in the containers in a rush because it is fearful that owner might show up any minute and punish it. You all are enjoying these worldly pleasures in a similar way. I am conveying that anxiety has no end, that fear is endless !'

78) Swami, How to attain experience of Bliss (Ananda anubhuti) ?

God is of the form of highest Bliss (Param Ananda swaupa). Whoever worships with unwavering faith, what God graces those devotees is Ananda. Ceaseless chanting of God's name grants you Ananda only. Those who understood the value and experience of that divine Ananda granted by God, they said they did not want, not only worldly enjoyments, but also the need for moksha (liberation). They were able to ask God 'if this liberation is close to the great good fortune of his divine vision (divya darshan), and the Ananda graced by his sweet name?' When you are able to have his darshan (vision), you yourself become ocean of Ananda. That is why the waves of happiness continue to roll. So Ananda spreads Ananda only, isn't it ! There are no boundaries to that Ananda. You cannot describe that Ananda. Because of that you will not undergo worldly agonies. A mother can express the desires of the baby inside her womb. Because, they are bound physically in the bondage of intimacy (Atmeeyatha). Experiences that are portrayed on your mind are expressed through your speech. You express what you experience. Every person what he needs, what is very necessary, what gives him happiness, what they are deserving to receive, feel that God is delaying in granting to them, feel bad that they are missing out on Ananda they ought to get. They think God does not have kindness while he is personification of infinite kindness. Can't he rain his grace out of pity that his devotee is feeling bad, and will feel happy if he rains his grace once? so thinking he grieves. God has created human beings, animate and inanimate creation out of limitless Ananda. He wants that humans who are created in his form, without succumbing to the attractions of mind/ senses, merges back into him while enjoying the highest divine Ananda. A devotee who has purity of heart, for sure experience of Ananda occurs to them naturally. Then the prayer done by human attracts God with infinite power. Then God gives darshan in every atom. Then nothing is seen as separate from God. Learn to be happy with whatever God has given. In that happiness, satisfaction enjoy the infinite Ananda. Then you will get to understand that God is walking you holding your hand. Make effort to see God in every drushya (O, E, T). Rolling waves of ocean, garlands of clouds and blue floating away in the air, birds freely wandering in the blue sky, first gentle sprinkles on the body sending waves of ecstasy, instead of enjoying these happinesses granted, feeling bad about some unknown Ananda is foolishness! Did you create yourself as you came - a mother that pours divine love and hugs you to her heart, a father who taught with love that God residing in million lights stood in the cave of the heart correctly, it cannot emit melodious sounds. Likewise you also, if you tuned your hearts towards God you will be able to have his darshan in front, back, above, below and everywhere. Then God will hold your hand make you walk forward and takes you to destination easily. In this long journey you do not know how much time is remaining. A thought that whatever is known in this life got to make it successful. Thought must lead to action. In order to remove the stinking smell that is stuck to you for many years, a good soap and a good bath is necessary. With pure mind i.e. letting go anger and intolerance, when every word uttered is full of love, affection then mind and feelings (antharangam) are peaceful. In that auspicious time pray for 'your heart to go towards God'. Boons are those that one gets by asking. Getting without asking is Karuna (compassion, mercy). There is no end to asking. Understand that, not knowing how to ask, whatever is attained are experiences of grief, suffering only !

81) Swami, How to overcome inferiority complex (Atma Nyoonaatha) ?

Victory and defeat are natural in life. If you win or lose, ascend or decline you think it is a matter related only to you. You think that whatever happens to you, who is bothered, no loss to anyone, no difficulty to others. But in fact, does no one have any relationship to your good-bad, success-failures? A Mistake! You alone, as only one did not fall out from up above or out of calm quiet emptiness. Although you were born alone, after birth around you there are parents who gave you birth, your family, society, country, world is there. In all different ways everyone has a bondage, relationship with you. Likewise, you also have a bondage with all of them. There is a tree in the forest. It looks as if it is alone. Although it is in the forest, how can one say that it does not have any relationship with anyone? It could be a medicinal tree that gives roots and tubers for Ayurveda, it could be a sandal wood tree giving out fragrance, fruit giving jack fruit tree. A river is flowing among mountains and valleys. By itself it flows towards lower levels till it merges into the ocean. Is there no relationship with that? Drinking water, farming water, even for Abisekam to God. Now the moon in the sky - for baby to be fed enticing it with moon in the sky, moonlight for relaxing the mind. And Sun - no need to say further. In God's prakriti (Nature) there is no wasteful creation. There is no distinction of high and low. No matter how large a cloth has to be stitched, one needs a small needle. No matter how grand a cooking, to make it tasty it needs a thimble of salt. Now man in God's creation is an eminent and very auspicious Jivi (individualized soul). God has created his substitute (reflection) with very much care and attention, specially created highly elevated God in human form! Then how can such a man not belong to others? Entire world is savoring and enjoying the fruits of spirituality grown by the effort of many great evolved souls. Now and in future many people are energetically walking the yoga of selfless service path (seva yogam) handed by Swami (Sri Sathya Sai). Many more are coming forward to walk the path. If clarified butter is cooked at home, entire street smells of that aroma. If food gets burnt in one house, that smell suffocates the entire street. Human who moves about consciously, a substitute for God, even if he blinks his eye it will have effect on the world. You need to live in that awareness. As human and as highly evolved Jivi, you must become a role model to the world. At least, if not benevolent must not become malevolent. So, when one wants to live, if they have the choice and freedom to pick a method of living, live an evolved life, an exemplary life. True! You may want to walk the path strewn with flowers, you might not have that opportunity. But, you definitely have the opportunity to walk avoiding a thorny and stinking dirty path. If there is no choice, clean up and walk. You don't have to become something for someone. Through your mental living style become a relative to everyone. Belong to everyone. This is the living method desired by Anjaneya !

82) What are we to follow for sadhana to become perfect, Swami?

Karmas are to be performed with intellect that is not attached (Asanga Buddhi). Must stay with disinterest in Karma results. Victory and defeat due to karmas must be taken with equanimity. Be contented with what is attained. In fact, one runs away into deep forest withdrawing from karmas either due to fear of responsibilities, or due to fear of suffering, over there even while breathing fresh air, impure thoughts will not let the mind stay calm. Even while eating sweet fruit, taste of bitter memories is not forgotten. Even while sleeping under the coolness of a tree, the heat in the mind does not subside. Now there is no need to mention separately the state of Japa and Dhyana (name chanting, meditation). That is, after setting up these cool Kuteers, handing you delicious fruit called Anjaneya's spiritual teachings, even then the bitterness called anger and intolerance is not leaving you, and mind is not peaceful, then how?, is the doubt that is not leaving me (Anjaneya). In fact, as long as one carries the desire-anger, jealousy-hate, attachment-delusion even Kuteers are a battle field! When these are not in the heart, even a house is a Tapovan (spiritual retreat, hermitage). Attachment (Ragam) has no equivalent fire. As long as fire of attachment (Raga-agni) is burning you, going to forests or living even in Kuteers, lack of peace will haunt you. Purity of mind is the primary requirement for practicing sadhana in aloneness renouncing karmas. When this requirement is met, either family, or forest, or mountain, or valley, or Puttaparthi, or Kuteer, all will be beautiful. When that is not there, every place is same! Going anywhere without mental purity, outcome is shoonyam (void). A sadhu's kamandal (water pot) and bitter gourd, no matter how many pilgrimages it goes to, how many holy rivers it bathes in, its bitterness does not go. Those who are perfect in Jnana (pari-poorn), Atma Jnanis are the only ones who can stay unmoved, pure, unaffected (nischal, nirmal, nishchint) by either performing karmas or sacrificing karmas. If 'I' and 'mine' feeling is there, those who have an intellect of doer-ship are subject to confusion like, should one do karmas? or let go of karmas? Those sadhaks seeking highest meaning of human life of direct experience of God, Atma sakshatkar (direct experience), instead of dropping performance of karmas altogether, it is safer, beneficial to perform karmas. A fruit hanging on a tree will drop on its own accord when it matures. Likewise, from an individual whose Jnana gets mature, karmas get removed on their own. A mother-in-law reduces the work load of daughter-in-law as she advances in pregnancy. Likewise, as sadhak's mind keeps turning toward God, karmas by themselves keep decreasing. In the early stage without having mental purity, under the name of sadhana keep exhibiting desire-anger, intolerance, there is a danger of changing into neither here nor beyond. Is there any meaning in thinking about nectar in the higher world while struggling for food here ?!

83) Swami, In what way is sadhana of a Jiva carrying on for many lives ?

In prior lives those who did yoga sadhana (spiritual practices) but died prior to reaching ultimate goal, the sadhana that got interrupted gets restarted in this life. The state that was reached by doing sadhana in last life, they begin from there in this life. If you were to ask, How is this miracle working? Because of getting the Buddhi related to last life, whatever Jnana and vasanas that were in the buddhi then, since that buddhi is attained now, your sadhana starts from there. One who wanted to build a home, by the time walls were erected ran out of money. Four years later he got money. Now where would he start from? He will start with putting the roof on the walls. He won't start from digging the foundation again. Likewise, here also the yoga sadhana won't start from the beginning. Whatever state was reached in the last life prior to interruption, he will start from there. Here only thing that changed is body and name only. It is the same buddhi. Buddhi keeps attaching and shedding bodies. Buddhi is not changing, no new buddhi is coming, hence sadhana continues. No one has to feel bad about the last life's sadhana going waste. In that life whatever was done none of it will go away or go waste like sin, punya (merit), sadhana, jnana attained. All of them will come back. All the money earned, properties, assets, objects etc stay with the body. Not even a blade of grass will come along. Not even a needle will come with Jiva. That is why, one must strive for what one takes with them, merit (punya) sadhana Jnana, rather than those that are left behind. One pregnant lady gave birth in a hospital. Mother was unable to give milk to the child, in the same hospital a nurse also gave birth and she gave milk to this baby. After drinking the milk the baby closed its fist. He wouldn't open the fist no matter how much they tried. Finally when it was opened, there was ring in there belonging to the nurse. So, while drinking milk grabbed the ring from nurse and enclosed in its fist. That baby was a thief in last life. That buddhi is functioning now per the last life's vasana. Therefore, sadhana done in prior life continues in this life also. When that occurs, the sadhana done in this life is easier. Because prior life's experience get utilized very nicely. Hence, continue your sadhana without running here and there. What you need, this Guru will give you right away. Definitely Jnana will be attained, and sadhana is continued. Only when you follow the words of this Anjaneya ! Gautama Buddha who enjoyed many pleasures as prince, Vardhaman (Mahaveer of royal family) entered into yoga suddenly and attained the final state. Without enjoying any pleasures Sri Rama Krishna Paramahansa, Bhagavan Ramana Maharshi entered into Yoga directly. All these are Yoga Bhrashtas who in their last life did not attain fulfillment in their yoga sadhana and died. So, how long should they continue their sadhana? Till they get fulfillment in their sadhana, and they will continue like that. Because all circumstances will be suitable for that. There is that will power and resolution in the buddhi. In case if the effort proceeds lethargically in this life, at least in next life a birth will come that will facilitate fulfillment of highest state. Therefore, till fulfillment is attained this sadhana continues. That is why, Swami (Sri Sathya Sai) has granted you this environment beautifully convenient for sadhana, so do not lose this opportunity to put your time to best use !

84) Swami, In what way are we supposed to leave ego ?

If the two feelings of I am doer, I am enjoyer are renounced, then ego gets destroyed. Else, without you knowing your ego manifests. One sadhu after daily begging (bikshatana), the food that gets collected, he would eat it sitting on a stone. One day by the time he returned from begging, it was well past afternoon. Quickly took his food to eat it he went over to the usual stone. By then, he noticed, there was another sadhu who sat on his usual stone and was eating food. Right away that sadhu shouted loudly "that is my stone. Don't sit on that stone". I just told you about a sadhu who has renounced the world totally and yet was yearning for a stone. Why did he shout so loudly that it is his stone? He had been eating his food on that stone for a long time. That seniority of long time produced in him the ego of "that stone is mine". If a total renunciate sadhu behaves like that, what is strange about ordinary people like you relishing seniority? Once in a while those who consider themselves as Bhaktas fall into that Maya of seniority. Hence be alert ! When that kind of ahamkar (ego) settles into you, then pray humbly "I understood that ego increased in me. Please show mercy and pardon me" and it will melt God. In worldly interactions many people use the term senior. Senior student means one who has the right to rag the junior students, senior officer is eligible for promotion, senior politician an expert at developing schemes to defeat the opposition candidates, amassed thousands of crores etc. etc. If you were to ask, then who is senior devotee? Lets hear it in Swami's language. 'Not only today, any day, anyone, in the end even for me, no matter how much effort is put in, using any methods, in any time, estimating my real swabhava (nature) is impossible'. Those who read hymns and poetry for years? Veteran devotees? One time one devotee said to Swami "Swami ! This is my 13th visit to you". Swami replied right away "Your aham (ego) increased 13 times." Another said "Swami ! I wrote your name 1008 times". Swami said "your handwriting must have improved for sure". She did not understand. Then Swami said "you wrote earlier 500 times, then 800 times, now 1008 times. That is the sacred Nama Japa turned into number Japa". Ordinarily many people often say the word "I know". This "I know" word is very dangerous. It indicates your aham (ego). It is the ultimate weapon you use to shut up the other person !

85) What kind of perseverance is necessary for a sadhak, Swami?

if one wants to accomplish anything in life, the weapon of constant effort is necessary. Like Agni hotra (fire of yajna) it must burn constantly. But, this is a shortcoming in many people. Most of the time they boast about their goal but don't think about the effort, hard work needed to attain it. In their eyes, its enough if a work is undertaken, the expected fruit will come on its own. If the excitement at the beginning of journey starts subsiding half way through, then reaching the destination becomes an enormous task. The more you pull on the hold of a bengal monitor (Udumu) tighter it gets, likewise with renewed strength pierce through the cycle of issues surfacing at every step with the weapon of human effort and proceed forward, then without doubt victory will be yours. Effort made without losing perseverance, in the end results in victory. Nothing can be attained in a day. Even if failure occurs thousand times in the effort to practice a selected ideal, must try one more time. Till victory is gained do not curtail the effort. So, every try must occur like a strategy. When the try fails, a tally needs to be made of pros and cons, and analyzed. Step taken forward after a defeat should be stronger. Do not have to bow one's head in shame due to failure. Instead, one must be ashamed if they never made the effort. Must make effort, if mistakes occur, by rectifying them become stronger, and run like a cub lion after victory. This process must become your friend for life. Those who have climbed the peaks of victory did not get them by chance. One must forget that all of them tried steadily and constantly with inner churning. To shine like Sun, you have to burn like Sun. To achieve progress, to intensely attain, must work for it intensely. To grasp the essence of this, and be able to implement in your daily life, without hating the people around you, and without getting disturbed by the circumstances. Whenever you undertake anything to do, you must take into account your energy, capability, your limits, and your boundaries. No matter what, do not let go of your inner peace. As part of your efforts, pray with effort to God for peace every second. That God of Gods will make you aware of the existence of that peace inside you. Whichever stotra (hymn) you read, in the end you say Om peace, peace, peace. When you utter, the first one is uttered loudly, and then it is uttered slowly in lower voice. It means, first one is for the peace of the world, then peace for the surrounding and nature, and lastly it is for your mental peace !

86) Swami, What are the obstacles in sadhana for attaining the goal ?

This Anjaneya is reminding you to practice contemplation on God, and develop spiritual outlook. Even then, man who is enamored of world (vishaya loludu), in the sequence of evolution despite attaining a lofty human birth, he is living more wretchedly than birds and animals. With ego and possessiveness (ahamkar, mamkar) they are becoming Dhritarashtra and behaving recklessly. Man is Jivi with thoughts. Therefore, must know if life is a boon granted or a result of curse. He can change his life into a boon, a heaven. Selfishness makes man weak, deprives him of strength and power, and makes him unsafe. In the end becomes an indicator of death. This is a life truth that is encountered by man in his life. Lofty human birth gets wasted. Every man's life goal is completeness (pari-poornatha). Dirt called desire, anger, greed, attachment, pride, jealousy overcomes the divinity in you and as long as they control the mind, man behaves like an animal. Humans must cleanse the dirt in the mind and attain divinity. This is human dharma (manava dharma). Unlike that, becoming captive to attachments, delusion, driven by vasana cravings, being lethargic, doing bad karmas, man is wasting very valuable life. This is ignorance (Ajnana). This is Avidya. Ordinarily anyone leading a life seeing and hearing only external cannot become a Jnani. But, he is thought to be a real Jnani. Illusion is the cause. Man is forgetting his real goal by continuing to perform actions with the understanding what is not real Jnana as Jnana. Jnana walks a person from darkness to light, from death to immortality, from unreal to real. Man who forgot his goal is living dead. Greatness of man is embedded in his humanity, his Jnana, and in his Self-knowledge. If captive to senses then his energy/ power will walk in same direction. His energy will not be used for humane goals. Buddhi takes a man to humane state. Mind ...has to use senses. Therefore, by samyama (dharana, dhyana, samadhi) senses have to be controlled. Yogis restrain the senses from going towards vishaya (O, E, T), do pratyahara (withdrawl of senses), they protect the Jnana from decline. If man controls senses then he can protect the essence of life. One who became captive to senses cannot direct his attention towards Atma Jnana (Self Knowledge). Despite getting the boon of human birth, man is remaining as discontent, helpless, and one subject to happiness-sorrow. To keep senses in control, mind must practice (abhyasa). Through buddhi what is appropriate and inappropriate is to be decided. Mind is to be directed in that manner. Every good quality removes one or other deformity. Of all purities, purity of heart is great. In fact man is not the body. He is beginning less, infinite, awareness, embodiment of bliss, Atma. In human body, there are swarupas (real forms) of shakti (energy). If man overcomes the degenerate feeling that he is the body, he will be able to know his limitless capabilities. If not, becomes a prisoner to body happiness boundaries, and passes his life helplessly. To attain experience of Atma, lowly desires and passions must go. Must aspire for auspiciousness. Aspiration will take Nara (man) to Narayan (God) !

87) Swami, What harm does interest (asakti) in enjoyments cause?

You are not enjoying the pleasures, they are enjoying you. You are not performing Tapas (austerities), but undergoing Tapan (pining). Time is not passing by, you are passing away slowly. Desires are not reducing, its your energy that is diminishing. You think you are experiencing pleasures. But that is only an illusion. In fact pleasures are enjoying you. How is that? If you have this doubt, stay without enjoying them for a few days, that is enough and you will know. You are not enjoying them, instead you cannot stay without enjoying them. Then who is the controller? Who are the slaves? You? or the pleasures you are enjoying? You are bound by the slight gestures, commands of Nature (prakriti). If there is a sound outside, I have to hear it, if anything is happening outside I have to see it. Just like monkeys, each one of you is equivalent to two thousand monkeys gathered at one place. Monkeys are very inquisitive. You cannot restrain them. You cannot restrain yourselves. But, you call this enjoying. What a wonderful language! You say you are enjoying this world. In fact you helplessly cannot not enjoy the world. It is Nature's desire that you must do it that way. Right now, you are its slaves. That is why, you keep enjoying till you see the end of pleasures. But, in that effort you see your own end. For Jivas to finish the desires in this world and beyond, there is only one path Tapas. It means shunning the path of pleasures, and going on path of restraint. So, instead of Yoga intellect using bhog (pleasure) intellect, practicing this restraint is painful. You say that you are following tapas, but in fact you are pining. Pining means getting burned down. In the heat of that desire you are getting burned down, but not making an effort to escape the prison of those desires is strange, isn't it ! You think your time is passing away. But, in fact what is passing away is not time, you yourself. Don't waste time. Because, time seems like it is not doing anything, but every second it is stealing your life. In fact your entire life is a time-pass. In adolescence time-pass with pleasures, in old age thinking about past time-pass, earning money another time-pass. At most, large number of currency bags might be visible. It is of use only for time-pass in old age. If looked back to see what got accomplished, it is big zero! In this manner thinking that they are passing time, they themselves pass away. Desires are alike. The more you enjoy, they don't digest. Instead you yourself gets digested (jeernam), and powdered (churnam). When pleasures are indulged in excessively, what you get is rogam (sickness). If pleasures are restrained what comes is Yogam. Trying to reduce desires by fulfilling them is like trying to put out fire by pouring Ghee (clarified butter) into it. That fire not only increases, but burns you down. Heads get bald, but do thoughts ever get bald? Your energy gets diminished but desire does not. If God created so that by experiencing once desire gets fulfilled, this world would have turned into another heaven! In this manner man is getting burned in furnace called desire, getting destroyed in the bruising hug of time. After hearing all these a thought will definitely arise in a person with discrimination ... this life, is this it?!

88) It is said life is a drama (natak), Swami?

Your growth-decline, anxieties-struggles, these sufferings - teachings are all Maya only ! For this you already have your doctrine of Karma. But, I will tell you in a totally new way. Already I have come here many times and spoke to you. But, none of you are remembering it. It means, if you think this life of yours occurred many times in creation just like it is now and in the same way, will drive you mad wouldn't it?! Because, till now, once you get liberation then no more births, is your belief? That is a fact too. I will ask a question, answer will be yours. This creation is like a merry-go-round. The chairs in it are your bodies. After you go round and get off of it (by attaining mukthi, freedom), other jivatmas climb those chairs, and go round. Which means, your life in next Kalpa (cycle of creation) continues identically. But, the one experiencing it is not you, someone else. Forget about some other time. In reality right now, the one suffering is you, or someone else? This is the doubt ! This is a wonderful proposition to throw you into a vortex for a moment. That nothing is in your hands gives rise to despair, but it is all a drama. There is great freedom in it that birth and death are false/illusion. One is for Ajnanis (deluded) - second one for Vijnanis (wise). In the game of dice when the dice are rolled, at least sometimes the same numbers will come up. If seen that way in creation, if not in every Kalpa, at least once in a while current circumstances must have occurred, just like this, an identical copy. Even if counted that way, by now just like that it must have occurred infinite number of times. Same tears, same issues, same laughs, same dramas. In this drama you are merely playing a role. You could be a beggar or a millionaire. You could be beautiful, handsome or ugly. You could be an owner or a slave. Could be a king of kings or daily wage labor. Whatever it is, all of it a world drama. Everything is a three day outing (moodu nalla muchata) only. Why those tears? Why all that expostulation? Why weariness? Why hopelessness? Is it because you didn't get hero's role? In reality you are the Jaganatha (master of universe). You are the director of this drama. That is your real swarupa (nature, form). You are God in disguise. Any day in any way if I made a mistake, committed a sin, that is only when I called you all as 'humans'. You are not children of goats. You are ferocious lions buried in Maya. Shake off your illusion. Drive out your despair. Recognize your real nature. Courageously tell yourself that "you are eternal Atma, you are equally nectarine, lord of entirety, you are complete, be aware". In some people when a thought is planted, they cannot let it go. Some others no matter how many great thoughts are imparted, they clap their hands "Aha! Wonderful!", go home, eat stomach full, till it is digested they sleep and snore. If you don't follow anything that I told you, you will not lose anything new. You are habituated to all those. But, if you do not do the last thing I said, that is enough, that is worth thousands, what do you say? This Anjaneya is asking you a question. Give an answer to the question, do not answer with a question !

you are source of your speech motivation for your perseverance is you 89) Swami, How should we pray to God ?

In a flowering orchard, flower usage is all dependent on the Gardner. It is his will whether the flower is cut and sent to a temple, or left on the tree. If sent for pooja in time, the flowers life is consecrated. If put aside as unsuitable, by evening they end up in dust bin. Likewise is your life and future. But, it is known very clearly to the omniscient creator - who to select when and how, which work to be completed by who and when. None have the right to ask why that way besides accepting his command whether he selects or does not. One must offer themselves in feeling of total surrender just like the flowers. Pine for doing service to Sarv-atma (omnipresent Atma) and get absolved. Add feeling to that pining, ecstasy and humbly plead the creator saying "without delay, please cut this little flower and take it ! I am fearful that it will wither and fall into dust. There might not be place in the garland in your neck, at least with the touch of your hand please accept, swami !" In that omnipresent God's extremely vast universal orchard, your existence may be equal to a grass flower in the grass. But, if that ocean of mercy's hand of kindness touches the flower, it will embed artistically in the garland around his neck. If it can't attain such a position, at least with his touch it gets sanctified. Withering and ending up in dust means spending lifetime in wasteful worldly affairs (vishaya). Truly, it is a sanctified birth that assists in Paramatma's will, resolve. That is why, for life to fulfill, living must occur in the awareness of Paramatma. Whichever work we do is to be done with a feeling that we are indirectly serving him. In that manner must get totally dedicated to him. To say it in one word, you must give him your power of attorney. Due to that kind of surrender an owner looks after the well being of his servant, likewise God will look after your burdens and responsibilities. Before the play is done childhood, before thinking is done adolescence, old age in hope-despair... feels like it just came and went. All of them move and melt away like a dream in front of your eyes. They do not even allow you to peacefully think through what is being lost for what gain. Last moments come in haste before you know or find out why you came into this world. It makes you exit in silence from the field of life drama. Waking up within that time are one in a hundred, one in a million! God loves that person. He does not look at any qualifications. Only looks at their distress, and surrender. Pray with that distress in your heart. Do not get fearful that without you knowing day passes away, or time runs out for worship. Plead to Antaryami (God) that 'even though this flower does not have beautiful color, or strong fragrance, when there is still time please cut and utilize it for your service, Swami.' It is not enough that you desire, his permission needs to be there for that service. To attain that permission, first your interest in the world needs to diminish, and limitless love for God must increase. If not for his service, why this dull, debilitating life? This is the churning and prayer in Anjaneya's heart. This prayer took me to the nearness of Lord Rama's feet, and made a servant of Rama (Rama Das). This Anjaney's heart feeling is, to transform you also into Lord Rama's devotion and make you one in the kingdom of Rama by revealing these secrets to you !

90) What is the necessity of inner purity for spiritual life, Swami?

Human life is in all respects superior. Putting this rare to find human life to wise use is your minimum duty (dharma). Because, the ultimate meaning of life is human to become madhav (God) and easily merge into the totality (viswam) in the end. You call this mukthi (freedom) or moksham (liberation). It is not something to obtain after death. While living this state is to be experienced experientially, and be able to end life in the same way. For that I am handing you the nice path of spirituality. Whoever reaches the state of Atma, only they are able to get freed entirely from all kinds of bondages. The methods I am teaching are complete in all different ways. Life of those who experience it definitely becomes blissful. In fact Dhyana (meditation) means Manana (contemplation). A name, a form, a person, a statue, demi God, demi Goddess or God repeatedly uttering name or contemplating is meditation. Some people feel, because of that higher values, samskars develop, making man get closer to divinity. To some degree it is a fact. There is no doubt about it. But, for meditation to continue complete inner purification must be done. Meditations undertaken without inner purity, are harsh, cruel, and stressful. With dirt of excessive bad samskars inside, engaging in meditation is very harmful. Because, even if negative is quite small, that completely destroys the positive. Because negative by nature is heavy, burdensome, and deep. Samskars related to Satva guna called positive are light by nature. Ordinarily when we do meditation, body to some degree has to be restricted, and mind is focused on only one aspect. In that state intelligence contracts. Method of thinking gets limited. Due to that, after doing sadhana for sometime stress on mind, body increases. What will happen when body is bound forcefully and eyes, mouth are closed? Bad samskars at the bottom of inside (mind complex) get energized, thoughts get released forcefully, body and mind get subjected to severe discomfort. Do not do any experiments by force on gentle, valuable and subtle mind. When mind is tranquil sadhana becomes easier. When the dirt of bad samskars inside is strong, one must not do any forceful experiments on mind. First to remove the negative inside, one must introduce thoughts/ methods for their removal. In fact, if there is no negative in the inside, then where is the need for sadhana? Life itself becomes sadhana. When bad samskars are removed completely, then the discontentment inside totally melts away. If there is no discontentment, then what is the need for sadhana? Think about it ! If life is proceeding smoothly, then its like ceaseless sadhana is going on ! Isn't it !

91) Swami, What is the necessity for curtailing desires ?

If you want to grow spiritually, you must renounce all vishaya (O, E, T) that turn your attention away from God. Its meaning is not to yank out your senses. As long as senses lean toward enjoyments, pleasures, they are your enemies. But, if their direction is turned towards God, they work like good friends and move you forward in Godward path. For this, there is a nice story in Mahabharat. That story teaches you how desires are the cause of suffering, becoming happy by getting rid of them, and how to advance to the highest abode (parama padam). In ancient times a brahmin by name Mankee was living with the desire of earning money in one way or other. With the aim of earning money he bought two adolescent bulls and used to tie them with one rope. Once those bulls got energetic and started jumping around. A camel was sleeping close by them. The commotion caused by the bulls woke up the camel and it started to jump around too. But, due to camel being tall, both bulls tried to cross the camel and in the process the rope tied around their neck became hanging rope, they died right there. Crowd looked at Mankee with sympathy. Then Mankee was overcome with detachment and thought as follows "whenever, wherever a work by human effort becomes favorable, one must know that it occurred due to God's grace only. Therefore, without coming up with any resolves, putting all the burden on God, man staying happy feels much better indeed!". You might say, all this is fine but Brahmin's thought was how to get rid of strong desires from the mind? He thought as follows addressing his mind " O desire! I figured out that you are getting born from thought (sankalpa). Therefore, from now on I will pull out the sankalpa from the root so that it does not create an impression on the mind. I will destroy you. I will announce loudly that it is my first step to freedom. O desire ! I understood that my craving to earn more and more, you are the cause for it. Once you possess someone you don't let go at all. Therefore, leaving you (desire) is happiness. Due to your enticement went through all kinds of troubles, even earning money, but later by leaving that there is no suffering, and no miserable conditions occur. O desire ! You are stubborn about what you want, but do not think if it is possible or not. You don't get satisfied with what you get. Like unfathomable world of Patal (hell) no matter how much is devoured, your lack is not fulfilled. Something is always remaining to be fulfilled. Therefore, it is a good thing not taking the path you made attractive. I will try to get rid of you when you are afar. O desire! I ran after you. But, since God did not cooperate, I got frustrated, tired and got rid of you.

In that manner I killed the desire because of which anger got destroyed. I became one with sense control. Attained tolerance. Developed compassion towards other beings. Past is past. From now on your brother greed cannot touch me. That is, if you (desire) are removed, rest of the bad qualities by themselves disappear. O desire! When comparing to the luxuries of heaven, it is evident the happiness derived from you is minor. Therefore, I will kill you and shine as king in the highest abode!". Mankee contemplating like this, became self-contented, and started his sadhanas for the highest goal. Today's man with the technological progress is under the illusion that he can fold the sky like a floor mat. But, without finding the brightly shining divinity inside of him, not only he cannot find peace in that effort, but there will be no end to his misery! Therefore to attain real happiness (bliss), must make effort to turn to God away from worldly enjoyments (vishaya bhoga). That is the path for restricting desires. Sadhana means that. In ongoing life as much as possible reducing desires, listen to the words of this servant who is a servant of Rama, this good friend who came close and become intimate, and always helpful. Once servant gives admission, directly king can be visited. Think ! Live a meaningful life !

92) How does one attain Anandam (bliss), Swami?

For entire humanity, search for happiness/ bliss is a very strong urge. It instigates them to remove their limitations, and dissatisfactions. To say it in one word, it is a constant battle for freedom. Knowingly or unknowingly every living being greatly pines for completeness. Now a days it is seen as very dissatisfying and full of grief. The cause is many people lack guidance for the right path, and lack of faith. Everyone wants bliss. But, they are trying to attain it only through impermanent, unreal objects and vishaya (O,E,T). But, sense based joys and conveniences can never give bliss. Real bliss is bliss of Atma (Atmananda). I am emphasizing that darshan (vision) of God or direct experience of Atma only can give real, permanent bliss. Jiva engages in this battle in three different ways.

Fight for this freedom occurs in three stages. First is physical state. It is freedom from hunger, thirst, and similar inconveniences. Second one is relief from fear, fatigue, cowardice, mental agony like psychological issues. Like a dense fog, like a dark cloud, many people are enveloped by a devil called fear. Sometimes fear caused by actual circumstances, at other times false imaginations causing fears subject them to severe stress, make them incapacitated, submerges them in grief. Never before human race was this educated, and at the same time be in so much ignorance. They are surrounded by nice amenities. Yet, unsafe feeling haunts them. Many conveniences are abundantly present. Yet, some poverty persists. Civilization advanced considerably. But morality, ethics disappeared. Now the third, the struggle faced by man in the spiritual world. They may not know this. Yet, they keep seeking this freedom. Man's real nature is divinity. The truth that man is divine has to be agreed to. God is present, resides in man. God's kingdom is inside (antha-rangam). Sensory pleasures, enjoyments stand as a wall between man and Atma, Jnana and Ajnana (ignorance). In the battle for spiritual progress the effort deployed is entirely utilized in keeping the mind pure. Many among you are subjected to the attack of worldly vishaya vastu (objects, emotions, thoughts). Instead of searching for bliss in God, you are searching for it in sensory pleasures, joys. You are passing away time without knowing the ultimate meaning of life, without studying life deeply. As if you do not have any other occupation, many times again and again experiencing delusion that final happiness is in pleasures of vishaya (O,E,T). That is, you are deluded. Everyone of you is desirous of bliss. But, many of you are desiring those which are impermanent, and changing. There is no person till now who has found permanent bliss in joyous experiences and pleasures of vishaya (O,E,T). Bliss is only in Atma darshan (vision, experience of Atman). Words that do not know exaggeration are in this Anjaneya's speech. Unimaginable secrets being revealed by this Bajrang Bali's words are to mend and show you ways, mysteries to Baba's (Sathya Sai) nearness that you desire, that is, to be very firmly present with Baba !

93) Swami, What are desire (Asha) and ideal (Ashayam) ?

Wish is a synonym for desire (Asha). If you feel like having, attaining, it is called desire (Asha). With positive, affirmative thoughts desire is necessary. But, excessive desire, bad desire are unnecessary. These lead to suffering. Desire to be a winner is an ideal, then destination becomes victory. Man's intelligence can make impossible into a possibility is truth. When examined, there is a lot of difference between modern man and man from ancient times. For this difference to manifest, man had to bring out the wealth of intelligence hidden in him and put it to use! Man from past was 'motu' (uncivilized) - today's man is 'remote'! Then did not know how to cook - but today what is cooked is sealed and eaten for years. Synonym for desire is wish. Wishes arise based on circumstances. Desire is a natural characteristic of man. Among the buried gunas in man, desire is the first guna (characteristic). There is no end to desire. When one desire is fulfilled, another begins. This is man's nature. Man has lot less satisfaction, and contentment. Growth in man physically and worldly occurs due to desire. Infinite hidden power is brought to surface only by desire. In desire higher objectives sprout. Based on circumstances man releases suitable thoughts in the form of desires and able to attain them by deploying his physical energy and skill. It took man a long time to realize that infinite energy, power is hidden inside him. It is natural for human effort to naturally move forward without trying. You already know that change occurs based on circumstances. Desire seeks change - higher ideals (ashayam) attain state of maturity through change and creates history. 'Na asha na jivita - na ashayam na gamya'. 'No desire no life - no higher ideals no purpose, goal'. There is no life if there is no desire - without ideals cannot reach destination. A boat alone cannot cross the river. It needs an oar. Boat gives shelter, while oar specifies the directions. Likewise, desire is boat while ashayam operates like oar, indicates the directions. For life to proceed forward desire is like a salary. To fulfill physical needs, man's want naturally gets born as desire. Every person sooner or later by inner churning will know himself. This is Dharma, this is Veda. Human in man comes out when inner churning occurs. That is when ashayam (higher ideals) arises. For accomplishing ashaya, man can get oriented to action. He realizes the infinite power within and utilizes it. Man toils day and night for attaining ashaya. Forgets about rest. Challenges even destiny. Becomes exemplary to world. Must understand that there is no high, low in ashaya. Anyone who takes shelter in ashaya, gets ready to pull out the infinite energy hidden in him and charges forth. No matter how many obstacles or hindrances they face, moves forward and pierces the destination. This is Truth ! When asha (desire) is dharmic, ashayam will be very great, and any person is turned into an ideal power. Every person has desire to attain physical needs. Desire is natural - ashaya is unique, distinctive. Goal will be reached by the initial resolution of an ashaya. To reach the destination, ashaya has to be realized. To realize ashaya, one must bear unimaginable disturbances, difficulties, losses. Must move forward with tolerance. In awareness every grain is of the form of Paramatma. Being aware of yourself is Vedanta - your journey into yourself is Veda ! End is a hidden treasure of Jnana, everyone's mind. Rough diamond when separated from stones, and chiseled, the real diamond value gets known. Every person's mind is more valuable than a diamond. Just the way a rough diamond is chiseled, when man's desire is chiseled, ashaya gets born, and man undergoes a marvelous transformation. Sympathy, kindness, compassion, love, serve, non-violence, these divine qualities are in everyone, to bring those out ashaya is highly necessary. Every life has a ashaya for life. For the fulfillment of human life, ashaya is very much needed. 'Not slow step, but first step is needed'. For ashaya attainment and ashaya inspiration, not adaptability but strict adherence is required. By analyzing the meaning of attaining ashaya, highest meaning (param-artham) must be understood. Only then one can go from object to reality and from substance to actuality. To change from narrow outlook to broad mindedness, a transformation takes place in their living, in their desire outlook. From negativity, despair and depression feelings get born. Desire encourages positivity, while despair encourages negativity and groaning !

94) Wish to know in detail about the paths for getting Mukthi, Swami?

Diversity is natural to Prakriti (Nature). Everyone is not alike, do not behave same way. They live according to their interests and likes. Likewise, turning towards God, those who want to learn the ultimate meaning of life chose paths according on their tastes and interests. There are five primary paths. 1) Karma Yoga 2) Bhakti Yoga 3) Jnana Yoga 4) Hatha Yoga and 5) Raja Yoga. Each unto their own, based on their needs they follow the paths. Rituals, veneration, vows, consecrations, fasting, wearing rosaries, service to society programs, all these come under Karma Yoga. This is the method adopted by naive who are Tamo guna predominant. But, they must not accept any return from these Karmas. This is the easiest path of all. Everyone can follow. But, there should be complete faith in God. Bhajans, devotional songs, worship, devotional fervor, all these come under Bhakti Yoga. Selecting a sculpture, a picture, a swami, taking him as replica of God and worshipping with devotion and surrender. These kind of people have complete surrender towards the individual or energy they are worshipping. They offer their entirety to him. This is more difficult than Karma yoga. Only a few can follow this path. Because, songs, bhajans, hymns, may not be possible for everyone. Their nature is related to Rajo Guna. With this path, sense control is achieved. Third path is Jnana path. This is even more difficult. Very few have this opportunity. Those who have excessive Satva Guna, and can move forward with enquiry, discernment only they can get a good handle on this path. Can turn from Karma to Bhakti, and Bhakti to Jnana. But, for that it is necessary to have complete unitary Brahman knowledge (paripoorna Advait Brahma-jnana). In regards to that when one has the right understanding only then it comes into experience. That is why, this Anjaneya as Guru is handing you so many teachings. These experiences once they come into one's personal experience, only then meditation needs to be continued. End stage of that meditation is Samadhi. In that manner following the methods of meditation and samadhi becomes Raja Yoga. This turns individual towards complete freedom. It fulfills the highest meaning of life. Therefore, Karma, Bhakti, Jnana paths can be followed but if they stay separate then it is not completeness. Hence, when one follows all the three put together only then completeness is attained. Once completeness is attained sadhana becomes very easy. When only Jnana is there, without following Karma, Bhakti there is no chance of attaining completeness. Because, for Jnana to come into experience all the three - Bhakti, Karma, Jnana - are necessary. Lastly, Hatha Yoga is a hard rigorous process for controlling the body. It is a method to overcome mind by controlling body many different ways along with restraining the senses. Because, body has to be in complete control to assist in sadhana. It requires strict rigorous disciplines and regulations. All yogas are various floors to be followed for turning man towards elevated path. No one is less, and any one of them is not complete. Spiritual path in all measures is supreme. There is no doubt in it. Today many people say that they are continuing on this path. Only very few are able to attain fulfillment. Because, when body and mind cooperate great results can be attained in meditation. For that, one must get them ready. If body is in stage of Tamo guna, and mind in Rajo guna then sadhana becomes difficult !

95) Swami, How to get body and mind ready for sadhana ?

For sadhana one must have clean individual life and way of living, disciplined, and bound to regulations. It is very necessary to have an ordinary simple life. Earning money should be bound by Dharma. In every rupee that you spend lot of effort energy lies hidden. By providing selfless service to society results of bad karma can be reduced. Depending on society for individual needs and using the conveniences beyond one's need, it definitely becomes karmic bondage. In that state Tamo, Rajo gunas increase and Satva guna gets hidden. There will be no opportunity for body and mind to cooperate for sadhana. Now a days everyone is proceeding with bodily joy, happiness as life goal. From very young age it has become very ordinary to use the conveniences beyond one's need. This method of stealing the effort energy is very harmful. Without taking these kinds of key aspect into consideration, forcefully doing sadhana is very dangerous. In fact if anyone is turning towards spiritual path, the root cause is inner discontentment. And nothing else. Without discontentment no one thinks about God. Root cause for such discontentment to arise is a life style that is adharmic (against dharma). Root for following such adharma is Ajnana (ignorance). Therefore to drive out Ajnana (ignorance), Atma Jnana (Self knowledge) is the only refuge. There is no other alternative. Once one gets transformed from Jnana standpoint then life itself becomes a sadhana. There is no need for sadhana separately. In fact sadhana does not mean doing something. It is to know experientially the aspect that there is nothing that needs to be attained. If anyone has the feeling that they have to attain something, the root cause for that is having a great attraction towards the physical world. With an inseparable bondage with physical world, no matter how much harsh sadhana is done, it will be of no use. If worldly life is bound by rules and regulations (niyamas), then continuous sadhana is ongoing !

Anjaneya's spiritual discussion

Today I will ask a few questions, you must give reply. I will give answers to your doubts. Ok? This conversation took place between Anjaneya Swami (A) and Mata Viswatmananda Giri (V).

A: Discipline, Autocratic. Everyone must recognize the fine line between the two words. After restraining mind discipline must be followed. Likewise, without forgetting love and humanness, must make others follow discipline. But, what is today, and what is being demonstrated, do you call that discipline, and feeling of dedication?

V: In devotion, and service activities there are many around us who stay reserved, and act 'my way is highway'. It can be called ego or aham but not discipline. As swami said 'help ever' and said 'hurt never' right away. If we forget that, what then? If we think about the statement that 'discipline does not have a spot for smile, gentle speech, and softness', Swami used to happily smile while making others smile and keeping his children in discipline. Taking that as ideal, in the same way doing service with love, smile without crossing the boundary of discipline can be done, swami. Swami often used to call this 'Love all, Serve all'. If we can incorporate this as a part of our discipline, everything will be fine swami!

A: Whatever you said is good, actually what is discipline?

V: To whichever subject it might belong, following rules strictly swami. No one has any kind of concessions in this. Overstepping those niyamas (rules) is inappropriate, swami. Discipline is like a test to mind control. Attaining good results in this is not that easy swami. It is difficult for us to follow discipline but, expecting and getting others to follow is even more difficult, I think. But, those traveling the spiritual journey following discipline is very very needed swami !

A: You take many great souls as inspiration and resolving to do sadhana. Sadhana does not mean sitting erect and closing your eyes, or singing bhajans for hours, isn't it? Why did human birth come? How are you going to put it to good use, how to understand its higher meaning?

V: Man is full of consciousness. Continuation of a beneficial thought, beneficial work everyday continuously, selflessly, without breaks, is expertise in karma. One must practice it and benefit others. Man is not an inert object but an epitome of consciousness. Has the capability to think. With those thoughts, every work, every word must be examined many times before stepping forward. Once started should not step backward. That is the characteristic of man, that is self confidence. It is ok if anything is lost, but when self confidence and self esteem are lost, then that Jivi is same whether alive or dead.

A: This is Swami's (Sathya Sai Baba) question. One farmer takes four bags of paddy and spreads them out in mud. When there is not enough to eat, why is he throwing these four bags of paddy in the mud?

V: This is also Swami's answer, swami. It is not wasting. The four bags of paddy thrown into the mud today, after few months will yield 40 bags of paddy for that farmer. This is the real form of Yajna (homa, fire ritual). Likewise, now we do yajna while uttering each name offer Ghee (clarified butter) into the fire, that divine mantra form that is offered reaches into the atmosphere. It spreads and sanctifies the sounds associated with bad thoughts. Form of mantra does not stay at one spot, continuously travels and mitigates the pollution in the sound!

A: You keep uttering Poorna madha-ha poorna midam. How are you able to experience it?

V: Everything is of the form of total completeness (pari poornam). That is poornam (complete), this is poornam. That which arises out of poornam is also poornam. Therefore, God is of the form of completeness (poorna swarupa). Such a totally complete form to be worshipped with poornam I.e. with total complete contentment. We need to satisfy that pari poorna form with total completeness. Paramatma who is poorna swarupa if we are unable to satisfy, our work, our life is completely a waste, swami!

A: Life is fragile, gone in a second, isn't it? Do not know if you will see tomorrow or not. Worrying about tomorrow leads to depression, isn't it? Increases mental stress. Therefore, what is your duty? Before tomorrow becomes yesterday how will you put it to good use?

V: Before tomorrow becomes yesterday, we will put it to good use, swami. Today's good deeds (sat-karma) get changed into past, gives us happiness, satisfaction when they come into our memory. Our karmas today give us beautiful future. That is, present gives form to past, and decides what will be tomorrow. Therefore, before these moments slip away from our hand, our immediate duty is to do Nama Smaran (Japa), service activities, charitable activities, swami!

A: I already told you another thing earlier. It is worth noting what that is. I said there is an opportunity to rectify whatever you did. Explain how you thought of it.

V: Swami! When a nail is put into the wall deeply, it may not come out by pulling on it. However hard we nailed it, we need to pull out that hard. Need to pull it out with pliers. Then it will come out of the wall. To come out of Prarabda Karma, human effort works in similar manner. Repenting the bad karmas done, not repeating such a sin, to get good thoughts of not repeating, doing service for the benefit of society, by doing these kind of activities we will be freed of sins.

A: How long do you eat food?

V: Half hour, swami.

A: That is not the right answer. Think again!

V: Do not know, swami.

A: You eat till you are full. Taking more time to eat does not mean you ate more. One must eat till stomach is full. Likewise, till your heart ripens you must pray to God. What is ripening of heart? You must become love itself. Change into full of love. If this love principle (prem tatvam) is improved these yugas (aeons), moments, karmas, bondages will not disturb you in the least bit.

A: After all what is love?

V: The principle (tatvam) of doing good without seeking any return is called love.

A: What is oneness (ekatvam)?

V: Purity is attained due to oneness (ekatvam) of heart, speech, and actions. Only then we enter into divinity. Once entered into divinity, hate goes away. Patience must be earned by moving forward tolerating anger, wrath, and difficult circumstances.

A: Does effect of thought (sankalp) spreads to all limbs?

V: Yes, swami. When a stone is thrown into a large lake, the waves produced henceforth spread all over the lake. Likewise, in our Manasa Sarovar (mind lake) a stone called thought is thrown, it does the same let it be a good or bad thought. Those thought waves spread to hands, legs, eyes, ears, and body. If bad thought occurs, my eyes see bad, my legs go to a bad place, my ears hear bad things. Hence, in our mind lake only good thoughts should be placed. Then whatever is said, seen, done then only good will occur. Now a days, if we are hearing bad, seeing bad, speaking bad means they are not that came from outside. Those are waves of our sankalpas (thoughts). For our good or bad, our thoughts are the root cause. Likewise, mind is the cause for our liberation, bondage. Our thoughts are the cause. In summary, everything is dependent on sankalpa. Therefore, if we enhance God thoughts (daiva sankalpa), then whatever is done or seen is divine.

A: "No one can remove what is written on the forehead (destiny). Whichever way it is written, happens that way" how do you take this saying? Let me know your feelings.

V: Swami, that is absolutely true! One who believes everything, without making any effort, saying everything will be looked after by the one above, waste their time. They remain lazy. One is born happy and another miserable. One is rich, while another is in utter poverty. One living being eats another. A strong person suppresses a weakling. These atrocities occur day and night. But since this is created by God, hence to think that God is very cruel, is not true. For example, rain falls equally on all farm fields. But, the farm where it is nicely tilled only that one benefits from the rain. Is it a mistake of clouds? Or mistake of rain? This differentiating thought is made by us, not God. We write our own forehead writing (destiny). To do that, we have to make the effort to earn needed skill and capability. Instead of feeling bad by saying it is our karma, if we can conduct ourselves with the instruments of tolerance, discipline, future will be peaceful swami!

A: Swami (Sri Sathya Sai) is distributing so many experiences. How will you show your gratitude?

V: Swami is doing a lot for us. Loving us enormously. How can we offer our gratitude ? When you and Swami are here, you tell us so many things. We experience many divine experiences, divine perceptions. We share with others and feel happy swami ! This is the gratitude that we can offer to Swami. "Narottama (great person) gets obeisances, not duratmas (evil persons). Heads bow for Karunya (compassion), not for kathinya (harshness)" accepting this truth you shared with us and sharing our direct experiences with others is our life goal. That in itself takes us to destination.

A: What is the song that you were singing recently?

V: 'takku vemi manakoo, sairamudu undu varakoo' 'we have no lack, as long as Sai Rama is there'

A: can you elaborate on the power of mantra 'Rama'?

V: don't know Swami !

A: Entire powers are in the seed (Bija). In 'Rama', 'R' is Agni bijam (fire seed). This burns down the darkness of ignorance due to sin, and karmas. This can be called 'Sath'. When Ajnana (ignorance) gets destroyed, only divine remains. Second is 'A' sound. This is Surya bijam (Sun seed). This energizes (brings consciousness to) the mind. This mind which got consciousness is 'Chit'. Then the third one is 'M' which is Chandra bijam (Moon seed). This grants total detachment. This state is called Anand (Bliss). Those who are beyond the duality like joy-suffering, that is gaining Mantra Siddhi (power of the mantra) !

A: They say A.M. and P.M., what is their meaning?

V: AM is morning PM means evening swami.

A: is that it?

V: That is all I know, swami.

A: should I tell in English?

V: Please tell, swami.

A: AM means Ante Meridian. PM means Post Meridian. How about in Sanskrit?

V: Don't know, swami.

A: AM is, Arohanam Marthandasya. PM is Pathanam Marthandasya. How about Telugu?

V: Don't know, swami.

A: AM is, Antha Marchipoyanu (forgot everything) swami. PM means Prodduna kuda Marichipoyanu (forgot in the morning also). AM also means, Aharam Marichi poledu (did not forget food) swami. PM is, Popu kuda marichi poledu (did not forget the condiments). Eating plenty is the duty, isn't it !

A: Swami (Sri Sathya Sai) taught teachings, how many and how far did you adopt? How deep do you think your spiritual journey occurred? In fact, did you understand the meaning of spirituality?

V: Spirituality means to know about ourselves entirely from all angles. As soon as we know about ourselves, in the next moment we would know about everyone and everything. Unlike that, if importance is given to outer aspects, people, forms, sculptures, then it becomes completely Ajnana (ignorance). Unfortunately, forgetting Advaita, due to giving undue importance to Dwaita feeling, outward facing journey stayed firm and became an obstacle to inner purity. That is why swami mentioned the same thing many many times. But, those who got attracted to leelas (sport), mahimas (miracles), chamatkars (marvels), siddhis (powers), struggled for physical outward connection with Swami and could not think about their own inward journey. As long as individual is thought about, the tatvam (principle) stays hidden. When we forget about the individual, then the sight (drushti) shifts to Jnana. Must think about one's own inner being. That is, should one leave outward physical connection with Swami? it is not necessary. It is a kind of Ajnana also. Be able to have darshan of Swami from completeness. Be able to have a relationship. It is not at all an obstacle to inner purity. Instead, if relationship is made with the form, then it becomes an obstacle to spiritual progress. If able to see God in everything, Swami is also God too ! We are all in him! What more is there beyond this contentment, bliss?

A: I have told, to you all, that Atma is experientially perceived in three stages. I will ask about that, will you answer? If you don't remember, I will tell you their names. At least recognizing the names, give the answers. 1) kalushitam-ga (tainted) 2) savikalpam-ga (with a very thin barrier) 3) nirvikalpam-ga (as it is)

V: Kalushitam-ga (tainted) means Atma with limitations (upadhis) is seen. Therefore when Atma reflects in the mind with lots of desires and thoughts, it is known in its tainted form. A coin when thrown into dirty water is not visible as a coin. I think this is Kalushitam, swami.

Savikalpam-ga means when desires, thoughts become dormant, contemplating constantly on Maha Vakya (great statement) of Aham Brahmasmi (I am Brahman) and its meaning, Buddhi (intellect) stands still concentrated, single pointed, then the manifested light of Atma is called Savikalpam, I think swami. You told us the Truth is behind a thin veil (avaranam). Although buddhi is quiescent, but feeling of Jiva persists. One who sees is separate from Atma.

Nirvikalpam-ga means, mind and buddhi become extinct, the one meditating becomes the object of meditation, becomes one, Atma stays as one , unwavering. I think that is Nirvikalpam swami.

A: Guru is one who attains experientially by recognizing oneself as ever pure, as one alone, after freeing the pure Atma consciousness light from the veiling of Rajo and Tamo gunas, He is the Paramatma!

You might get a doubt. Is it Atma consciousness's work to light up the objects and the world? Does Atma consciousness transmit its light for you to see and know?

V: Answer is a little difficult, swami !

A: Atma is action less (nishkriya), it does not do anything. Further, it is organ-less. It has no organs. Formless, subtlest of the subtle. This Atma does not think, or do anything. How wrong it is to say 'Sun is giving light to everyone', likewise it is as wrong to say Atma is giving awareness, light to everything. Nature of Sun is to give light. Likewise nature (swabhava) of Atma is awareness, lighting up. That's all ! Therefore one must not call the nature of a thing as its work. Nature does not involve effort. Occurs naturally, effortlessly. Work is not like that. Occurs with considerable effort. Blinking of your eyes is your nature and not your work. If it is done as work, it becomes a great burden. Eye develops pain. Hence, lighting up/ awareness is the nature of Atma. Because of the presence of Atma, world and its contents get known, lighted up.

Why does mind get tainted (kalushitam)?

V: Mind gets contaminated due to hearing bad. In fact mind means contamination. Along with that if bad is associated with it, it is even more tainted. Hence do not hear what should not be heard. If any talk that reaches our ear, how we respond to that is dependent on our personality. If all the people on whom society depends on had personality like Swami's love which does not know any contamination, it will be so good. You, and Swami will rejoice at that.

A: There is commotion beside you. You are meditating. You are unable to focus. Do you get intolerant? Or how do you accept it?

V: Whatever the commotion if it is taken as sport of God (Leela), intolerance does not come near. We will attain the capability, state to hear silence in sound.

Life is the effort to suck honey that is stuck to a thorn.

A: How should you look after the body called temple?

V: We must sanctify the body called temple with holy karmas, with enquiry, and with holy thoughts. Speech that is not polluted by untruth, body that is not made unholy with violence, mind that is not made unholy with attachment - hate, I think these are needed, swami. But, man's mind is fickle. It wants to do what is not right. Like water knows low ground, mind shows inclination for weaknesses.

That is, wants to do prohibited things, wants to see forbidden, want to eat things to be avoided, wants to go to places not to be visited, in this manner mind drags us without thinking. Meditation is not to let these bad attributes into us. Purity of mind through this, and if all these are practiced with effort, it will be like training the mind. Then whatever we speak, we do that, hear that, and walk that. With three fold purity (thought, word, deed), we will transform body into a temple, swami !

A: How is a Guru's role? Give a little elaboration.

V: Swami ! After the parents who poured Prana (life breath), it is the Guru. In the darkness of Ajnana (ignorance) one who pours Vidya (spiritual knowledge) called light is Guru. We can never fulfill the debt of Guru. One who tells where to grow, what to do and where, is Guru. Vidya taught by Guru is equal to hidden treasure. Physical Guru spends his life on us and makes us travel on higher journey. Spiritual Guru means, this Guru rectifies our mistakes, teaches us knowledge of world (Loka Jnanam) and gets us to a state where life seems empty without Guru. If this Guru is not there, society will not grow, and those like us cannot find Jnana. That is why it is said "Guru Brahma Guru Vishnu Guru devo Maheswara". We must always show devotion and respect to such Guru.

A: This great elaboration by Anjaneya, is it getting you dedicated to blissful ecstasy within you? If you understand in what manner it is getting neglected, then share that tragic understanding.

V: In what you say, feeling is infinite and sober, language is pure and simple, words are modest, glory is infinite. Such gems of Jnana being neglected due to Ajnana (ignorance), we have to assess it ourselves as to how unfortunate it is. Our lives are getting consumed by worldly things. The illusion of they are everything is not leaving us. Any life is a question paper to itself. Understood that the higher grades we get decides our life. As you indicated, there are nine modes of devotion to develop a relationship with God. There are karmas like Yajna Yaga that gives higher births. There are mutual causes of happiness like worship, and vows. There is meditation where there is darshan of all pervading God. There is name chanting (Japa). When buddhi is calm it gets immersed in these. In fact transactional world is like intoxicating state, swami. Please bless us to come out of it soon, and make effort. When we do that, our human life gets fulfilled. I am thinking it will happen when your blessings and our discipline comes together, please pardon our mistakes, and grant us the state of experiencing with detachment this temporary physical world consisting of vast objects while knowing that this visible world is pervaded by God !

A: Even though your spiritual journey started late, did this Anjaneya's teachings give faith that you will reach destination?

V: Understood Swami. Although our spiritual journey started late, due to our sincerity towards you, that is towards Guru Deva meaning you are Guru, God and hence calling you Guru Deva, with steady devotion towards you, we will reach you. We are your sweet little children ! We are at a very young age where children cannot be without parents, swami. We definitely need your lap, swami !

A: I will ask a small question. Do things occur according to the results of their karma? Or based on their karmas are they experiencing the circumstances? Or is it in God's creation or in your mental outlook? Where do you think is the variation?

V: Variation is neither in God's creation or God's resolve. That variance is only in the thoughts coming from our mind. Because, happiness and suffering are like two wheels to vehicle of life. Vehicle cannot move smoothly without any one of them. Neither happiness nor suffering are permanent. They come and go. But, in those circumstance if we have any responsibility, that is only how we are reacting and responding is to be recognized as our responsibility swami !

A: Then where is that difference? Why are humans experiencing suffering, conflicts, pain?

V: Some experience happiness, suffering in their lives. Some others enjoy happiness, joy only. There are some who lead most of their life in between conflicts. Like we said a little earlier, if life is led dutifully, there is no need to react and respond to that degree, swami!

A: But many people associate their success with good destiny, and failures with bad destiny. How far is that true?

V: I think it is not true, swami. Because, those who believe in self effort do not think about destiny. Because we dream many dreams. Must make them true. But, one must whole heartedly have faith, resolve to attain. Those who do not follow will not able to attain victory in life, swami.

A: Did you recognize the secret behind every victory?

V: Recognized, swami. Great secret is - only ceaseless effort, swami! Where there is no effort even destiny does not cooperate. An aspirant with effort, strength of his resolve will not retreat because of obstacles he faces. Goes forward with even more enthusiasm.

A: Say the way you understand the meaning of the saying, Manav (Man) is Madhava (God).

V: In sequence of evolution human race's mind, buddhi, consiousness transformed giving the opportunity to attain the state of pure consciousness.

Human emerged from the creation, lives in this all pervading life, and then merges back into the creation, is a rejoicing development. That is why Manava became Madhava. From humanity got closer to divinity, proved that he is God. I think that is why Manav became Madhava, swami !

A: What is needed for one known as Bhaka,?

V: A Bhakta does not need anything except God. Does not seek anything from God. In the principle of Bhakti (Bhakti tatvam) there is no room for desires. Every drop of water in the ocean called mind of a Bhakta is captive to God, hence he became Amrutha Putra (eternal, child of divine nectar). In researching for Truth, his inside needs to be subjected to investigation, and needs to be churned by sadhana. Because, that is where Paramatma resides, that is where to search, that is where attained. Such an important inner self, a Bhakta must reform it with a lot of effort, swami !

A: You have to agree that for attainment of Atma Jnana, sadhana is essential. Would this ever so fickle mind settle down that easily? Manas that fell into the net of Maya, in which way you would console and convince it?

V: What you said is true, swami. When Maya Devi is seen with a net from that far away, this wonderful mind of ours says 'I am coming' and gallops towards it as if in a race and by itself jumps right into the net. The fish that falls into it does not try to come out. Likewise, to show the taste of Brahmananda (bliss) in Atma Jnana to the naive mind, that is wandering in the net with great happiness, we need great diligence in sadhana, swami.

A: How do you think about the word shradha or concentration in physical and transactional terms? How do you think and how do you practice?

V: We aspire to have care and diligence in physical and worldly work also, swami. If asked in which way, study diligently, no negligence in performing our employment dharma, not to drive vehicles negligently. If driven like that results in accidents. Swami said even cooking needs to be done with care. When doing service to patients, it needs to be done with care. Need to pay attention to the words of elders carefully. Like this, I think we must work whole heartedly with shradha and ekagrata (diligence, concentration) in transactional and worldly terms.

A: Then how should it be in spiritual terms?

V: Having venerated feeling in God, in Vedic scriptures, highest faith in the sayings of great spiritual souls, this state is called shradha. No matter how many issues are faced devotion (Bhakti) should be unaffected, and unwavering. No matter how many bodily diseases or close ones passing away, financial state getting decimated, one must not waver in the least bit. One must be able to remember God in that state and whole-heartedly believe in his compassion, love, only they can practice shradha and concentration with veneration.

A: Why did Swami ask for reading Sri Sukdam, Purusha Sukdam? What is in it? What did he want to convey?

V: Know a little bit, swami. In Sri Sukdam divine mother's cosmic form, in Purusha Sukdam also cosmic form, creator and his activity, the set up of human division based on Gunas (Varnas), were elaborated. The great elevated Rishis preached to the humanity that with yearning and distress they did Tapas and said they had darshan (sight, experience) of that Param Purush (highest purush, God), and through sadhana attained and experienced that bliss. I heard that 'Vedah-metham purusham anantham; aditya varnam tamasah parastat' verse was told by them, swami.

A: Did you know why you are reading the mantra pushpam?

V: I can say a little bit on this also, swami. In Veda Maha Mantra Pushpam how and where are every atom, seven chakras, their importance, where is prana air are outlined as indicated by the verse 'Neela-tho yad madhyastha vidhyu-lekena bhaskara'. Veda is very sacred. It was divided into four sections, and from that Namaka Chamakas meaning Sri Rudram, Mantra Pushpam, Sri Sukta, Purusha Sukta were pulled out and given to humanity.

A: Ok. In one sentence speak about Namakam.

V: Namakam in Veda is Sri Rudra Prasna. It formulates the all pervading Ishwar tatva or Rudra tatva (God principle).

A: But, many people have the misconception that Chamakam means asking. What do they feel that asking is for?

V: Yes, swami ! In Chamaka it reads 'giving us everything'. I think there is an inner meaning in that asking. In the world all of them are not rich, strong, healthy. There are expert pundits to help these people. There are many skillful people to give them proper respect, to sustain them. To give them enthusiasm, encouragement, to create a livelihood for pundits, to do service to Narayanas (poor people), for rulers to properly rule, the things in Chamakam are asked for. To tell the truth, must be asked only for that. Not for our physical luxuries. That is why, in the end you wish for every karma to turn into Yajna (sacrifice). When yajna, yagas are done, devatas are satisfied, entire humanity is protected by stopping the occurrences of natural devastation. To do that asking for needed things, vehicles, wealth, gold, physical strength, mental energy, is the meaning of the 'asking' in Chamakam, swami !

30-09-2018 10:30 AM

A: In English man is called MAN, what is the meaning? ... your vasana started sticking to me!

V: M means mind or Maya

A means Atma tatva (Atmic principle)

N means Nirvana (liberation) is attained

Many people did sadhana for this Nirvana. In the end they regretted that everything is in them and they have wasted so much time,

A: Everything's valuation is going up. Did you figure out what does not go up in value?

V: We are, swami. But, don't know how to state it. Lack of the good behavior that you wished for us is the cause, I think, swami.

A: You said it well but, one thing - everything is in the human. But, man is forgetting about himself. That is why every object in the world is going up in value, only man became value less. Because, man has lost his human values. Human values should be taken as the five vital airs (pancha pranas). If Sathya (Truth) is not there, it is like prana is gone, without Dharma is like second prana is gone. If these five pranas are not there, you are equivalent to a corpse.

They say gatam gatam (past, past). What kind of thoughts, opinions you have?

V: Gatam (past) means it is not to count the mistakes we committed. We need to make a firm resolution that whichever weaknesses we succumbed to and ended up making the mistake, those weaknesses have to be conquered. Not only that, we must develop the self confidence to strongly practice that. Like a parrot keep uttering the same dialogue and as usual leading a life filled with faults, then resolutions have no value. When the work that we perform is exemplary in the present, only then glory of the past have value, I think, swami.

A: If the mistakes you made in the past are not to be repeated means is it only a list of your mistakes and suffering?

V: Many people say 'Gatam gata-ha' (past is past), swami. They say it with a moan, when they are aching in the present about the mistakes made in the past, they dread in the present about the past sufferings they went through, sacrificing the present and while inviting despair and depression into tomorrow's future, they say 'Gatam gata-ha' with a groan. It is like inviting inferiority complex with open hands. Many people speak about the past with pride also. When in the past they did severe hard work, dedication, firm resolution, sadhana, austerities (tapas), effort, and as a result the victories attributed to them, then they speak with pride, swami.

Question answers below are Anjaneya asking questions and Amma's (Mata Vishwatmananda Giri) replies

A: What is the sadhana for mind purity?

V: Any karma, activity that helps in God's remembrance, God's pulsating light (sphurana), contemplation on God, can be taken as sadhana for purity of mind, swami !

A: Then, what about the people who cannot go to forest and do Tapas (austerity) ?

V: If they perform the karmas as indicated by you, that also becomes a Tapas, swami !

A: But now, what are those that are hindering, standing as obstacles between God - Jiva?

V: Many many obstacles that are hindering, swami. As soon as waking up instead of seeing your form, look into modern gadgets like cell phones, and by reading its messages we are missing life, I understood this as stated in your message the other day, swami.

A: Then, what are you thinking of doing?

V: Whatever work we are engaged in, the way we keep our phones with us without forgetting, likewise if we can stay without forgetting you, then in God's eyes we will become real karma yogis, swami.

A: Why are you not able to know with the Vidya (education) you have?

V: Education now a days, except for knowledge of objective world, is unable to deliver the practical spiritual knowledge of knowing oneself, swami.

A: Then, do you make effort to know?

V: Unable to do swami. Because, man unable to fight with his own mind is trying to run away, swami. Antidote for this problem is giving spiritual education at a very young age, then we can succeed to some degree.

A: What does an intelligent man do?

V: An intelligent man battles with himself swami.

A: In every person what is within (anthargat)?

V: In every person hidden within there is divine bliss, swami,

A: How to bring out that bliss?

V: To bring out that bliss, the Jnana and spirituality that you taught us, swami.

A: Then did you assess what is the cause of suffering today?

V: Yes, swami. Disregarding the Jnana, preachings you gave us for so many days, thinking only sustenance of body, and body conveniences as the highest end/ boundary, and not gaining the highest spiritual Jnana, swami.

A: Then with complete wisdom (sampurna Jnana) what will you ask? What will you pray for?

V: With complete faith wishing to follow your command, swami. Not only that, we have a lot of desires. But when known, you are strictly rejecting them and constantly protecting us. You are mercilessly taking away what we wanted, and taking us to your bosom with love and compassion. Many ups and downs that we face in our life, failures, many many that we face, you are making us accept it whole heartedly and take it as your sankalp (resolve). Without us having to desire anything from you, you already arranged and arranging many things. There is no need to desire for anything new. Based on our deservedness/ our effort you are handing us the results. With those experiences we are becoming wiser, and we are getting relaxed at your feet all the time, swami.

A: Beautifully said. With that complete faith you must follow the command of God. Know that when you were not attaining/ accomplishing, you are getting even closer to God. Such is the plan scripted by Paramatma who is fully aware of the effects and changes. That is why do not think too much about why that happened that way? Why this happened this way? Whatever occurs accept it with full faith.

Japam for sometime, shravanam (listening) for sometime, and reading scriptures for sometime. Heat needs to generate, must feel suffocated. The way of studying by a student three months before the exam is different, study three days before is different, study the day before is different again. Student is the one to know when are their exams and how are they to study, and not the teacher (Guru).

A: Discrimination between Atma - Anatma is the main entrance (simha dwaram) for Vedanta.

4: This body can be viewed as a chariot. How?

A: Body is the chariot. Jiva is the passenger traveling in it, senses are horses, mind is the reins, buddhi is the charioteer (Sarathi). For the chariot to travel safely and properly, reins have to be given to the charioteer. That is, hand over the mind to buddhi.

5: Are you able to understand the things I had been telling?

A: You said understood. Who understood? Who is the one experiencing that they understood? Your body? No. It is something to be known, but it cannot be known. The one to know is separate from the thing to be known. Anything seen, seer is separate from it. Here there is something different from body.

6: When does Ahamkar (ego) gets removed?

A: As Jnana gets closer to zenith, the moment realization occurs of the highest truth that it is even minor than an ant in front of Paramatma, Ahamkar gets removed.

7: What is Avag-mano-gocharam ?

A: Root principle (moola tatvam) for entire consciousness is Brahma Chaitanyam (supreme consciousness). Mind, word, Prana, senses gain their existence due to the inspiration of this chaitanya, and hence cannot know the Brahma Chaitanya. Because of that the Brahma Chaitanya is called Avag-mano-gocharam.

8: What is the cause for enmity?

A: Enmity occurs due to jealousy, ego, hatred which are like fire embers. Whoever has those, their discernment and other good qualities get burned. They become their own enemies, become enemies of society.

9: Did you learn about the Nirvana Shatakam that you are reading? When Govinda Bhagavat Pada asked Shakaracharya 'who are you' then he as a small child, what answer did he give?

A: Shankaracharya gave the following answer to the question 'who are you'. "I am always existing. I do not have name and form. I do not have any relationship with this world. I am not tied to mukthi (liberation) either. I do not have desires. I am pervading everywhere. I am everything. All the time, in all the places I am equally spread. I am eternal. I am bliss-form. I am auspicious. I am pure awareness form of Shiva". He gave us the truth that God and man are not separate !

Question answers below are Anjaneya asking questions and Amma's (Mata Vishwatmananda Giri) replies

A: It is commonly said to treat Swami (Sathya Sai Baba) as husband (Bharta). What is its meaning?

V: Husband does not mean body. Interacting with feeling of Atma in the manner of thoughts/ feelings, and contentedly live as a proof to the examples given by God in his teachings.

A: As God's children what quality must you have?

V: Those who want to be as children of God, the very first distinguished quality they must possess is to be free of pride.

3: How are the live teachings given by God, and the experiences you are having in his presence? Is there anything else you wish to convey?

V: God's touch, his exhalations, his look, word, are that of a father, must have a strong faith that this feeling will end many many births, swami. As a father you tied us to a divine relationship. Making this relationship firm and strong we will travel towards you, swami. You will not leave us. You said everyone has good destiny. It means, you can give faith to those who do not have faith. It is not we getting hold of your feet swami, you make us get hold of your feet. Our gritudes for making us understand surrender (sharanagati) as a divine principle, swami.

A: What else do you need in life?

V: Not needing anything more in life is bliss, swami.

A: God blesses you to live happily. What does that mean?

V: God yearns and anxious to take the Jiva from its depraved state to his extraordinary state.

A: In what way does God's shakti (power, energy) contact and touch you ?

V: God's shakti touches like an ocean of nectar. To that touch this ocean of nectar reacts, it gives a nectarine bath to our nine Nadis (energy channels), swami.

A: Then, from that time what kind of change occurs in you?

V: It is a rebirth, swami. From that time, our thoughts, feelings, and speech will be different. Heat generated by Tapas called devotion (Bhakti), sucks out the pollution (malinam) in us.

A: How do you recognized God's compassion?

V: We don't exist without his compassion, swami. Because, all activities that we perform are due to his mercy. We must in our view take both difficulties and happiness are due to his compassion. Even if we think every little work we are doing with our hands, whichever way we do is all due to his compassion. Without being visible to us he is making us do those activities, is all his compassion, swami. Ocean of Karuna is like a wave. When time is right for the wave, water itself becomes wave. Starts at some place, becomes a mountain, then merges back. Some of the waves feel like it is coming from somewhere. Others feel like they are born close by. Whatever it may be, a wave is nothing but force of air on water, swami.

A: Man wants to attain some things. What are they succinctly?

V: Nischaltwam (sthiram) (equanimity, stability), one pointedness, tolerance, faith, peace, vairagya (detachment), every Jiva who is spiritually inclined has a desire for attaining these, swami.

A: So, what does goal (lakshyam) mean?

V: While knowing oneself, thinking about one's own self, and to merge one's self with God, Lakshyam is helpful tool, swami. It is delightful but a difficult experience also, swami. It becomes a tool to subject ourselves repeatedly to inner enquiry.

A: When does the other person becomes your own?

V: When we forgive them, the other person becomes one of our own, we become their own. When we think they are a part of us, then forgiving them is not difficult. But, it should not become a license to make another mistake.

Anjaneya's Question Answers

(These are Anjaneya's questions and answers)

1: How should Guru disciple relationship be?

A: Through Guru disciple attains the highest goal. By linking one's inner self with Guru's inner self, the disciple can grow significantly. The doubts that arise in one's inner self, disciple will get the answers from Guru only through the blessings of Guru. Must surrender completely to Guru. And, testing the Guru is forbidden. It is impropriety. Becomes an obstacle to spiritual progress. Relationship of Guru-Disciple is affinity of Atma. It is not physical. Any person who wishes to transform spiritually, Guru is necessary.

2: While staying happily as a replication of bliss, How to find out about the history of this Kshetra (body), impermanence, and how do you transact? Elaborate a little on it.

A: Till now you are in the wrong notion that you are this Kshetra (body). Now if you know the nature of Kshetra, then you would know that you are not that and you are separate from it. This requires enquiry. As Kshetrajna (resident of Kshetra) you have no relationship with the gross, subtle, and causal bodies, or their pursuits/ activities. You are only a 'seeing' witness. They are doing their activities/ work because of your light, that's all. In awake state gross body, subtle body, and causal body are all functioning. The one who is getting them to work is called 'Viswa'. From waking up till it goes to bed, it keeps doing this and that. Leave that samsara to him. Once it gets ready to sleep the gross body gets into the body and is tired. Then subtle body works. Its work is to create dreams. In that dream state the Jiva who works is called 'Taijas'. Leave his colorful bizarre activities on his head. Then the Jiva who does not do anything in deep sleep stays happily is called 'Prajna'. Leave his affairs to him. After all, who are you? You are a witness. Only a witness. You are self illuminating, eternal truth, Atma. The witness that you are, stay as witness. Do not get entangled in their activities/ transactions. If you engage, you get entangled in happiness-grief, gain-loss, win-failure, accolades-insults, disturbances, agitations, unrest. Therefore be alone as witness, disinterested. In awake state 'Viswa' came with gross body, you welcomed him. He with his gross body keeps doing something or other and experiencing it. You saw his state, and movements. He said he is going, you let him go. Dream state 'Taijas' came. Welcomed him. With subtle body he roamed all over, did something or other, felt happy, experienced them. You noticed his condition. He laughed a bit, cried a bit, and said he will go, you let him go. In deep sleep state 'Prajna' came. With causal body, in ignorance, without awareness, laid on the bed. You saw his condition. After sometime he too left. You agreed. Among the three when one is there, other is not there. One does not know the condition of the other. But you know about everyone's vishaya (condition, state). You did not come with the one who came, and you did not go with them. When they came and left, when they are there / not there, but you were a witness, as witness alone. You have no relationship at all with the activities of Kshetra and resulting experiences. The experiences of those bodies do not belong to you. Those belong to the individual Kshetras only. You are by yourself, alone. If you identify with them and join them? You will feel those experiences are yours and will laugh and cry. Instead, by letting go your relationship with them, remained and did not keep the illusory relationship, then? You will be in comfort and happy. To stay happily like that you must know the history and impermanence of this Kshetra. Like this, by knowing that the gross, subtle, causal bodies, as all three are Kshetra only, one can let go of the unreal identification with them. Can let go of Abhiman (identification as 'I', 'me', 'mine') in them.

1: What is indicated by Vijaya Dashimi (festival in India) ?

A: There is always good-bad mixed in you. Vijaya Dashimi is celebrated as a symbol of victory over the conflict between them. The shakti (energy, power) needed for winning, Divine mother is incarnated as that shakti to assist wise people (sajjan).

2: What is bad? What kind of bad is eradicated by Vijaya Dashimi?

A: It could be the ill-health in body, bad qualities in the mind, bad thoughts, could be superstitious beliefs, could be the bad customs/ practices in society, could be the filth that pollutes the nature, could be wanting to live long selfishness in contradiction to laws of nature, Vijaya Dashimi is the day to gain victory over bad qualities like these.

3: What is the main aspect which a spiritual aspirant must know?

A: First important aspect that must be known is, the joy that is obtained by steadfastness to happiness (santosh nishta), is it Rajasik or not? Mind constantly engaged in Brahman is Brahmacharya. But, no one can stay all the time in meditative state or samadhi state. Some or other pursuit is necessary. But, in an effort to establish santosh nishta the pursuit adopted if it gives Rajasik happiness, it will cage you in a boundary of convenience. Then you instead of turning your mind towards God, you turn towards those activities. Therefore be alert !

4: Mind associated with vishaya vastu (objects, worldly) operating as a king of senses, what is it doing?

A: It is constantly engaged in the vishaya (objects) of the senses. The 'I' behind the mind, keeps experiencing as 'I' am hearing, 'I' am seeing. This 'I' - mind - senses - sense objects chain is so subtle and sharp that the links in the chain cannot be seen separate, and cannot be detected.

5: What can man know by the diminishing luster of the senses?

A: Man will understand that he is not enjoying the sense pleasures, but sense pleasures are enjoying him. If this is understood, he will get to know how poisonous are the joys of vishaya (worldly objects, thoughts, emotions) pleasures, and how much harm does it bring.

6: What is the meaning of doing namaskar (greeting with joined palms) to Guru?

A: By doing namaskar to Guru ego gets eradicated. There is no other better consequence than that. Atma sakshatkar does not come because you bent your body. Ego has to be bent. In fact if anyone has attained any progress, either directly or indirectly, Guru is the inspiration. When such a Guru is disrespected, even God will not forgive.

7: What guna (attribute) proves man as powerful?

A: Forbearance, tolerance attributes prove man as powerful. These are the yardsticks to determine if man is strong or weak. It is not Deha bala (physical strength) but Buddhi bala (intellectual strength) that is needed. By giving up the limited individuality of 'I' identification with one's own body, man attains infinitude, blissfulness (Anantha tatvam, Amrutha tatvam).

8: What is presented by Jnana - Ajnana (knowledge, ignorance) ?

A: Understanding removes Ajnana, Jnana yields experience.

9: How does Kshetra get born? So, what is the need for God to create?

A: Paramatma is with Maya shakti. Maya is, the thing that appears to exist but it is not there. That is Prakriti - Female (Stree), Paramatma - Purush. Purush called Paramatma impregnates Stree (female) called Maya. Only then birth of Kshetra (field, at individual level - body, cosmic level - entire creation) occurs. What is the need? In previous kalpa Jivas after they leave the bodies they stay in Avyakta, that is, Paramatma. All their vasanas are called samishti (collective) vasanas. They ripen and wishing to experience, they get Paramatma to hurry up. Hence God gets ready to impregnate. Like you sow seeds for fruits, God for creating varieties of Kshetras, these seeds called vasanas are planted in the womb of Maya. These seeds are subtler than subtlest. Invisible to eyes. It is called Avyaktham. This Avyaktha sequentially gets changed, becomes Buddhi called Mahat Tatva. It means, vasanas become swabhava (personality). One gets to be bad due to bad vasanas, and good due to good vasanas. Seed initially stays small. Later it bloats gets bigger. Later a small sprout gets born. Likewise, Avyaktham Buddhi undergoes change, and from it the ego 'I' begins. The sprout when it grows to be a tree, like the way branches are formed, from this Ahamkar (ego) the five great elements (pancha maha bhutas) appeared. They are Apanchikruta subtle elements. They have Satva, Rajas, Tamo gunas. Where did they come from? They come from mother. Father is Paramatma, free of Gunas. Mother Maya has these three gunas. Those came to its children called Maha bhutas. That is, mother is enough !

1: What can be called Rajasik pleasures?

A: Rajasik pleasures are those which are like poison to destroy strength, valor, physical form, intelligence, brain, and enthusiasm. That is why Santosh Nishta (steadfastness of happiness) should not be desiring the Rajasik pleasures. Aspirants (sadhaks) must always be alert to happinesses from attractions of vishaya (objects, thoughts, emotions) which in one form or other satisfies the procreative organ, and taste organ. So, pleasures that are desirable in the beginning, become burdensome in the end, will result in disgust, loss, and disenchantment.

2: How to develop a mind with good character? How to cleanse your mind of dirt as and when it happens?

A: First you must know and understand the dirt that accumulates in the mind. All those that incite the restlessness of mind is dirt. They can be desire - anger, ahamkar ('I') - mamkar ('mine'), fear - illusion, likes - dislikes, attachment - hate, praise - condemn. These, in the form of samskars, imprint indelibly on the mind. These imprints show up as thoughts, feelings, emotions in your behavior. They manage, control your life journey. Using Vivechana (discernment) one must learn to remove the dirt as it occurs just like the ocean.

3: In fact, what should parents be concerned about their children ?

A: In fact, parents should not be concerned about the children who are on the path of Param-arthikam (highest meaning of life), but for those children who are in the transactional world and are flapping like fish out of water due to strong attachments (vyamoha). Three things are difficult to attain (durlab) - human birth, desire for freedom, shelter of realized souls (manush-yatvam, mumuksha-tvam, maha purush samshray). So, even if desire for freedom is not there, must encourage children for sheltering with Maha purush. Many parents think that if children go near sanyasis, they will lose them. But, that is wrong. In the world everyone cannot become an ascetic (sadhu), total renunciates (sarva sanga pari-tyagi). Those who are reaching youth stage from childhood, it is the duty of the parents to take them into the presence of Sadgurus.

4: In the effort to attain oneness from multiplicity, how should your thought horizons be ?

A: It means that from oneness multiplicity arose. That is from eternal, a sport, activity (leela) arose, then at one state multiplicity disappears, oneness also disappears. God has no parallel. Cannot be described with an analogy or similarity. I will say this state is in between light - darkness state. God is the doer (karta). This entire world (Jagat) of Jivas belongs to him. This awareness is Jnana. Knowledge that I am doer, I am Guru, I am parent is Ajnana (ignorance). Understanding that money, prosperity, relatives, home, spouse children are mine, is Ajnana (ignorance). Till the awareness that "God, you are the doer" dawns, must come back again and again. It will not let you know the truth of 'I', 'mine'. Till Advait Jnana dawns, darshan of pure consciousness does not occur. Once darshan of pure consciousness occurs, then it is unbroken bliss. In the state of Parama Hamsa this Nitya-nanda (unwavering bliss) is experienced.

1: What is biased vision? In spiritual discussions to what degree are the dualities like yes - no considered?

A: Transient - permanent? aesthetically pleasing - taste less? thoughts flow in this manner. As an example for this, in a bus while traveling one elderly person said "delay - nectarine - poisonous" (alasyam - amrutham - visham). Another one said "Nidana-mey pradhanam" (slow is primary). These two are mutually conflicting. He expressed his doubt, so which one should be taken up? I gave an answer which goes like this, when rice is put on the stove "slow is primary" and must leave it on the stove. Else you will have to eat wet uncooked rice. Once rice is cooked "delay nectarine poisonous" hence take it off the stove. Else it will be burnt. Therefore, dualities are to be considered based on appropriateness of timing. Not take them literally. If you think what is permanent, one can say there is no impermanent. Because from humanity to collective living beings, many are getting born and dying ! In what manner is it permanent? you might get this doubt, Those people may not be there, but with some other people getting born humanity becomes collective living beings. In this manner world is permanent. In another way Self or Atma is always there in everything. Then everything becomes present (for one who has Atma experience). From the standpoint of direct experience of Atma, everything is permanent. When you get equipoise towards holy ganges water - stinking sewage canal water, melodious flute music - loud noise of children frolicking, then Brahma Jnana is attained. Holy ganges is that, sewage canal is that, therefore aesthetically pleasing - tasteless becomes biased vision, I will say.

2: In life Jiva must experience four stages. In what way they can be experienced ?

A: In Rishis words a Jiva must follow Brahmacharya, Grihasta, Vanaprastha, Sanyasa ashramas. It means, during the time of education Brahmacharya, prime age - marriage, old age - avocation of a mendicant, in yoga path - sacrificing the body.

3: God after ending the incarnation stage (avatar hood), what is distinctive about him ?

A: Assisting everyone - highest devotees - ordinary folks (whether they pray or not), in perilous time those who plead for help like Gajendra - those who do not plead. When God is with form and when he is in the temple as prayed to figurine, is he hearing with his ears? To be able to give alms, or unable to give is not in your hands. To you the power to give, for them the destiny to receive will occur only when God grants it.

1: In reality who can generate physical pollution?

A: In fact those who are in illusion (Brama) create physical pollution. First one must know the roots of mind. After that one must be able to pierce it, go beyond it, be able to melt it. In this creation, in everything one thing is seen from the outside, while the second thing is hidden right behind it. Those who think what is visible outside is real, it is like they got infected with mental disease. Instead, if one can see the root of the visible thing behind it, then it's like they have no mental disease. In the same manner mind is a dependent entity. Basis or support is behind it. That is Atma. In this creation Atma is the only Truth (Sathyam). Rest is Mithya (neither real nor unreal). Those who are in the illusion that Mithya is real create the physical pollution. All of those are patients of mental disease. Complete permanent solution for that is Atma Jnana.

2: Once one understands that they are Kshetrajna and that Kshetra (body) is separate from them, how must the enquiry proceed ?

A: You are under the wrong notion that this Kshetra is I. Once the nature of the Kshetra is known, you will know that I am not this, I am separate from this. Then enquiry must proceed like this. You as Kshetrajna have no relationship with gross, subtle, causal bodies, or with their activities, you are merely a witness who 'sees' them. They are doing their activities due to your light, that's all.

3: What is called Ahamkar ?

A: By becoming one with the individual's body, mind, buddhi, and forgetting itself, Atma operating as Jiva is Ahamkar. By having a relationship with the world of vishaya (object, thoughts, emotions), this Ahamkar thinks 'I', 'mine'. The experiences experienced in this world are also Ahamkar. Atma does not have any experience. It is only a witness.

4: What can be said succinctly about Atma Vidya?

A: Ajnana called Preya, Jnana called Shreya are always attached to man. Those who are associated with the Jnana, auspiciousness occurs to them. Those who took shelter in Ajnana end up in troubles and become sinners. A person in Ajnana thinks he is a good person, intelligent person, a scholar, and ends up in a stage where a blind person shows him the way. In the intoxication of Ahamkar (ego), Abhiman (pride), one who is dragged away in the flow of attachment to wealth does not have keen interest and enquiry into the higher world. All those who proudly claim that this world is everything and there is no higher world, in the end cannot escape going to Yama Loka (world of Yama - Lord of death). In the world Jnanis are very rare. There are none who desire Atma Vidya and have the deservedness to hear it. Even if they hear, there are none who can understand it. Atma can be attained only through a teacher who had darshan of no-two, Advaita. An Acharya (teacher) who experienced Brahman-Jnana, when Atma tatva is taught by him, the listener gains wisdom of Atma Jnana understands he is I, that is, 'I' is Brahman.

1: Jnana means what? Is there beginning and end to it? Through Jnana many have reached to higher spiritual states. How to attain that state?

A: Entire world is full of pure consciousness. It is divided into Atma - Anatma (not Atma). All that is not An-atma is Atma. But, An-atma emerges from Atma, and merges back into Atma. Therefore, An-atma also is Atma. In fact, Atma is in oneness. Hence, it does not have any knowledge (jnana). All information related to finding its existence becomes Atma Jnana. But Anatma is made up of five elements, with names and forms, with colors, is in variety, and looks complicated and confusing. Hence, all this entire thing is called Bhoutika Jnana (physical Jnana). As far as the physical world is spread, Jnana also expands that far. Hence there is no beginning or end to it. That is why it is called infinite. In fact the reality is, all of that is a transmutation of Atma, and nothing else. But, it does not stay stable, keeps changing into creation, sustenance, dissolution, therefore it is called Mithya (unreal) Jnana. It is addressed that way because anything that changes is not eternal. That is why, everything, physical world, that is associated with Mithya Jnana is called Maya. Transforming spiritually and fulfilling the ultimate meaning of life is like doing gymnastics on a sword. Because purifying contaminated minds is not an easy task. For that, Sadguru's guidance, complete non-dual Jnana of Brahman, uninterrupted sadhana, are very necessary and required. I am requesting that you discipline your life in that direction and attain good results.

2: Avyaktam word is used. What is its meaning?

A: Personality or nature (swabhava) of Buddhi is caused by Avyakta Prakriti. That is, the causal body consisting of Vasanas is Avyaktam. How did it form? When intentional thoughts and karmas are done, Vasanas get imprinted in the mind. Those vasanas are Avyaktam or Prakriti. These vasanas keep inspiring karmas again and again.

3: In Ramayan mother Sita gave an invaluable message to Hanuman. What is that sandesh (message) ?

A: 'Hanuma! Even dumb cruel animals when someone, in spite of their mistakes, comes to them they protect them. I am conducting myself as human female, spouse of Sri Ramachandra, who knows Dharma, you are asking me to hand over the demonesses because they made me suffer? They are like Atithi, guests. I will protect them' said mother Sita. This is the summary of the message highlighting the importance of Atithi (guest).

4: Do you know what I said to mother Sita? Do you know the reply mother gave?

A: Mother! Give permission. I will kill all of them using my fists. Mother replied, you did what your Lord told you to do. They did what their Lord told them to do. Why kill them? Said mother.

5: What sadhana you must be doing ?

A: Your Atma to be involved in all other Atmas. Distribute your Atma to all others. Integrate others Atmas into you. You will get to know how much happiness you get by doing that. Not knowing Atma is equivalent to Atma hatya (suicide). To the degree you offer yourself (Atma arpan) to others seva, you will get that much bliss. This leads to liberation.

6: What are the utmost needs of a sadhak?

A: Devotion (Bhakti), Nischalata (equanimity), Mano nibbaram (self-command) are very much needed. In the ascendance of spiritual stages these three play a primary role.

7: Are you feeling that you need these Anjaneya's messages. Else how are you thinking about them?

A: Swami! The preachings you are handing us changes the trajectory of human life, and proclaim the infinite, non-dual, marvelous Atma tatvam (principle of Atma). Jivas who dive into that Ananta tatvam (principle of infinite) must and will experience bliss of Brahman. You the slayer of demons slaying the demon qualities in us, and your nearness is making us constantly float in the presence of Lord Rama. Your preachings are absolutely necessary, swami. Our gratitudes, swami!

1: Why do we need to express gratitude to God?

A: In creation God gave special characteristics to human which no other living being has. Along with higher characteristics (uttama gunas) he granted Jnana. Gave a body convenient for performing actions of Dharma. For that you have to be grateful to God. What do you need to do for that? You must love and do seva to human community, and community of living beings. You must alleviate their difficulties. Only then you will be expressing the gratitude for the body that God gave you. In this manner you become eligible for God's grace. With this God given body, as you keep helping others (paropakar), you will get closer to God.

2: Who are called keerthi kayas (famous or well known people) ?

A: Some give up their lives for doing good to others. Although they die, but with a body named 'keerhi' (renown or reputation) they stay for a long time. Like living forever, they remain in the minds of people. Keep getting commendations in the world. That is why they are called 'keerthi kayas'. When good work is done prior to death, that renown will remain in the world for aeons of time (yugas). Body gets sanctified.

3: Actually God means who?

A: God is not a person, not shakti (energy), not an object, and not at all a substance. God is formless, faultless, free of gunas (attributes). God is only a state (stithi) alone. State of void, state beyond thoughts/ emotions, state of thoughtlessness, state of egoless, state of Atma, state of Parabrahma. It is only a 'state' (stithi) alone. There are no descriptions, illustrations, estimations, imaginations over there. But, for ordinary human beings to let them know of the existence of God in many names, forms, and he appears (pratyaksham) directly to them in their imaginary form.

4: In what way does Atma lament as it leaves you and goes? Think about this in a natural way and reply.

A: "I am leaving, they say do not leave. Even if they say - I built huge mansions for you, see how much money I made for you, this is all for your satisfaction, stay in me and enjoy all these "- "enjoy? How? Because your body has diabetes so cannot eat sweets, body has BP issue so had to kill my desire for spice, cannot eat anything I like because your body cannot digest, your entire body from head to toe is full of diseases, look at that stomach it is bloated like a pot, we both know to walk how breathless you get, you tell me how to stay in your body? Does anyone stay in a home that is all in ruins? I live in your body, what relationship do I have with the house you built? Your body is my residence, the nine gates to my house (body) all have issues, I do not have safety, no joy, above all the first disease you got is money disease, since that came did you ever let me sleep? Did you let this body, I am in, take rest? Every second you competed with others and filled me with jealousy, to overthrow someone you made me to conspire many times, how many times you made me burn with revenge and rot with envy? Remember. When illnesses were surrounding you, did you pay attention?" Saying so it gets ready to leave. Despite all the sufferings you subject it to, it stayed with great calmness in you, and protects this body which you consider as 'you', look how peaceful it is. This is the peace that is needed. That is peace of Atma.

1: Sanubhuti and Sahanubhuti these two words look similar. But meanings are different. In fact their literal meaning, and highest meaning are different. What are they?

A: To show Sanubhuti means to feel sorry, pity when others suffering is seen. Sahanubhuti means to take part in other people's troubles. There is a great difference between the two. Not only that, imagining yourself in their spot, if possible trying to remove them is also called Sahanubhuti.

2: What is the difference between Danam (charity) and Tyagam (sacrifice)?

A: You give some what from what you have and consider that you have done sacrifice. But, it is not sacrifice. There is a considerable difference between charity and sacrifice. Whatever you like and love, when you give that to others then it is sacrifice. Most loving thing for human is his life. Sacrifice means offering even one's life. When you give some what from what you have is called charity. It can have a little bit selfishness. But, sacrifice has no selfishness at all.

3: What is the path one needs to follow for attaining blissful state?

A: Whichever crop you want, you will have to plant the seeds of that crop. You have to chose that only, isn't it. Sow the seeds of sacrifice, reap the crop called bliss.

Non stop without rest I had been preaching to you and you keep on listening. Merely listening has no use. Are you implementing even a sentence? However long you are in the state of listening, then, when will implementation be? Today you think you know everything. But, although you know everything you are unable to know yourself. A very pathetic situation. What you heard, what you got to know, put at least one in practice, I will be happy. Both your difficulties, and sins can be quenched and removed by love. Only this love, no matter how many troubles in ocean of samsara, it will turn the boat of your life towards love and attains success. More than that it gets you God and God's love. If you don't let hate, anger, jealousy come near you, you will get closer to unmanifest bliss. This entire world is mithya (unreal). In this who is for who? Because of attachment to body you are loving each other. This is also selfishness. Love everyone, serve everyone. Love the divinity in everyone. With this inspiration make your life full of happiness !

96) Swami, How should our thinking be regards to past-present-future?

The time that you encounter in your life you divide them into three states, that is, past-present-future. It is a fact that each of them has its own importance. Yet, ordinarily many people say "gatam gataha (past is past) let it go", "who knows what will happen tomorrow?". They also say do not think. But no doubt, the effect related to past falls on present, and the effect of your present falls on the future. In that case make a little effort and assess how much of both to ignore and how much to remember. Even if you let it go saying 'gatam gataha', but do you think the bad karmas done in that 'gatam' (past) will not give results by God thinking "it is ok. They forgot past, poor thing! I will also let it go"? Say you got seeds of a thorny plant and a fruit tree, sowed them in the ground. What will happen? Thorny plant seeds grow a thorny plant, while fruit seeds grow a fruit tree. It does not happen contrary to that, isn't it ! Same thing is with sins and merit. God is a greater accountant than you! His balance sheet is not like yours. Must experience the results of sin for the sinful karmas, and results of merit for the good karmas done. Nothing is reduced, netted, or balanced. That is, for every action (good or bad) done in the past a reaction without fail occurs in the present. Before you groan saying why is it happening to me only? look into your past sincerely and examine it yourself. Likewise, the good karmas good results from past will make you happy in the present.

Therefore, either good - bad as it occurs, think about why one says 'gatam gata-ha'. No human has the power, neither now nor in future, to bring back the time that has already passed. That is why, they console themselves saying 'whatever happened, it is already in the past'. By repeatedly speaking about the good work done in the past there is definitely a danger of ego rising. Likewise if you keep thinking about the mistakes done in the past, what use is there except getting inferiority complex? Forget about the mistakes and errors done in the past. But, do not forget the lessons it taught. Past should not disturb the present happiness, peace again and again. Jnana that no book can teach. your experiences are directly giving it to you. The opportunity that others did not get, it selected you. Don't throw it away. No need to feel dejected thinking about what has transpired. Duty of the present is to take the lessons learned and grow higher. Did not the highway robber Ratnakar change into Valmiki who wrote the Ramayan? Vemana who was a bhogi (squanderer) become a renunciate and change into a Yogi? Do Narayan Seva (feeding the poor, afflicted), give away everything that is yours in charity to God who is in the forms of Narayan (poor). Ego will be obliterated. Today is still in your hands. Put it to beneficial use. Saying yes, take a step forward. God will get you all the needed resources. Along with that your thoughts, always always always always always always always always always be devoid of ego, must submerge in the nectarine ocean of Rama's name. Then Lord Rama will come running to keep you afloat. You must make this Anjaneya, who is with you, happy. What has been told, put it to good use. I will tell you another noticeable thing. I am telling you that you have the opportunity to rectify what you have done. Today's good deeds get changed into past, when they arise in your memory, they will give you happiness and satisfaction. Your today's karmas will give you beautiful future. In summary, your present gives shape and form to your past. It decides the future. Therefore, before these moments slip away from your hands, your immediate duty is to do name chanting, seva activities, and charity. Those who wish that all their money should belong to them must do charities. This is Anjaneya's word, a treasure. In this aspect I pray to my Lord Rama everyday as follows:

sankalp-matra samjanitha padma-bhavanda-mandalaya vinutha ghandalaya dakshinya karuna-kataksha rakshita bhakta nikaraya sarva-mauni-sukaraya dhordhanda-keli pratunditha shambhu banaa-sanaaya mogha shasanaya kodanda simha-leelaa dandith-asura varanaya bhava vidaaranaya!

(39 patika-mukkalu 3 sadgun (tri gunas) 9 types of devotion)

" Lord Sri Ramachandra! You with mere sankalpa (thought, resolution) can create and dissolve this creation. You protect your devotees with your graceful and compassionate sight. You remove the afflictions of poor and helpless. You are the supreme only known by Vedas, dedicated to Dharma, fond of those who take your shelter, please accept my offerings of flowers of obeisances requesting you to bear this destitute" this is the prayer of Hanuman. I am hoping you will understand why I told you this.

06-12-2018 10:20 AM

97) Swami, with what outlook we should do Narayan Seva (feeding the poor)? How to think and feel?

One who is receiving the alms is direct God himself who came to grant you merit (punya) and absolve you. To think and feel that the person in front of you is God himself is an important part of Narayan Seva. But, that is very difficult. Simply giving charity is easy. Like “Bhakti leni pooja, patri chetu” (Worship without devotion, waste of leaves used for worship), if you do not have the feeling that what you are offering is for God in the person in front of you, there is a risk of lacking purity and sincerity in your seva. Then the utility of that seva is void, empty.

98) Swami, In what way can we get darshan of God?

To get darshan (direct experience, vision) of God, one does not need to memorize book and scriptures. Not only with deftness of Buddhi, but with inner experiences, spiritual knowledge gets known. Through that one can attain God's darshan (vision) - sparshan (touch) experiences.

99) Swami, How does one get direct experience (sakshatkar) of Atma?

Atma sakshatkar does not come by bending one's body. If ego is bent then one will definitely get Atma sakshatkar.

100) Swami, What is Aradhana?

Aradhana means anguish. Weeping does not mean tears. Fire capable of burning down heart, enters and cremates. It is a Maha (great) Yoga that cremates entire 'mine' feeling, love-hate. That is Bhakti Yoga. When it is there at all times and in all states, that is Jnana. That is Nishkama Karma. It is everything.

08-12-2018 10:25 AM

101) Swami, Why does God respond to Bhakti (devotion) ?

Due to devotion you get the understanding that God is extremely great. Not only that, you get the yearning to offer yourself to him. This kind of yearning occurs also with knowledge of Veda chants. Thereby fire worship is done. Fire has the quality of burning. The physical fire seen burns the oblations offered. Fire of Jnana does not have form. But, it burns the bad karmas. Due to that, Jnana becomes even more effective, gives out light. Vedas should be read. For that literacy is needed, required. Therefore, consider reading as a yajna (sacrifice), must be practiced as a Tapas (austerity). Even a moment wasted, attaining the results of Tapas get delayed. This slows down the speed of your higher journey. Concentrating your mind for a second, an invaluable truth might reach into the treasury of your mind. It will be useful for your entire life. Then God responds (because he is admirer of language and feeling).

102) Swami, What is the destination, goal of man?

Every person is making many efforts for bliss. But, this bliss is unseen in the places he is searching. Although he is the embodiment of bliss, he is trying to search for it in the world. It is foolishness. Humanity is born in bliss, grows in bliss and merges back in bliss. Bliss is man's birth, dharma, and destination.

103) Swami, What kind of contentment gives Mukthi?

Every Jivi gets contented with what it gets in life, stays with the feeling that "I do not need anything more than this. This is enough", that in itself gives great amount of happiness, contentment. To think, do not need anything more than this in life is happiness. This happiness gives contentment. That changes a man into 'stitha prajna' (equanimous). That 'stitha prajna' walks him toward the path of Mukthi (freedom).

104) Swami, What are Navratri (nine holy nights or new nights)?

Do not say night means darkness. It may be said darkness is an indicator of Ajnana (ignorance). Light in the day refers to Jnana, knowledge. Instead of saying nine days why say nine nights? You go to temple offer your obeisances by closing your eyes, why? Isn't closing your eyes darkness! If something to be seen, it is an attempt to see light called God in that darkness. Likewise, why new nights? Because, they remove the darkness called Ajnana with the yearning to see God, these nine days with dedication yearning for light, therefore these bring a newness to you. If Sathya (truth) is known, no darkness. Sun is there twenty four hours. There is no sunset for Sun. Earth is rotating around itself, while going around Sun. Hence, day and night occur for the sake of your health. Vedas say "Tamaso ma Jyotirga Maya" (from darkness to light), but I say 'darkness that is basis for light, in itself is light'. What will you say?

for all to live happily by standing as patron to afflicted lives 105) Swami, How can we ascend to a higher state spiritually?

Recognizing the nature and character of world, and understanding that all of it is Maya, illusion, a mistake, you must attain this experientially in order to reach to a higher spiritual state. Currently stuck in the bondages of attachment, and in the intoxication of science, technology. Living in the intoxication of materialism, creating tons of information through your intelligence. This becomes harmful contaminated knowledge. Any method or process that contaminates you is harmful. Transforming spiritually and fulfilling the highest meaning of life (Paramartham) is like doing gymnastics on a sword. Because, purifying contaminated minds is not an easy task. For that, Sadguru's guidance, complete non-dual Jnana of Brahman, uninterrupted sadhana, are very necessary and required. Step forward by completely grasping the teachings of this Anjaneya who is preaching as a Sad Guru. I am entreating you to discipline your life in that direction and attain good results.

13-12-2018 10:10 AM

106) Swami, How should be the Guru-disciple relationship? How does a disciple obtain attainment through the Guru? Can a disciple grow greatly by getting his heart to become one with the heart of Guru? What answers does disciple get from the Guru for the doubts arising in his heart? Can Guru be tested? How far is it appropriate? Would there be any obstacle to spiritual growth?

Guru-disciple relationship is an alliance of the Atma. It is not physical at all. Guru is definitely necessary for any one who wishes to transform spiritually. So, physical bondage with that Guru leads to a very deep alliance with the Guru. Develops love towards the Guru. Guru does not engage with the world and sees that the disciples does not either. Engaging with the world has the opportunity to fall into love-hate emotions. A disciple who takes Guru's word as words of Veda, very quickly gets released from bondage. No matter how many methods final goal is one, therefore with the relationship of Guru you can take what is needed, and let go of what is not necessary. How necessary is a boat for crossing the river, a Guru is that necessary for growth in the spiritual path. So, skill needs to be attained in sadhana. Inner voice should awaken. Jnana swells up from that heart (antharangam). The aspects taught by Guru till they come into experience, doubts keep welling up. Till doubts are cleared disciple must have extreme desire to know (Jignasa). One must start knowing oneself. Understand the way an organization and a Guru that has been granted to you. This Guru is only a dummy. Real Guru is this Anjaneya. Utilizing her by handing you what is needed through the dummy, and replacing her back with dummy. Understand this Guru principle (tatvam) that is getting you to enjoy complete freedom, and creating complete understanding for attaining full and complete non-dual Jnana of Brahman (paripoorna advaita Brahmajnana). You are not restricted without freedom. Granting final emancipation (Vimukthi) with freedom, I have said before and am saying now that I will give Mukthi to you, and dummy. Use dummy carefully. Without Dummy, water does not come out. This dummy is dummy only. With dummy pump, always fresh water can be obtained.

those who do not know Atma are Ajnanis (ignorant)

107) Swami, How should our thoughts, feelings be for attaining the goal?

It is a great thing to be able to recognize your life's goal. But, if you do not make the effort to attain, then it is useless. Many people know what to do but, they want it to occur without making any effort. Instead of sitting without making effort, it is better not to have a goal. If goal is there, then you will make a plan of how much time you have, and what to do. If your thought is focused on it, you will not be able to escape.

108) Swami, What is the inner meaning of 'Namaskar' (greeting with joined palms)?

Some people merely do Namaskar to please others. Some others do to irritate others. Some do Namaskar to butter up someone to get their work done. Some other do it to get rid of pain "Namaskar sir, please leave". But, the Namaskar done by a devotee (Bhakta) to God is not like that, should not be like that. To offer oneself entirely is Namaskar. 'Na-mama' means, "I have nothing. Total faith in you. You are my refuge", hence this Namaskar salutation. Greeting is cool like sandal wood paste. You are worshipping God with devotion. If you think "we are doing with great dedication Japa, meditation and other sadhanas. Yet God is not showing his mercy on us", you all feel that meditation, worship, rituals, Japa as devotional sadhanas. But, it is not like that in God's eyes. I like to convey to you that the real sadhak is one who does it with holy thoughts, feelings.

do not say you are a Jnani because you read a bit

14-12-2018 06:30 PM

A baby sleeping peacefully without asking for anything, mother takes care of what and when it needs. Likewise, God looks after the Yoga-kshema (yoga - spiritual needs, kshema - worldly needs) of one who practices Dharma, and contemplates on God without any worries, concerns. When God is worshipped, they do it by offering a flower for every utterance 'netram samarpayami, hrudayam samarpayami' (offering eye, offering heart). Before they do that offering to God, they clean the flower and get rid of any bugs in it. Likewise, removing the bugs called six evil qualities (ari shadvargas) from the lotus of your heart, cleaning it with holy water called love, then offer it to God. These are some of the cautions that need to be adopted in the state of Sadhana.

15-12-2018 06:30 PM

109) Swami, What are the things we must know to attain victory?

In a running race everyone has the power to win. But, when talent is improved and skill is enhanced only then victory will be yours. Everyone needs individual victory. When you have attained success personally then you can give or say anything to anyone. You are the only one who can learn from failure. But, by attaining success many can be inspired, and you can elaborate your experiences for many others. To reach the predetermined goal, required qualifications particularly educational qualifications are not enough. Cannot win through them. If you have to shine after winning, you need few other characteristics. These characteristics will make you stand out, and get recognition. Therefore to attain success everyone must know their strengths and weaknesses. In fact everyone believes that they have great strength and skill, and have winning ability. Believing it is ok but they need to leave the ego "I know it", and look inside, they would know the strength and weaknesses. Only then they will stop justifying every little thing with 'I' 'because'. It is the nature of this Anjaneya in assisting every second for your mental blossoming by elaborating, as if done for little children, by giving useable messages of the hidden obscure meanings in every little thing.

110) Swami, What is samskar?

My goal is to wipe out the difference between God and a destitute. Sanskruti (culture) means that which has been transformed (samskar-incha-badinadi). Removing bad and sustaining good is Samskar. Paddy is grown. But, cannot eat as it is harvested. Need to separate paddy from grass, take out the husk, after it is transformed into rice only then it is ready for consumption. A bag of paddy value is Rs. 200 while the value of a bag of rice is Rs. 1000. That is, by samskar a substance is purified, also its value increases. When you make yourself useful, that is Samskar.

when vishaya desires hunting you, when troubles are ready to pounce when pains of life occurring, when egotism starts in the mind samskar like great flood of ganges changes humane into a great force knowing that philanthropy is a treasure, stepping towards highest path like modern Abhimanyus' breaking through the net of life cycle my little children !

Mind is very sacred. It is worthy of even liberation (moksha). Due to covering up of the contamination in the mind, it goes in crooked directions. If mind is cleansed, there is no other sacred instrument. Covering up your faults although they are huge, seeing others faults as huge, is a dense contamination that covers up your mind. I gave this as an example. In many unknown things like this, mind roams freely and gets into predicaments. When mind is purified, you yourself can experience the divine form/ nature. Ego is a dense cardboard. Till that curtain is completely annihilated, bliss of Atma is not attained.

16-12-2018 10:20 AM

111) Swami, Where to seek Ananda (bliss, happiness)?

Man lives for Ananda. Works for Ananda. All struggles are for attainment of Ananda. All senses are ceaselessly searching for contact, touch of Ananda. Therefore, where is Ananda? in the work they do? In what they see? In what they eat? In the melody they hear? Where? If it is in the work they do, why don't all of them like the same work? Even if they like, why don't they like it the same way? if Ananda is in what they see, why don't all visions attract everyone the same way? At the time of dusk in vast sky, a beautiful vision of sunset does not invoke the same kind of Ananda in all. Similarly a white lily flower in a waveless lake does not invoke the same kind of Ananda in all? Satisfaction one gets when they eat what they like is not this much or that much. If Ananda is in the edible thing, why does not Ananda increase as you keep on eating it? One goes through lot of troubles and buys what they like. Owning what they like is Param-Ananda (great Ananda). Liked, approved and bought Maruthi car, as soon as Innova is seen, why does not Maruthi give same liking anymore? One gets entertained by charming classical music, another gets Ananda from heart rending loud, wild, strange sounds, why? Sorted and selected friends change into lifelong enemies, why? Is Ananda in the friend? In friendship? Where? Dissatisfaction in the face of a wealthy person enjoying all the luxuries and conveniences, when seeing the deluge of happiness in the eyes of a poor man in a thatched hut, how long does it take to understand that Ananda is not in wealth?

Some in all times and all circumstances, and in anyone's company stay in Ananda, and distribute Ananda. Some even in favorable circumstances also for every little thing shower irritation, transmit shadows of gloom on the surroundings. Then how can one say Ananda changes based on circumstances or locations? Ananda is not in the work you do but in the one who is doing the work, not in vision seen but in the seer, not in the item you eat but in the one who eats, not in the Raga you hear but in the one who hears, based on this you understand, and it is crystal clear that the treasure of Ananda is you yourself. Ananda is nowhere, it is in you. But, who, in what, and how much Ananda they get keeps changing. For a Bhogi (pleasure seeker) Ananda is in sensory enjoyments, for a Tyagi (renunciate) Ananda is in renouncing the objects and desires of vishaya, for a Yogi Ananda is in union with real form (nija swarupa). Then in the trinity of Bhogi - Tyagi - Yogi whose Ananda is more?

As seed is planted, dharma of seed is to sprout, a sapling called humanity nourished, becomes a gigantic tree, as human thoughts are analyzed, miracles arise fully mature humanity is man's God

sapling growing while budding is its dharma

112) Swami, What is the cause for not developing Nissanga Buddhi?

“Tena Tyaktena Bhunjidha” - renounce and partake. It means must accept with Nissanga Buddhi (attitude of indifference, disinterest). Although you know it is impermanent, today you are severely associating yourself with everything, and when separation occurs or when it gets lost, you are subjected to distress, agony. Everyone will exit, everything goes away, if this feeling is there then nothing will and can bother you. But you are always forgetting this thing. Every association has a separation. This is the rule of Nature (Prakriti). Karma brings you together, and Karma separates you. How real association is, so real is separation. When destiny's decision is like that, who can you stay with permanently? Who is yours? Who is not yours? So, either all of them are yours, or none are yours. But, you have fear. Every person whoever they think are their's, wishes them to stay permanently. Knowing that it is not possible, you do not develop Nissanga Buddhi. Do not get themselves ready for separation. That is why, when those who are considered their own leave, they get submerged in grief. Remembering and ruminating over the memories caused by attachment (anubandham), man is passing his life but is not making the effort to understand that life drama called death is going to remove him too, and that living using God as support is the purpose of life. This is your weakness. Your inability, disability. You must come out of this disability. Must develop Sang Rahitya (free from associating).

113) Swami, What is the solution for the issues we face?

Without identifying, becoming one with anything, be able to still your mind as needed, and as soon as you wish to be able to separate your mind from individual or incident is Tapas (austerity). It is natural for everyone to undergo tests. The difficulties, pressures you face need to be spiritually transformed. The burden of worldly suffering must be linked to the responsibility of life's highest goal. Then you will get answer for every question. Every issue will be resolved. Difficulties, pressures disappear. Then it is happiness all the time. The real problem is to unnecessarily compare oneself with others and feel bad. God gives to everyone one or other difference and variety. Not recognizing that is the cause of disturbance, lack of peace. Instead of agonizing over what one does not have, one must learn to be contented and be happy with what they have. In fact in the path towards highest goal, comparing and competing should be in Vairagya (detachment), and Paritapam (spiritual anguish). And not in excellence of skills, or scholarship. Must grow in the path of sadhana. Do not create unnecessary obstacles.

*like the fire born in the wood, burns it down to ashes in the end, among inner enemies anger is primary and very harmful, that is why anger is the quality of fools.

114) Swami, How to attain grace of God?

To forget one's suffering putting the burden on someone else, to be able to breathe relaxedly, human got God as a great boon. Whatever religion, character, caste, region, humans at one time or other they will pray to a God they like. They speak out what is in their heart. They put the burden on God and stay worry less. That is why they view prayer as divine medicine to overcome the pressure and stress. Life is a bondage, an impediment. Death is the only path to freedom. They thrash around with disappointment thinking this life of death is but an ocean of tears. That is a mistake. When human effort is made with three fold purity (thought, word, deed), then pray for the divine grace. Vedas praise Virat Purush (creator God) as seven worlds above - Bhu lok, Bhuvak lok, Suvar lok, Janar lok, Tapo lok, Satya lok - and seven lower worlds - Atala, Vitala, Sutala, Tala-tala, Rasa-tala, Maha-tala, Patala. That is why the exemplary Bhagavat (leelas of God) speakers said 'do not entertain any doubt that He is in this, and not in that'. Hence, one can get the benefits of prayers by - chanting Vedas, performing annual death ceremonies to Pitrus' (ancestors), offering oblations in fire for Gods, feeding the animals and birds that are around you, felicitating the fellow beings, all these are Yajnas (sacrifices). Do not do anything with a feeling of 'mine'. Dharma is for God. Effort is for Dharma. Once this Nissangatvam (non-attachment) gets habituated, this miraculous secret is comprehended. How is that? At the same time it becomes intense activity and peaceful steadfastness, when there is action and non-action, comprehension occurs. This is the secret in prayer to God.

115) Swami, What are the paths for experiencing God?

Janm-anthara krutam paapam vyadhi rupena bhadathe I tachhanthi roshadai-ha danai-ha japa homa suraarcha-naiha II

Sins done in the past births trouble you as illnesses in this life. It needs medicine of peace, charity, Japa, Homa (fire ceremonies), and worship of God. What eyes cannot see, can be seen by mind. What mind cannot see, buddhi can see. As you keep doing effort, God becomes a partner. Once it is started like that, greatness of God's effort is understood. 'I' means it is not a state of body, it is not an external state. Beginning less, endless Atmic firmness is body. It means, five elements, five sheaths, five airs, nadis, are both supports as well as supported that are covering the Atma. Like ashes covering the burning hot coal, God's power is shining inside. It is a lamp of enormous light (maha kanthi). Never fading infinite consciousness flower. By sitting in a lofty place a crow cannot be great like Garuda (vehicle of Vishnu). Where is Garuda who got rid of his mother's enslavement by stealing the Amrith (nectar), and became vehicle to Sri Hari (Vishnu)? and where is a crow that eats bugs, dead eggs, rotten flesh? Like that, prayer must be done with sacred feelings by keeping the mind and body pure with contemplation of God. Jiva also must try to move about like Paramatma. Because world is a reflection of Paramatma, Jiva must love from ant onwards to Brahma (creator). Must move around with love that is untarnished, pure, and holy, and with meditation on God. God is a miracle, a marvel. Meditation on God is even more supreme. Experiencing joy, happiness in life, to transform oneself satisfactorily as an ideal person, man must invite holy habits (sad-abhyasalu), holy relationships (sat-bandhavyalu), connected with God's leelas (sport, miracles). Divinity is like sea of milk. If churned with churning rod called devotion, defects and foulness in the ocean of mind will disappear. Devotee does not need anything but God. Does not seek anything from God. In principle of devotion there is no room for desires. Devotee only sees God in every drop of water in the ocean of his mind. Due to total complete surrender to God, becomes eternal. In search of Truth you will have to subject your inside (mind etc.) to research. Must churn it with sadhana. Paramatma stays right there. Searching for him is right there, and attaining him is right there ! Such an important internal (mind, heart etc) you must reform it with great effort !

116) Swami, What should we sacrifice (Tyaga)?

Through Tyaga (sacrifice) and Seva (service) eternity (Amrutatvam) is attained. Are you making an effort towards that? What must an intelligent person do? What use in doing so many things without finding out who are you, why you came, and what you must do? What is Tyaga (sacrifice)? Is it giving some money or materials in charity? No. Not at all. Tyaga is a Yoga (a path to eternity). Tyaga is not leaving your wealth, spouse and going into a forest. Getting rid of evil in you is Tyaga. If you want to develop the sense control and mental steadfastness to get rid of the bad, you must firmly remember the life truth "nothing is mine, nothing will come with me". What is permanent? Think. No matter how much you quarrel for farm, land etc, while you cannot even carry a fistful of soil with you in the end. If there were a provision for every dead person to carry a fistful of soil, mother earth would have been empty long back. People would have put a ration for soil also. Today here, tomorrow where? This caravan? For this short period in this world of grace, you are a trustee of the prosperity you acquired. Put it to good use, that's all. In this manner if you think of yourself a trustee, feeling of Tyaga will enhance. If you remember this life is fleeting, ephemeral, you will get the good thoughts of living it right way. Then the boundary of life limited to two words of 'I', 'mine' will expand. If you want to take a first step in the path of devotion (Bhakti), 'I' needs to be diminished. To reach to the final step of Atma Nivedan, you must renounce everything saying "nothing is mine, everything is yours". Ego called 'I' comes as a barrier in everything. Therefore, that is the first thing to sacrifice, isn't it? If the question arises, 'it is not as easy as it seems! and why to leave this 'I' feeling which gives so much happiness', then bring into your memory some of the legends out of many who protected their ego (aham) and what happened to them. Duryodhana and his brothers who took the oath that they will not give even a tiny bit of land that can be held at the end of a needle (how much is that?) and waged the war, so how much land did they end up with? How many survived? Arjun who wanted to shun saying 'I don't want anything' ended up with great good fortune of getting the Gita Updesh! Despite that epic war, the five pandas were saved. One who does not sacrifice, Prakriti will teach Tyaga under duress. It's better to learn Tyaga before that happens. Importantly sacrifice the desires. Thereafter with the principle of complete surrender, none-other-than-thou devotion (ananya Bhakti) offer your mind to God, he will look after your worldly and spiritual needs (yoga-kshema). Humans have this weakness. Till Prakriti teaches under duress, not learning sacrifice, means (after currency notes are demonetized doing charity, putting money in others accounts). After getting ulcers, BP reducing the strong spices, sweets, is that sense control? The obstacles barricading you from sacrificing desires are the Ari-shad-vargas (six evil qualities) which are referred to as enemies 'Shad-ripulu', just ponder on it for once !

117) Swami, What is the effect of Shad-ripulu (six inner enemies)? How to restrain them?

Think about Shad-ripulu for once. First one in them is Kama (desire) which means great interest (asakti) towards physical vishaya (objects), a severe ambition to acquire them. Because of that loses the discrimination between good-bad, and due to keen interest in worldly vishaya (O,E,T) generates many new desires. Man gets submerged in the vortex of unlimited desires. Desires must be controlled. Desires must be restrained by those who wish to travel the path of spirituality. For God to give a spot in his heart, first start sacrificing worldly desires then you will get a place over there. Big hurdle for charity and sacrifice is greed. Even if one earns enough for seven generations to sit and eat, then what is haunting those who worry about the eighth generation is greed, isn't it ! Greed that is 'mine is mine, yours is mine too', does not give any room for sacrifice and fosters earning money illegally. Among Dharma, Artha (wealth), Kama (desire), Moksha (liberation), Artha also must be earned following Dharma. Thereafter, must have sacrificial nature to do charity, dharma etc. Bad qualities that are to be shunned like Anger, Attachment, Price, Jealousy. There is not even an iota of benefit from these. On top of that, great amount of damage occurs due to them. Once you know what is in your hand is a poisonous snake, understood that it is dangerous, do you hold on to it tightly or let it go? Likewise once you know that these bad qualities do great harm, what must you do? Do you let go of the snake slowly bit by bit or shake it off right away? Likewise, these bad qualities must be gotten rid of. For once, ask yourself a question. What is the obstacle that is stopping you from developing a good quality? Ask courageously, enquire into your self and search for the answer. As an example, one of you think of observing silence for sometime in a day, then your reaction will be like this. "Oh, no! We can't stay without talking even for a short time."

Why? Because of strong belief that you speak well. We do not think that others will be bored at all. Derive great pleasure when you are complimented, when others are criticized. When this harsh truth shines on the slate of your mind, what must you do? You all already know the answer. You will say let go of bad qualities. In fact if any good quality is invited, immediately a bad quality has to be sacrificed. If you wish to adopt a good dictum of 'be harmonious with others, love all', you must stop looking at others faults under a magnifying glass. To develop kind heartedness and broad outlook, first the terrorists called jealousy-hate must be kicked out. To follow seva path with serve all outlook, ego and pomp like feelings to be left outside the border. To change oneself as devotee, must bid goodbye to me-mine. To learn tranquility and forbearance, anger and desire have to be left in an uninhabited jungle and return without looking back. In the end a small question. You give any object, to anyone, for anyone and say you sacrificed. But, can you say like this? "I will give my jealousy and hate to you. Will you take some?" to someone, then there is no possibility of them taking it. But, Bhairava (protects from greed, lust, and anger) is there for sins ... that ocean of mercy is Paramatma! Leave all your bad to him. He will fill your mind with good thoughts and feelings, what are you waiting for? This Anjaneya in front of you can carry anything. Therefore, give your burdensome loose change (bad feelings), receive the currency of mercy. I am awaiting for this Tyaga, sacrifice. Do not delay !

118) Swami, In human relations whose role is what ?

Out of all births human birth is a great journey. Eternal God gave this boon to human. Living with that knowing is the dharma of a man with mind. To live a life on a good path, with acclaim, and to live as a person without blemish, is a sankalpa (resolve). Birth is a gift of God. From infant to youth your parents, Gurus can lay the foundation for progress in your life. Till then it is their responsibility. Thereafter, along with your age mind also keeps getting transformed. From there on whether you are operating involuntarily or willfully is determined by you. It is an important first step to your life. Parents, Gurus work to their capacity for your progress till you get to adult age. They do not take responsibility with any selfish motive, instead they take it as their duty. If the rest of life proceeds on regular lawful path or thorny path is your choice. In today's society all paths are available for you to walk whichever way you like. Because, in those days half of man's life time was in the hands of parents, and Gurus. It is a rarity now. In current times, as soon as they gain awareness of themselves and a small evolution in mind, they are declaring their individuality as "I am grown up. I don't need anyone's advice". Even parents beating the same drum "we did not grow up with freedom, why should our kids live like that?" give them more freedom than required. That 'too much freedom' is turning their lives into, either this shore or that shore. Therefore, those whose age and mind are transforming, you have to think for yourself and lay the right lawful path.

119) Swami, How should friendship be ?

In today's society jealousy, trickery, cheating, selfishness are rampant. Detect it and take step forward. Make friendship with all who are suitable, must be cooperative with all. But do not forget your understanding ability. All friends are not alike. Recognizing those who make friends for selfish purpose, and those who do it selflessly, keep your friendship accordingly. Those who recognize your hardship, pain and consider it theirs, must keep them in your heart. Friendship made with selfish purpose initially seems good and real. But, detecting that is necessary. Selfless friendship reprimands you based on circumstances, consoles you, gives a hand when necessary. Therefore interact with that understanding. During difficulties, suffering when your eyes get wet, seeing those their eyes get wet, and wish to wipe your tears, that friendship bondage is invaluable in this world. mind+mind = outstanding, sublime (mahonnatam). Therefore one must feel anguish for such a friendship. When such friendship bonds are formed, effortlessly your life path will become flowery. It is ok if you don't make friendships, but do not have fake friendship. For sake of pleasing, do not adorn yourself with a fake smile. If you act hypocritical, the friends you get, will become masters at fake friendship. Friendship that knows difficulties, suffering without asking and shares, yearn for such a friendship. That friendship stays as support till the end of your life. Pure defect-less friends based on circumstances even if they get conflicts, do not increase their dislikes/ revenge, but instead they can break through that conflict. This is truth. When this lofty friendship occurs, due to circumstances life goes off track, it can be put back on track. This is the Anjaneya's friendship law/ rule. Imagine who my friend is, tell me !

120) Swami, To get relief from suffering what must one do?

Happiness-sorrow, attachment-hate, vishaya vasanas being experienced by man are arising from the mind. When feeling of oneness is enhanced, dual feelings like these do not occur at all. Man must accept happiness-sorrow with equanimity. Benefit from suffering is greater than loss. If there are no troubles, then happiness has no value. Every person is wishing to be happy all the time. Anand (happiness) is not something that can be obtained from outside. Associating with God is Anand. All vishaya related to world gives you sorrow. But, Anand is hidden in that sorrow. When you establish God in the seat of your heart, Ananda of Advaita becomes yours. Who is Bhagavan (God)? 'Bha' means illumination, 'Ga' means pervading/ spreading, 'van' means capable. Bhagavan is one who spreads illumination everywhere. Being formless, minuter than an atom, the Atma in you is form of God. You are in Brahman, Brahman is in you. There is no difference between you and Brahman. Not having faith in that principle (tatvam) that is free of any Bhava (thoughts, emotions), is the reason why you are subjected to sorrow. You must spend your lives with Self confidence. Love entire living beings. Actually strive so that no one is disliked or hated by you. You do not hate anyone, despite you being hated by others. I do not hate or criticize anyone. When you follow that ideal, you also attain the Truth (tatvam) equivalent to mine. My real prosperity is Prema Tatva (love principle). You also share this Prema Tatva, increasing your Self confidence, staying contented, hand this ideal to the world. God is present in all as a resident. The beggar who comes to your house and calls out “Bhavati Bikshan-dehi”. Who does he ask? Not you, but the resident in you. That is, the God in you. Unable to remember this truth, you are in the illusion that he is asking you. This is Ajnana, Ahamkar (ignorance, ego). He is asking not you, but the divine powerful Dehi (resident) inside you. Do worship of that divine principle with love. Recognize the Omnipresent. The relationship between you and God is heart-to-heart, love-for-love. For freedom from sorrow, attainment of Advaita is the ultimate divine transcendental medicine !

121) Swami, What must one do to attain mind restraint (nigraham)?

Although man is tied to the worldly entanglements, the instrument to attain liberation is mind. Though getting drowned in the ocean of difficulties, this mind can create peace. That is why, the one who can keep this mind in their control and restrain, they will be able to stay unaffected by difficulties - joys, happiness-sorrow, and experience peace. Hence, my Sri Ramachandra said “I will believe if someone says that they can restrain with one hand a violent storm, they can stop an unimaginable deluge by confronting it with their heart. But if they say they can control their mind, I do not believe”. That is why mind can create hell in heaven, and heaven in hell. Hence, those wise men who wish to follow sanctified path, without any selfishness constantly endeavoring for welfare of society, what they need to attain is restraint of mind. To attain that mind restraint, think about what sadhana needs to be done. Only when you plant a healthy seed, you can get a good complete fruit. A look from one whose speech is sweeter than honey, who does holy karmas, whose heart is pure like water of Ganges, is enough to remove you from your suffering and distress. If the seed of Nama Smaran (name of lord) is planted on your tongue, along with soft and sweet speech, the sins committed by speech are destroyed. They are self praising, criticizing others, over talkativeness, unreal meaningless talk. A pure heart does not think ill of others, not do any bad to others, not tell anything bad, recognizing others good qualities, always wishing for the welfare of all and happiness of every one in the vast world. It is like Ganges water. It can destroy any contamination. This is possible only through Sat Katha shravanam (hearing the stories of Sat - truth, God), constant company of the holy (satpurush sangatyam), and be able to attain three fold purity (trikarana shuddhi) with the yearning for one's every thought, every word, every action to be auspicious.

If one is not overcome with grief during hard times and demonstrates equanimity, then he will learn lessons from those difficult times. In that manner he will make precious even his difficult time. If mind is changed into abode of desires, hopes, they cannot become good in any manner. Due to anguish in the mind when body temperature rises, what use is smearing oneself with sandal wood paste (gives cooling effect). Mind can do higher than highest puja. It does not need instruments and tools. Usefulness of worship is for understanding mind and grasping Sathyam (Truth). If it is loss or gain In the end, it is caused by mind. Tree of Karma gets its life from the seed called mind. Ceaselessly remembering your chosen deity is Japa. Japa is called mental worship. That is why, Lord Krishna said in Gita 'Yajna naam Japa-Yajno-smi' ('among Yajnas I am Japa Yajna'). Mental Japa gives hundred times more benefit than uttering it loudly. Highest meaning of worship is not customs, methods, procedures. Real worship (puja) is understanding that God is omniscient, and the transformative style of mind. There is no higher Sadhana than ceaseless remembrance of God for attaining God's grace. Whoever believes with full conviction that God is resident in their heart, God is with them and protecting them at all times in, all situations.

what God wants is humility, submission, devotion, faith

122) What is Ahamkar (Ego) and how to get rid of it, Swami?

An-ahamkar means without Ahamkar (ego). In fact the obstructing wall between God-Jiva is Ahamkar (ego). If ahamkar can be got rid of Jiva becomes God. This ego is a repository of bad qualities (ava-gunas). An egoistical person is not concerned with merit-sin, good-bad, dharma-adharma, justice-injustice. To get good harvest, all the weeds have to be weeded out. Likewise, if you wish to get a crop called life to ripen by reaching Paramatma, this weed called Ahamkar has to be pulled out. As long as 'I' is there in the heart, Guru is not there. Once Guru comes, 'I' will not be there. That 'I' is Ahamkar. Total destruction is unavoidable for egotistical. Duryodhan due to his predominant Ahamkar got completely destroyed. Arjun put God in the dominant position and became a Jiva who fulfilled his life. One Ahamkari (egotistical) said "I will not bend my head for anyone". His neighbor asked "how about to the barber?" Poor guy could not reply to that. Everyone does not get the intellect to bow their head and offer obeisance to elders, elderly, Jnanis, Gurus, and God. Only those who have done good deeds in prior lives get that. Poor destiny is unavoidable to Ahamkari. Ego is a sweet poison. It is an enemy looking like a friend. A knife smeared with honey. Its activities are very strange. Lord Krishna as a young boy stole the clothes of Gopikas as stated in Bhagavatam. This is the story you know on the surface. If understood right it is stealing the Jiva's ignorance called Ahamkar. Only God can remove Ahamkar out of his mercy. Not possible with self effort. This is said in Isavasyo-panishad like this:

Hiran-mayena Patrena Sathya-syapi Hitam Mukham I
Tatvam Pushan-apavrunu Sathya-dharmaya Drushtaye II

It means "God's face is covered with golden disc. O God! To facilitate, please remove that disc so I can have your darshan" a disciple must pray like this. But, one must have 'none-other-than-you' devotion (Ananya Bhakti). When that is there, then the golden disc called Ahamkar is removed, giving the vision of Truth. This Ahamkar is an obstacle to acquire Jnana. An Ahamkari does not bend his head in front of Guru. Hence cannot acquire Jnana. Even if given, cannot understand. Even if understood, experience does not occur. Hence, Ahamkar needs to be gotten rid of.

123) Swami, What are the sorrows that we experience?

Entire human life is contaminated with faults, and sorrow. Once in a while there are joys but suffering is unavoidable. If it is known that this human life consists of sufferings, one gets detached (vairagya) from it. Will feel 'don't want these lives anymore'. Would think of making an effort for freedom from births. Therefore, keenly examine the faults, sorrows in this life. World is full of illness and suffering. This life is distraught with sorrows along with illnesses and egoism. Cries when being born, and cries when dying. In between cries when illnesses occur. Cries at arrival of old age. This is called Janma Dukham, Jara Dukham, Vyadhi Dukham, Marana Dukham. I will tell you how this is, listen. If we ponder on it, one must die out of shame. Shame or not, it is an open secret. Residing 9 months in the womb the size of a chicken egg. Plagued with worms over there, undergo hunger pains, suffer due to mother's food habits, bound by placenta hanging upside down, severely suffering in memories of prior lives, getting pushed by the birthing airs, come out and roll like a large insect in urine and feces, all these are birth sufferings only. Inescapable suffering of every Jivi getting born. Then the pain of death. This body is the property of death God. Raised nicely with milk, yogurt, butter, ghee, cashews, sweet and hot items, and nurtured with imported scents, powders, soaps, cosmetics. Just close your eyes and imagine the end game for this body that got treated like gold. Piercing the genitals, gaps in limbs getting impaired, prana airs coming out of Nadis forcibly, undergoes pain of 100,000 scorpion bites as reversal of prana takes place, losing control and expelling urine and feces, all these unbearable pains are death defects (Mrutyu doshas). Is that it? As soon as it is known that death is here, daughter's marriage, son's job, mansion thought of building, bank balance safeguarded till now, safeguarded jewelry accumulated with lot of calculations, spouse children ... all of them come into memory. The pain of departing from so much earned is a part of suffering at death.

Anjaneya's Question Answers

(These are Anjaneya's questions and answers)

1: What happens when you lose Atma Viswas (Self confidence)?

A: If you lose Atma Viswas it is same as losing Viswas in God.

2: Did you query the sadhana you are doing? How far could you keep away intolerance? In what manner you are questioning and obtaining an answer?

A: Every human with strong desires in his mind thinks, God's grace keeps flowing to them, without any tears, difficulties in life, without occurrences of physical ailments, and life continues on a rosy path. It is not wrong to wish for that. But, everyone must ask themselves, did we do sufficient sadhana for that? Are we deserving of that desire? If someone does something you don't like, you lose patience, increase your dislike. Utter improper words. You dislike that person. Then what is the spiritual transformation from so long singing of hymns (sankirtan), and seva? When difficulties, tears are faced, when devotion and faith are weakening, ask yourself this question. If you bring it into your awareness the faith that the person you are disliking also has God in him, that is the real sadhana, isn't it? You tell me. Agree to the truth.

3: Who are you?

A: You are a witness. Witness alone. Self illuminating. Eternal Truth. Atma. Witness that you are, stay as witness.

4: This physical body perceivable by the senses, how did it occur?

A: The five elements came from Paramatma as subtle elements. They underwent Panchikaran (permutations combinations) and changed into gross physical elements. In that gross physical elements this gross physical body formed. Bones and other hard substances are related to Bhumi (Earth element). Blood, pus etc are related to liquid (water element). Heat in the body is fire related (fire element). In inhalation exhalation, outside air comes inside, and inside air goes out. This air which becomes Prana is air related (Air element).

The food and drink you take, the empty place inside of you (vacuum) are related to Akasa (space element). In this manner the physical body came into the Maha Bhutas called Pancha Bhutas (five elements). In this what is yours? From this who stole what? What for are these anger-rage, jealousy-hate? You are using our materials, are you demonstrating anger, hate, jealousy on us who is next to you? Think about it ! Move forward, don't stop ! This is a dreadful truth !

This is now happening, once this incident happened between my Rama - me. Felt like sharing. Understand why and that is enough! Once Rama said "will you come with me?". When he calls me like that, how could I not go? I said "yes swami". When I went, following Swami, so many teachings, wonderful Leelas (miracles), visiting an ashram giving sadhana instructions to so many sadhaks. Rama said "Ask me anything" - his command. None spoke. Limiting to darshan, eyes were not enough to appreciate that beautiful form, wearing all white, shining like a new youth. Then who gets words to ask him anything?. But Rama is capable of getting them to ask and then instructing them, then he commanded me "you ask", thinking what my swami wanted me to ask, I asked "Swami, what does spiritual sadhana mean?" Lord had a gentle smile, wittingly said "You asked a good question, even though late in your age". Then he said "You silly ! What is spiritual sadhana? There are no spiritual and worldly sadhana. There is only one. That is sadhana!" I felt ashamed at my ignorant question said "yes swami, what does sadhana mean?". Rama elaborated "Sadhana means without fail with discipline everyday making the effort". "Swami, Is going to Bhajan everyday is Sadhana?" "So, are you going to Bhajan everyday? You are going to bhajans but your mind is traveling all around. That is not Bhajan. Eg. Brahmins must do Sandhya Vandan during three time periods (morning, afternoon, evening). Those who are eligible for Upanayan must do one time. My doubt is, that it is not possible to do during three time periods. Why is it not possible? Can't we turn our mind three times towards Gayatri Japa morning, afternoon, evening? It is not Japa that is done while walking or doing other activities. It is not Nama Smaran (chanting the name). It only sanctifies time. Sanctifying body is sadhana. Mind and Karma should become one in that!". "What is sanctity swami?" "Sanctifying means expanding something small to something big. From narrow mindedness to broad mindedness. Your mind is not become holy yet, but is able to stay still." Pointing to the next person "his mind is holy but not able to stay still. When mind is sanctified, it becomes still. When both are there, that is the goal of sadhana. Did not understand yet? Effort made to reach the already decided goal is sadhana. It can be any goal. When done with liking, does not feel difficult. Liking must take place in the effort. Must pick a goal that can sanctify the body. Not just time. You can give any name to it. It is not savory to all. Medicine is bitter!" saying so Swami got up to leave. I followed him. He stopped while going on one path. He looked at me and said "I will not go further on this path" as he showed the path ahead. There was only one path. If not gone further, must turn back. Thinking he would turn around I moved aside Swami figured out my intention, stood in the middle of the path and stretched his two hands to the side. Two paths appeared on two sides. Spot swami stood at became the junction point for four paths. I looked at it with wonder. Right then a throne appeared in the junction, Swami sat on it and asked me to sit. He asked "Four roads. Which road will you go on?" I did not understand anything. Dilemma is, which road to go on? I took four steps in the direction where Swami got down and came towards me. "Swami ! You said you will not go in this direction?" Swami said with a gentle smile "Look at this road again!". Prior to that, it was all dried, burnt, and like trees in wild jungle, now nicely flowered, with fruits became a beautiful orchard. Every tree had plenty of its fruits. Very pleasant with beautiful flowers. Swami said "when I said I won't go that way it started to cry and dried out. As I started stepping that way, it filled up with happiness." He said further "When Swami comes it blooms in all green, else it dries out". I understood the inner meaning. When we invite Swami into our lives, our life will be full, ecstatic with greenery. If we get distanced from Swami, our lives will be dried out like a forest that lost its leaves. I continue to see in wonder. Swami said "Guava trees, mango trees, many varieties of trees that are inviting. Go get yourself a fruit". Again doubt, which fruit to get?. He said "get yourself a mango". I plucked a mango, I was wonder struck at its fragrance and beauty. Swami said "you stay here. I will be going". That's it, disappeared! This is the boon (varam) granted by Sai Ram to his dear son Anjaneya. Kalavaram, 'kala' varam ! (Puzzle, 'dream' boon) !

124) What to think of happiness-sufferings faced in life, Swami?

In God's creation one is not more, other is not less. His drushti (vision, outlook) is always equal. Because, He is not like humans to show differentiation, and to exhibit discrepancy. He has same love and affection towards all. Then where is the difference? Why do humans undergo suffering, conflicts, agony? Some are relishing the joys and happinesses in life. In case of some others lives, live all through their life in the middle of conflicts till the end. Where is the discrepancy? Is it in creation? Or is it in the attitude of your mind? Differentiation is neither in his creation nor in his intention. That discrepancy is only in the thoughts that come from your mind. Because, joys-misery are like two wheels to the vehicle called life. Without either one of them, that life journey does not proceed smoothly. Happiness or misery does not stay permanently. They come and they go. But, in those circumstances if you have any responsibility, that is only how you react and respond towards them. Only this becomes your responsibility. No one's life is immune to happiness-misery. Everyone has to accept it. But, while you are experiencing them, you must react favorably towards both. Not being happy when experiencing joys and sad when going through suffering, when viewed both with vision of equality only, then their life will change into an abode of peace. In case even if you face a hardship that can destroy your life, God will definitely help to protect you. Because, whosoever's heart is filled with grief, whose mind is getting crushed in struggles, God definitely listens to their call for help. God has plenty of skill capabilities to quickly bring them out of their circumstances of distress and misery.

125) Swami, What is the inner meaning of worshipping idols?

A finger is showing a flower by pointing it out. A finger is pointing out that this is a tumbler. A finger is only for pointing out. After seeing the flower your drushti (vision, attention) does not go to the finger. In the same manner all the idols are like the finger pointing out, all of them show you God. After God is shown these idols are not needed. Since these idols prove God, therefore such idols are not to be neglected. It is common to keep the pictures of your parents, grandfather, forefathers at home and worshipping them. But, do those pictures have consciousness? No. Then what is the inner meaning of worshipping them? Those in the pictures have given you many great ideals. Hence you have been worshipping them. There is a bill of Rs 100. So, is there consciousness in it? No. Is there love in it? No. Where there is no consciousness, love why is man loving it? You will not come across anyone in the entire world who hates 100 rupees bill. Any foreigner, any person from any part of country, during any time, everyone is desiring money, but there are none who obstruct it. What is its greatness? Its value is the stamp of the Government which creates its value. Worshipping idol is considered superstition. That is the one which will get you to have darshan (vision, experience) the real form. Finger is showing that this is flower, therefore what is shown is flower, and what is showing is finger. In the same manner, idol shows, what is being shown is God. Therefore, you should not neglect an idol called God. In your view it might seem like inanimate. Can you see butter in milk? No. But, when that milk is made into curd, and upon churning it one gets butter. It is a great mistake to think that Atma is not seen.

126) What are the values that we are to practice, Swami?

Grow and improve love. If you disregard, you become equal to those who are dead. Satyam (truth) is life to tongue. Dharma is life to hand. Ahimsa (non violence) is life to heart. Hence, these are to be protected. 'Shiva' means humility, respectfulness. You are sheltering in dead thing called Ahamkar. You are not sheltering in 'shivam' consisting of humility, submission. Without making heart happy, what is the use of making people happy? As much as possible make sure you are not hurting others. In case if you feel hurt, it is ok. God will get rid of it. You by yourself, do not cause grief to others. Be happy, be glad at others good. Then you will get happiness, experience joy. If you do not do what you are supposed to do, you will get a bad name. Death is better than dishonor. Because, no matter which field whatever work is allotted to them they must do selflessly. Performing with selfish mind and getting dishonored is worse than death. Do the work allotted to you only. Others work is of no concern to you. Do not get depressed due to difficulties and losses in life. One must learn to live contented, live happily.

127) Swami, How to know Omnipresent?

All scriptures say man is Divine Atma form, God is within you, isn't it! Then why are you not realizing that divinity and that God principle (tat) within you? Why are you unable to experience it? One Indian with the intention to make a phone call entered into a telephone booth. Looked for telephone directory. That is tied to a chain. Light inside the booth was not lit. It was all dark. He started thinking. An American who was walking by saw his predicament, he said if you close the door of the booth the light inside will turn on, and walked away. He heard that and closed the door. Right away light inside turned on. He made the call and came out. But, he started pondering. What a different experience! By closing the outside door, inside light lit up. It means the arrangement of light and bulb are already in place. But, switch is connected to the door. For light to turn on, you don't need to do anything. All you need to do is close the door, the light will turn on by itself. He thought about the inner meaning of it. If you want to see the light called God inside, you need to close the doors to outside world. You get entangled in very small things that are related to outside world. That is why, you are unable to realize the light called God inside you. Isn't it! If you are all the time concerned with the houses surrounding you, there will be no time to think about your own home. Therefore, through Satsang (study circle), Sat-sangatyam (nearness of holy, pious) you will get to know that the bulb that can give light is within you. But to turn it on, you are unable to understand where the switch is. That switch is not located in the outside world. Because, that switch is within you. It means, it is behind the door that lets you see the external world. When you close this door, then that switch turns on, and the light is lit. Your eyes, nose, ears, mouth are all doors. When you close them, external world becomes obscure. Then you will get used to seeing inside. This is the reason why we pray to God with closed eyes. It means, to know that the God in front of you is inside you. This is called inward facing, Antar Drushti, Antar Mukham. So, as much relationship you develop with the world through your senses, that much far away you will be from God. That is why it can be compared to the See-Saw kids play with. If one side is heavy, other side goes up. That is if you go up on one side, other side comes down.

128) God has created this external world. Then are we not to have any relationship with it? If we close our senses, how are we to experience this world, Swami?

You do not need to close the doors called senses. You can experience the God's creation. But, you must do one thing prior to that. Know the switch that lights up the divine light, with that, light up the light called divinity inside you, in that light you can experience everything in the world. You are not this inert body, you are indeed actual forms of God, having this awareness is lighting up the light inside you. Not only me, you all are Daiva Swarupas (forms of God, of the same nature as God). When you are in that awareness, all the attachments and relationships with the world will not become obstacles. All of them become holy attachments, and holy company. Worldly work done while remembering God will turn into worship of God. Therefore you do not need to let go of the world. Real spirituality is seeing God in the world.

129) Swami, How does sadhak get inspiration when faced with problems?

Educational qualifications are not enough to reach a goal that one keenly aspires to attain,. Must have many skills, abilities. Constantly increase strengths and get rid of weaknesses. Only then the dream that one dreams about takes a real form. Else, desires vaporize away. Dreams stay as imaginations only. Those who work towards attaining success must constantly get inspired. Those who have positive outlook and responsive heart will get inspiration quickly. On the veena (Indian harp) called mind if notes called inspiration are struck, enthusiasm will be by leaps and bounds. This is abundantly present in front and behind this Anjaneya. Realize that. Creativity springs out from that. When faced with problems, one will always be ready to handle them capably. That is why, for reaching the goal, and for thriving after reaching, inspiration is very necessary. When one has responsive heart, even a grass flower on the bank of a lake is enough to give rise to inspiration. Your surroundings and people around you are constantly inspiring you. There are many that are subjecting you to inspiration all the time like conversations overheard, songs, books read, memories. The activities done by this Anjaneya, the way he conducted, is constantly giving you inspiration is a naked truth. At times the people and circumstances in the family also generate inspiration in you. Even if you talk to yourself, you can get inspiration from inside. With that inspiration you will get action oriented. No matter when, problems are always there. When problems arise in the pursuit of goal, demotivation engulfs. Lack of enthusiasm overpowers. Thoughts get arrested. Whether problem is small or big, seems like a monster. The thought of what to do festers your mind. That is the time inspiration is greatly needed for those who are working for victory. Answer is always behind a problem. One must courageously wait for that answer. Search and get hold of it. You will get answers from the experiences of those people who attained victory prior to you. You must firmly hold on to their experiences and memories. You must get inspired by them. In front of the problems faced by them, your problems will seem small. The obstacles they overcame become stepping stones for you. The milestones reached give you enthusiasm and excitement. Ordinarily those who reached a certain stage do not engage in either embellishing, or aggrandizing the past. They speak with open heart. They describe facts. Therefore, remember that the words spoken by them, or written by them are all facts. Let go of your conceit. Only then your problems, obstacles that occur to you do not look like insurmountable great mountain peaks. At time of receiving inspiration you need to have close observation, ceaseless search, and acceptance mentality. Only then you can get real inspiration from the veterans.

130) How long must sadhana be done, Swami?

Sadhana must be a synergistic form of Karma, Bhakti, and Jnana. Sadhana as a ceaseless process must continue till life's last breath. There is no interruption or rest for it. Just like the inseparable relationship between Sun-Sun's rays, it is the same between sadhana and sadhak. Even a little bit of inattention of the sadhak brings harm to him. Because, in the great forest called life, a tiger called mind ready to pounce at any little opportunity, is awaiting to charge onto the cow called sadhana. That is why, sadhak must take great care.

131) Swami, Karma, Bhakti, Jnana seem like different paths, is not the goal one ?

When it comes to Karma, Bhakti, Jnana, these three are not to be viewed with attitude of difference, in fact in the boundaries of language they seem like three but in the boundaries of feeling (Bhava) they are one. For example, imagine participating in Maha Narayana Seva (feeding the hungry, poor). At that time, no one participates in the Seva thinking specifically like - I am serving, one I am serving not the hungry person but the real Narayana (God), based on the limited forms of the Narayana I will serve the food items in certain proportions. At that time no one has the awareness of Karma, Bhakti, Jnana particularly, it is only that heart gets filled with indescribable love of participating in God's seva. This is nischala Bhakti (tranquil devotion). This is pure love. Personifying this experience filled tranquil devotion is Purushottama Yoga. As it gets personified in Seva, ecstatic heart is immersed in Nama Smaran. This is life's spiritual beauty.

132) How to make Nama Smaran (chanting the name) as sadhana, Swami?

Sweetness in the nectar of Lord's name, art of living (jivitha kala) are not separate. There is harmony, coherence between the inner sound of nectarine name, and the art of external living. Here the thought is, whichever name and form you make as base for your sadhana called remembering (anusmaran), the ideals associated with that name and form must become clearly evident in your life journey. If you cannot do that, the sadhana you do is mechanical and meaningless. For example, if you took up as sadhana reading daily 108 names (ashtottara shatanamavali) of God. In those names "Om Sri Sai Prem-atmane namaha, prema murthaye namaha, Sri Sai Prema pradya namaha" through these three names the non-dual love principle is expressed, if you are unable to reflect, demonstrate it in your conduct, is not your sadhana a waste? Instead if you think you are praising Swami, it will be like you are reminding Swami about his own tatva (principle, nature) and nothing else. Probably saying this belongs to the category of selfish wasteful sadhana koti (unlike Rama Koti) is not at all inappropriate.

133) Swami, What is loving oneself ?

On this Earth billions of people are living. Except for a few among all of them, lot more people are suffering from poverty, lack of education, poor health, and with varieties of deformities. In those circumstances it is natural for a person to hate oneself, to curse oneself, isn't it ! In that case this person is unable to love others is also natural, isn't it! Despite these circumstances those who are contented with their way of living, can be understood as those who love themselves. That is, one must take their life as handed over to God. That is, one must realize that loving oneself is one and the same as surrendering to God. Only after this mental maturity occurs one can attain the equanimous heart of loving all others. But, this is also not without a restriction. It is the crooked intellect of discussing others good and bad constantly. That is why, as long as you are examining the good and bad in others, you cannot love anyone. Ordinarily many people for any vishaya (object, topic, attitude) give commentaries, interpretations and demonstrate their intelligence and knowledge. One must follow God's commands to the tee without fail. You do not have any freedom in this respect. It is your duty to follow his commands. Do not try to interpret God's commands as per your logic, intelligence, and convenience. First duty in your life is to do seva to God. Rest of the things, people come after that. If you lose this opportunity that you got, it might take few lives before you get this opportunity again.

134) Why is it so difficult for man to progress spiritually, Swami?

Life proceeds in between birth-death. But, experience is continuing for many generations prior to birth. Even after death it is extended. Whatever is experienced becomes Truth (Satyam). Rest all is related to imagination. In fact only through experience transformation occurs. If such an experience assists in improvement, it becomes higher journey. Instead if it increases weaknesses, it becomes lower journey. Currently the root cause for lower journey is man's habituation to Adharma and living in conflict with nature. If living in accordance to the rules of nature (prakriti), that becomes surface level experience. If living in conflict, it becomes deep level experience. Deep experience weakens the entire Nadi system, the seed released by that person is also weakened. That is why, the process of lower journey becomes deep, heavy, burdensome and does not melt quickly. As long as man is in higher journey there are no difficulties. Instead if he turns towards lower journey he will get weakened. To make it strong again it is very difficult. Observe. No matter how many teachings given, how many trainings given to people only surface level change is seen, but there is no chance for complete cleansing. Once the vehicle goes off track it is very difficult to bring it back to normal state. Because weakening is quite easy. Getting strong is extremely difficult. Climbing a mountain is difficult but sliding down is quite easy. Once slipped and fell, getting back to normal state is more difficult. That is why, those who are in the negative state to come back to normal state need decades of time. Not only that, it is harder for them to grasp the subject knowledge. In case if they did grasp, their body and mind do not cooperate in doing sadhana. But, if there is very strong will and resolve from inside, it is possible to some degree. In current circumstances, even if change is desired, getting cooperation of environment is difficult. In the world when there is inseparable relationship with worldly vishaya vasanas, it is very hard for mind to turn inwards.

135) What will become of Jiva after death, Swami?

For every living being birth-death are natural and unavoidable. Man is no exception to that. So, a large percent of living beings after death their Jiva consciousness merges into universe easily. But humans since they resist death strongly; Jiva Bhav (strong feeling of individuality) is left over; due to unfulfilled desires and resolutions (sankalpas), to fulfill them after death has to take another fully grown body. Prior to birth, desires are in the form of resolutions in the seeds released by the parents, after death, to fulfill the left over desires searches for another body. It has to enter into that body which will fulfill its desires, resolutions. Because, there is no possibility to fulfill its desires in a different body. In some circumstances, after death Jiva leaves the physical body and enters into the surroundings. Those vasana seeds enter contaminated air, water, soil, also enters into foods, and ends up entering into the bodies that partake those. In those circumstances there is the possibility for Jiva to enter into not only human beings but also into other animals. But, the vasana seeds of the individual who lived with elevated character travel far distances, circling the entire globe for sometime, ends up selecting such an individual who is similar. The seeds released from the individual with bad samskars ends up in the surrounding contamination. In those cases, it has the possibility to enter into other animals. Because, the vasana seeds that has animal tendencies has the possibility to take shelter in the bodies of similar animals. Those who have transformed in terms of Jnana and got rid of the relationship with physical world while still living, who have completely melted off their Samchita, Prarabha Karmas (past and present life karma results) and are experiencing complete freedom, they can be free of all bondages while still alive. Those kind of people do not have a need for another body after death. This is called Janma Rahityam (freedom from rebirth). This is not something that is attained after death. It is not at all something that someone can give. Everyone has through self effort must completely dissolve their karmas. That is why it is said "Jnanagni Dagdha Karmanam". For that, guidance from SadGuru, and complete Advait Brahma Jnana is very necessary. Only then the Jiva completely melts away, and in the last moments the Jiva Atma easily becomes one (Anusandhanam) with Paramatma. This in the language of Vedanta is Mukthi or Moksha. Because current circumstances are miserable, inner being is completely contaminated, since filled with bad samskars which have to be completely melted away, adopting universal feelings, one must fulfill the highest meaning of life. Therefore, one can reach to a high spiritual state by moulding spirituality in the path conforming to the scriptures and able to do sadhana with discipline. For that, past karmas need to be completely melted away. Should not incur new additional samskars. Only then the highest meaning of life is attained, and life gets fulfilled. There is no doubt !

136) Swami, How should a sadhak be ?

If Jiva Bhav (I am this body, mind feeling) melts away, Jiva becomes God. For that one must examine oneself from all angles, and must make effort to completely get released from external bondages. One must be able to deeply study life by knowing about oneself, by thinking about oneself, by traveling within oneself, and by facing inward completely. To explain it in a different way, complete focus needs to be put on one's own spiritual growth, and not to turn one's drushti (focus) towards other things, not think about others. That is, he must completely put his focus on fulfilling the highest meaning of life. That is why I will say, 'expert in spirituality' means "one living selfishly". Because it is not using society for his benefit. It is a way of elevating oneself spiritually. As his inner cleansing keeps getting done, his wisdom spreads infinitely, gets completely released from bondages of attachment, and gets the opportunity to attain complete freedom. So, ordinarily in your language usage, selfishness means robbing someone, or fulfilling your personal needs, or using others. In fact the person who elevated himself spiritually can elevate anyone else. Not only that, he can do his share of excellent service to society. Because, he will definitely have service mentality, detachment, and dedication to sacrifice (Tyaga). If someone who has transformed spiritually but not working for the benefit of society, then he is definitely selfish. Actually he can be considered as not transformed spiritually. Because, there will definitely be the keen interest to turn others on to the higher spiritual journey by letting them know about the mental peace and bliss he is enjoying. There is no doubt at all. God is formless, free of blemishes and characteristics (nirakar, niranjan, nirgun). He sees everything and everyone as a witness. Although the entire universe emanated from him but he is beyond it. In case of man, his life proceeds based on his internal samskars (vasanas) and there is no involvement of God in it. Politicians for winning they seek shelter of God, worship him, perform rituals, and make promises to make offerings if they win, all these are natural but God does not fulfill their desires. There is no chance at all. But, by developing faith in God he gets faith in himself. His belief that it happened through God gets stronger. Without doing his share of hard work, if he puts the burden on God it becomes slavery. Does not get any results. Yajna, Yaga are holy Vedic offerings. If they are done with discipline, dedication, devotion, faith, gives wonderful results. When Yajna is finished, in the Purna Ahuti (final complete oblations) the divine energy generated by the articles of oblation, Devatas (demi-gods) accept and bless. The greatest of all of them is Jnana Yajna (effort to attain Jnana). By grasping, understanding the totally complete Advaita Brahma Jnana, and by bringing it into experience, inner state can be completely altered. There is no other alternative. Mind is temple of God. Pure heart is God's abode. If one can feel body as the temple and the Jiva in there is actually God, then human life's ultimate meaning is attained. There is no greater medicine than good mind. There is no greater wealth than good mind. There is no better auspicious time than good mind. But, the same mind when goes towards lower journey, it becomes grave danger. If becomes abode for six evil qualities (Ari Shadvargas), devilish qualities exacerbate. Entire thinking process alters. Gets weak himself, and spreads the dirt in his mind everywhere. Therefore, heaven and hell are not outside somewhere - they are inside you. If inside is holy, filled with higher samskars then it is heaven, if filled with bad samskars it is hell. That is why, you are responsible for your karmas. No one else has any involvement in it.

137) Who is a great charitable person in God's eyes, Swami?

Two people for passing time were sitting near the temple in the village and were chatting. By then it was getting dark. It was slightly cloudy also. Another person came by at that time. He asked "can I join you two?" Both of them replied "Of course. This is not our place. We are also sitting here to pass time. You can join". Three sat and got busy chatting. Just then rain and strong winds started. They could not leave that place. Just then the third person felt hungry. He conveyed that to other two. Second person said "we are also feeling the same. First person has three, and I have five chapatis (Indian bread). We can share and eat." But the question arose, how to share 8 chapatis equally between three? Third person gave an idea. "Lets cut up each chapati into three pieces. We will get 24 pieces and we can share that equally and eat. This seemed reasonable, they divided 8 chapatis into 24 pieces and shared among them, they each ate 8 pieces, quenched their hunger and went to sleep. In the early morning after they woke up and before departing the third person said, "Last night you not only gave me company, you gave me chapatis and quenched my hunger. Many gratitudes to you. I will give you eight golden coins that I have. You two can share them". Saying so, he gave the 8 golden coins and left. After he left, the first person says "if you give me my 4 gold coins, I will leave" to second person. The the second person says "Yours were only 3 chapatis. Mine were 5 chapatis. Therefore, by that count 5 gold coins belong to me and 3 gold coins to you". In this manner argument started between the two. To resolve this problem they reached the village court. There, the judge heard the whole story, asked them to leave the gold coins with him, and postponed the judgement to next day. In the night after he went to bed, in the dream God came and asked "what judgement are you going to give?" Judge says "what the second person is saying seems just". God laughed and said " Did you hear the story right?" then said "you must give only one gold coin to the person with three chapatis'. Judge asked "How so?" God said "like this. First person has 3 chapatis. He made them 9 pieces. Second person had 5 chapatis and he made 15 pieces out of it. The first person ate 8 of his 9 pieces. But, the second person gave 7 pieces to the third person. Therefore 7 gold coins belong to the second person. This is my calculation. It is justice too". Next day judge gave the same judgement. First person when he heard said sadly "second person is much better. He was going to give me 3 coins and you are giving me only one". Judge when he heard that explained to him how he gets only 1 gold coin. What you need to understand from this is, your calculations are different than God's calculations. God takes into account how you are sharing with others from what you have. One who has 30 crores (crore is 10 million) gives charity of 3 lakhs (lakh is 100 thousand), God does not take it to be great charity. One who has three thousand giving charity of 300 is considered normal by God. One who has very little when he gives a little from that to others, he is great. It is accounted as Punya (merit). In God's view, it is not how much you have, it is how much you gave from what you have is important.

138) Swami, it is said 'ManahEva Manushyanam Karanam Bandha Mokshayo' ?

For man, running is quite difficult but it is very easy to stand. But, for mind running is very easy, standing still is very difficult. This is the dissimilarity between man and mind. 'Mano moolam idam Jagat' (mind is the root cause of creation). It takes man a long time to travel to everything. Mind can do that in a second. One must try to restrain somewhat the mind that travels at such a rapid speed. Mind is not bad. Occurrence of good-bad is based on the way, method of using the mind. Man's conduct is dependent on the mind. Therefore, mind must always be checked. In one minute it behaves like a mad monkey, and in another second shines with divine feelings. Once upon a time my race (monkey race) laughed looking at man. It said "O man! Do not be proud that you are very powerful. Because, I am in you as your mind. Your life is dependent on me". If mind is put on a crooked path, life goes astray. Although I am a monkey, by ceaselessly doing Rama name chanting, participating in remembering Rama made the work of Rama victorious. Likewise, if mind enters into the right path, only then you will experience the nearness and great treasure of God. If divinity is to be remembered/ chanted, the basis is mind. That is why, from very early age if mind is put on the right path, you also will attain a divine state.

139) Swami, it is said God's presence is not possible without human effort?

No matter how powerful a man is, but without human effort, it becomes useless. Man does not become a scholar or get enriched as soon as they are born. By making effort successively reaches to a high position. God's grace occurs only when there is human effort. I will give you a small example for that. Once upon a time one person was going driving a cart/ carriage, the wheel of the cart got stuck. He had the energy to set it right, he did not make appropriate effort, sat in the cart and kept chanting Rama's name Ram, Ram, Ram. As soon as I heard the Rama's chant, I materialized in front of him right away and asked "Son, what do you want?" He said "Swami! The wheel of my cart is broke. I need your help for that". In response I scolded him saying "O foolish man! God's help is attained only where there is human effort. Without doing your effort, you keep sitting and saying only ram ram, in what way are you going to get the help?" A plate of chapati (Indian bread) and potato are right in front. But, for your stomach to get full, hand and mouth need to be put to work, isn't it! Without doing that if you keep staring at the plate, there is no use. Along with chanting the name you need to participate in God's activities. Due to the effect of Kali age man is bidding farewell to human effort enhancing his laziness, getting farther from God's grace. No matter how much I tell them, devotees are disregarding their duty by saying 'swami you need to do everything, swami it is your responsibility'. God is always near you, with you, beside you. But you are getting farther away from God due to your speech, your behavior, due to increase of bad qualities in you. You are unable to understand God. Yes. You can never understand God. I will give a small example. Suppose you started journey in a car from Coimbatore to Kodaicanal. After sometime it is said Kodaicanal has arrived. So, did Kodaicanal come near you? Or did you come to Kodaicanal? Kodaicanal stayed in its place. In the same manner, to think God has come near you or God is moving farther away from you is a big mistake. God is not getting closer to you, not getting farther away from you. He is always with you. You must have complete faith and confidence in this truth. But, good qualities like this are constantly diminishing in you. I will give you an example. God said to one person "Son! No matter where you go, I will come with you." "Is what God said is true? Is God coming with me?" with this doubt he turned around to see. He did not see God. So is God not there? But God said he will be behind him. When he turned back to see, God also turned behind him. But, he could not recognize this truth and misbelieved that God did not keep his word. You must be able to see/ experience the God as omnipresent. You must proceed ahead with oneness principle/ truth. You must be able to attain the power of Advaita (Advaita siddhi). There is no use if you stay in fear of God. Believing that God is your old fast friend, you must be able to move about freely with God. You must have fear of sin, but not fear of God. You must love God entirely/ completely. Only then God is attained by you. This is Anjaneya's guarantee!

140) Swami, How to attain the highest meaning of life (Paramarth)?

How would it be if you are equal to everything and everyone? How would it be if you are more than some, less than some? More means feeling of superiority, less means inferiority feeling occurs. Those two are harmful. Less more are all reflections of diversity. When felt everything is equal, equal vision/ equanimity develops. That becomes the royal road to Samadhi. If someone else is thought to be more than you, or less than you that becomes diverse view/ vision. Energy is depleted through diversity vision/ view. Equal vision increases energy. This is called state of Avadhuta. Human life's highest meaning is, to melt away the samchita prarabda karmas, get completely released from karmic bondage, enjoying freedom, finishing one's life peacefully. For that old karmas need to melt away, and not accumulate additional karmas. This is the way of living artfully. For that, Sadguru's guidance, complete non-dual Jnana of Brahman, uninterrupted sadhana, are very necessary and required. Sadguru while enjoying freedom, makes disciple walk ahead on that path. Where there is conformity to the scriptures there is and should not be any room for inferences, suspicions, misbeliefs, doubts. Only then the sadhak will have total faith and confidence on that path. Through complete Advaita Brahma Jnana all kinds of links, attachments with the world get broken. Living in a state beyond attachment-hate occurs. Thereafter one must be able to continue sadhana. Because, after knowing complete Jnana, to attain it in experience, sadhana is definitely necessary. There is no use just knowing it. It must definitely come into experience.

You who are called sadhaks adopt a small procedure. Through this, mind and senses get restricted. What it is, till I tell you to stop, continue it. In your mind on any one occasion if you agonized, you think about that occasion in the normal way you think. Then think about it from spiritual standpoint. This and that occasions how your response was describe and write it in a book. Observe in how many occasions are you losing your one pointedness, concentration. This is a good sadhana path. I told you many times. But saying it again again again. In this telling recognize Anjaneya's patience and forbearance. Accept them as yours. Along with that examine the occasions when you are happy. If you do that you will be able to grasp how your mind thinks.

141) What kind of sanctified thoughts one must have for sadhana, Swami?

As a part of your daily activities during the time of Pradosha Kaal (48 minutes prior to sunset onwards till 48 minutes after) if you do not try to resolve or answer the entire karmas that are done from the time we open our eyes till we slip into sleep, there will not be anyone who betrays God more than you do. Without recognizing whether your conversations are needed - unneeded taking it as praising God, your wasteful roaming taking it as circumambulations around God, in the end when go to sleep without awareness of body take it as the last stage of sadhana called Samadhi, the reason for me to tell you these is so you do not misuse your words and actions. Not only that, you need to understand that the food energy given to this body, which is the basis for these, is as sacred as the oblations offered into the Yajna karmas. When these kind of sacred feelings occur in you, then you are ready for the spiritual journey. But, a journey only at thought level does not take you to actual destination, isn't it! Therefore, to whatever sadhana that you are practicing, you need to add practicing holy karmas, unwavering devotion to God, perseverance then you can start your journey.

142) Swami, What is the necessity for wealth of good gunas to a sadhak?

There is no use of the Jnana limited to intellect. That must spread into entire life. That Jnana must manifest through eyes, hands, legs and senses. Organs of knowledge (senses), organs of action must come to a state of systematically practicing with discrimination. Mere scholarship is not called 'Jnana'. I say 'sadgunas' (good gunas) as Jnana. Therefore, do you understand that wealth of good gunas (sadguna sampatti) is the Jnana wealth that takes you into the presence of God? In this wealth of good gunas 'Bhakti-Mukthaa-phalamey' is very eminent. What Bhaktas (devotees) must have is not part time devotion. Permanent devotion is needed. Because, the devotion that wavers with 3 issues and 6 difficulties, how can it be permanent devotion (Bhakti)? Devotion is unwavering when it is firm and persevering.

Today let us remember a few things Swami (Sri Sathya Sai) said in his childhood. Because, his very words indicate that he knows everything (sarvam). You many not have heard these before. Changing words and make us aware of new meanings is extremely easy for Swami. When he was little, they went to swim in the chitravati river. Over there, with just two words showed the difference between mother and a child. He said "For child money is wealth, for mother child is wealth". On one occasion someone said to Swami "like inside" (lopa-lagana)?, then the little Swami split that word and stunned everyone around "lopala-gana, bayata bhajan" (inside song, outside sound). To scare Swami one policeman said "do you want jail?" (Jail kavala?). Little Swami did not get scared and said "Jai-lu kodathava? Not yet". English word 'Jail' got matched to Telugu word 'Jai' and used it to indicate 'Jai, Jai sounds'. It seemed on the surface like a clever matching, but later on they understood that it was indicating future. At age of nine he was replying to a Swami's question, "to say 'I don't want anything', 'I want must become unneeded'." While saying 'I want', he said 'do not want anything', Swami is really the God of speech! Turning words/sentences around, without any limitation of language changing very easily any language word, or idioms, and at that instant magnifies the meaning of that word or sentence. "What is mother-hood? Hood is mother, isn't it!", "what is divine mother? Isn't mother divine!" "What is divine power? Power is divine!" like this he used to further clarify the meanings. "Where is divine sankalp (thought/resolve)? Sankalpa is divine", "what is Bhavad Bhakti (devotion to God)? Devotion itself is God", "it is not Swami's protection, protection itself is Swami", "they say Brahma Jnana. Jnana is Brahman", "what is divine power? Power is divine". Like this many sentences with small changes made by Swami would reveal not the meaning of the word but higher spiritual meaning, Swami's way of saying by turning around the words in sentences, that are in usage in very ordinary world affairs, increases the meaning of the sentence twofold. "It is not harsh truth, truth is harsh", "not sweet memory, memories are sweet", "not ideal love, love is ideal", "not faultless love, love is without fault", the explicit meaning of these kinds of words is brought forth. "Jagan Mata does not mean mother of Jagat. Jagat is Mata (mother)" says so our Swami an embodiment of Advaita. "Mrutyunjaya means not fearful of Mrutyu (death)", "Samsara means Sankalpa only", "no vaikalyam (defect) is kaivalyam (oneness with God)", "Apadbandhava (protector of the distressed) means tied to distress", he paraphrased to make it clearer. "Dhyasa (attention) is Dhyana (meditation)", "satisfaction is freedom", small words like these he introduces exceptional spiritual meanings, "those who are without compassion (daya) are dayyalu (evil spirits), there are no other dayyalu", saying so did not give any room to blind beliefs and awakened humanity. "Brama (illusion) is Brahma Rakshasi (super demons)" highlighting that there are no other Brahma Rakshasis, the illusion in the individual is the Brahma Rakshasi. "Samasyala thoranam (garland of issues)" is split apart as "Samasyala-tho ranam" (battling with issues), swami brought forward the life truths. Swami gave answers with no room for doubts like "all siddhas are not prasiddhas, all vakthas are not pravakthas" (all self-realized are not well know, all orators are not prophets). To those who said "search for answers" he replied "only when you forget where you put them!". Like this not one, two, tens, hundreds in thousands idioms, word marvels, indescribable interpretations, many many words and their twinkles as a mere sample this Maruthi has presented to you, else is it possible for me to describe Swami's words playfulness!

Sai mother is filling the stomachs of children with food charity 143) Swami, What is the root (moolam) for everything?

The word moolam has meanings of root, basis, foundation. As much strength moolam has, those that are dependent on it, those that transmuted from it would have that much firmness. Similarly, whatever strength the root has, the tree has that much strength, health. As strong is the foundation, that much sturdy the building will be. Likewise, roots of ancestry, cultural roots, in this manner every thing consisting of base-movable, base takes the primary role. Despite doing so much, its distinctiveness is that it is not visible. Moolams are firm, permanent, transient. It rules future, gives vigor to creation and subsequently for those that grew, to live independently, it gives courage, steadfastness, characteristics, gunas. Living would be good if constantly in alliance with them. That is why, no matter how high a stature one grows, the moolam which supported that growth must be remembered regularly. Those who forget it will be known as ungrateful. Those cannot gain success in life's journey. A person who remembers how they were once does not have Ahamkar (ego) and jealousy. Remembering once roots, interacting with good conduct, and as great souls there are many who gained permanent renown. For history, culture, customs and practices, the moolam for them is in the ancient literature of those countries. In all countries in the world great importance is given to ancestry for this reason. Language, religion, habits, life styles, can be different based on location, time and circumstance. But, there is an invincible power that operates the universe. Whichever country whatever name they may give, Bharatiyas gave the name of 'Para Brahman'. It has no form, state, or position. Operating the universe in awareness is its work. It can be seen with the third eye or eye of the intelligence (Jnana). Therefore, Jnana is the moolam for life journey. Understanding this everyone must become full of Jnana, must learn the highest meaning of life, this is my opinion.

144) What are the roles of mother, father, Guru, and God, Swami?

Human birth is a boon given by God. Out of all births human birth is a great journey (goppa prasthanam). As a man with mind living with that knowledge is a sankalpa (resolution) of yours. Up to birth is responsibility of God. From infant to youth your parents, Gurus can lay the foundation for progress in your life. Till then your life is in their hands. Their responsibility also till then. Thereafter in your life, along with your age mind also keeps getting transformed. From there on your path, life resolutions, learning usefulness/skills, responsibility for knowing these is upon you. For your growth parents, Guru do not put in effort with any selfish motive. They take it as their responsibility. Later your age increases. Mind keeps blossoming. From there onwards you walk the regular lawful path or thorny path, you have the authority to decide. Whichever way you like to walk, society has all paths available. Because, in those days from time of birth till half of life they would be in the hands of parents, and Gurus, and used to learn and move about under their guidance. It is a rarity

now. In current times, as soon as they gain a little awareness of themselves and as they grow in age, "I am a great person. I know everything. I don't need anyone's advice" mentality has increased. Excessive freedom is there for children and youth now. They are becoming like - either this shore or that shore. As age and mind mature, yourself have to lay the right lawful path consisting of ideals. Practice with humility whatever is told by the Guru you found, and do not let go of his hand. Do not miss this opportunity that you found as a result of merit earned in many lives. Consciousness-bliss of the form of awareness (formless God) itself became sustaining doer, decided to take you across to other shore, in the form of Anjaneya is staying close and walking you. Become instruments in the hands of Guru, SadGuru after getting blessed, by destroying 'I', 'mine', deep affection attachments, passions, your opinions; transforming fire of anger into fire of sacrifice and offering wood sticks called good thoughts/ opinions as oblations. Become servants and get freed from slavery. Get freed from entanglements of the world (bhav bandhalu). When merits of good deeds chase you, gently, subtly, with subtle intellect, like a magnet merging into subtler than subtlest Atma is certain. This Anjaneya with proven assurance, as Guru's teaching, is asking you to follow through with this command. Or enacting/ exercising this command.

145) Swami, What is the need of sadhak doing sadhana with self effort?

In your past just because someone did great work, does not make you great. Their greatness does not bring you any permanent glory. The steady steps that you need to take, your great ancestry would give some inspiration and some faith, that's all. Instead of getting elated at someone's attainment in the past, you must prove your distinctiveness and accomplishments. They show inclination for proceeding in the same mould. They pass their life dwelling on the name earned by parents, grand parents, dynasty. How long are you going to sell fruit by the ancestry of tree? You too, plant a sapling get it to grow into a tree, eat the fruit, and sell them, only then your life is fulfilled. In the sadhana to discover yourself, a key factor is to accept yourself. To think that you will climb the carriage only when you read somewhere, or circumstances cooperate, is a proof of your mental weakness. Seeds don't grow under the shade of a tree. When they are planted away from it they grow healthily. Monasticism (Sanyas-atvam) is this. Keeping it away from parents, relatives, giving all the energy to this sapling, to grow it in safe protected environment is the work of the Sadguru gardener. If a tree that grows fruit copiously is ready, eating that fruit, selling if needed, instead of living off of it, why work hard for a new tree? Actually that sapling might or might not grow? Advocates of hopelessness (you may consider them close to you) thinking in this manner might discourage you. But, impossible can be made possible. Life gets fulfilled only with many experiments and struggles. Many among you limit themselves to reiterating someone else's accomplishments, and do not try to become a page in history. If it is Rama, Krishna, Sai Rama, Anjaneya, are you going to just sit and keep praising them? Would you try to find what they accomplished? Would you try to accomplish those and become successful sadhaks? Not? Instead of eating from someone else's served plate, eating from your own acquired plate imagine how satisfying it will be, think. Must stand as an example of self confidence, and self esteem.

146) Swami, How to restrain thoughts?

If your thoughts are good, constructive, their effect will be clearly visible in your conduct. Everyday on average 50 thousand to 60 thousand + thoughts arise. Until one is very careful, they come as a flood. If one is not alert about this continuous process, these thoughts will take you off track. Some by experience, some by good character, some with subtle enquiry, some by spiritual contemplation, helps you to be wary of your thoughts so that they do not degrade you. Otherwise, I am stressing again and again and again that those thoughts will take permanent residence in your mind. Those who contemplate spiritually would have appreciation for values. This Anjaneya's duty is to specify direction to continue forward when facing failure, without getting discouraged.

This Anjaneya is reminding repeatedly that sadhaks must accept the responsibility of making their mind travel on a good path. Each day a new thought, each month a new path, then you will remain where you are, no progress. There are conflicts, issues in every work and every goal. Obstacles arise. Must always move forward with specific goal. For such persons, God always grants courage, and determination.

Human body created by God is a wound, pain. Food that you eat is the appropriate medicine. Clothing you wear is the bandage on it. Water you drink is the cleansing liquid to clean the wound. With this feeling shed the affection for body, must improve affection for Atma (Atma-bhimaan)!

147) Swami, What benevolence occurs with Bhagavad Gita chanting?

Swami (Sri Sathya Sai) asked you to do Bhagavad Gita chanting. When God has specified then there is going to be some or other significance. Question is, are you doing with three fold purity (thought, word, action). You must ask yourself this question and get the answer. Bhagavad Gita transforms one beautifully by moving one's intellect away from blind attachments, makes one know the real truth, and prepares them for action. In conformity to duty describes the importance of action (karma), walks life on the proven path, makes man into a great venerable person, such is the miraculous power of Bhagavad Gita. In such a Bhagavad Gita know by reading which chapters gives which Jnana. Jnana that is obtained individually, can be obtained completely by reading it entirely.

With (viswas) faith and confidence even destiny can be tackled. With viswas, viswa (universe) can be conquered. Path of Dharma has the power of controlling destiny. In the world, man should live without ever leaving justice, and dharma. When you safeguard dharma, sathya (truth), nyaya (justice), these while keeping you in physical, mental health, take you to higher spiritual state. “punarapi janam, punarapi maranam” (rebirth - death) is the doctrine of karma. Getting over birth - death, must become one with Shiva (God). That is why you took human birth.

148) Swami, What is the inner meaning of epic Maha Bharat?

You must have heard the epic Maha Bharat. Did you understand its inner meaning? In the epic all the Pandavas were bound to the word of their eldest brother Dharmaraj. All aspects of sadhana are bound to the principle of discrimination between Dharma-Adharma is indicated in this epic. In the battle of attaining liberation, a sadhak kills all of his enemies (desires), gains victory in his world (inner), remains alone with his sadhana aspects, to indicate this five Pandavas were left after the epic war. This is the oneness for the sadhak. State in which sadhak alone remains. By the time Dharmraj was born to Kunthi, Gandhari was 7 months pregnant. If Kunthi gave birth first, Kunthi's son will have the right to become King. She wanted to give birth to a son first, due to jealousy hurriedly she broke her incomplete fetus. It came out in 101 pieces. They were preserved in bottles with fluid. Over time they became 101 babies. In this manner Kauravas were born out of sequence. The births of desire enemies is like that. They are neither born to the parents, nor born to the fluid in the bottles. They are useless to Paramarth (highest truth or reality), and not appropriate for transactional life. The epic described the inauspicious circumstances of Duryodhan's time of birth. As soon as he was born, Vidura told in many different ways about ethics and advised Dhritarashtra to kill Duryodhan as soon as he was born to save the Kuru clan. Dhritarashtra disregarded the advice due to his affection for son, on top of that he named him 'Suyodhan'. Suyodhan means one with good thoughts. But, due to desire for kingdom he increased his jealousy, and started making effort to kill Pandavas. King of desires, Duryodhan, took a vow to kill the sadhana aspects. Due to not a single good thought in his conduct, Lord Krishna in his time, changed his name from Suyodhan to Duryodhan. Duryodhan's name became historical. Kauravas natural disposition is malevolence. All thoughts of desire/ lust seem like good thoughts, and behave as Duryodhan (bad thoughts). Sadhana aspects are born out of sanctity - desire/ lust thoughts are born out of injustice/ immoral/ illegal (Kauravas). There is complete conflict right in their birth. Eshana means desire, it also means speed. That is strong desire travels very fast. That is why it is called Eshana Trayam. 1) Bhog-eshana (Vitt-eshana, Dhan-eshana) 2) Shastra-eshana (Loka-eshana) 3) Dhara-eshana (putra-eshana).

Man in reality is of the form of Atma (Atma swarupa) distinct from the Jagat (world) yet, of eternal form of bliss yet, has interest to experience everything other than Atma i.e. inclination for external vision is called Bhog-eshana. These are 8 kinds. 1) Home 2) Bed 3) Clothing 4) Jewelry 5) Man for woman, Woman for man 6) Flower 7) Sandal wood paste 8) betel leaf item, as outlined commonly, but man has countless enjoyments. To enjoy them money is needed isn't it! Constantly striving for that money, without consideration of legality, openly turns his vision outward (Bahir mukh). This is the pace or speed in Bhog-eshana. A celestial swan only partakes the milk from a milk water mixture, like that I am telling about the essence of highest truth that is pervading everywhere. Scriptures have said it in many different ways yet; this Anjaneya preached in many different ways yet; Swami said in many ways yet; average human not only the pleasures of this world, but wishing to enjoy more additional pleasures; with the expectation of getting heaven and other meritorious worlds; struggling for name and fame; is what I call speed. They fall into the illusion that wife, son, daughters, grandchildren, great grandchildren, relatives give them happiness. They do not recognize the bondage due to them, not only that they experience suffering everyday yet, like a worm that got caught in a spider web and not knowing how to get out becomes a bait, likewise unable to come out of the samsara (bondage of world) becomes a bait for samsara of death. This is Dhar-eshana, Putr-eshana. They offer everything to them - strength, money, time, and if any one of them is subjected to loss or difficulty they suffer as if it occurred to them. They think that samsara is nothing but suffering. Yet, till last moment they try to provide anything for them. They do not try to tell them their experience that samsara is all sorrow and at least try to get them out of the bondage of samsara. Not even a bit of kindness. They become sufferers due to them, having no choice, transfer all possessions to them, first killed by them, then happily gets caught in the jaws of death. This is the speed, pace in Dhar-eshana. Eshana Traya desires in man are army of Kauravas, instruments for doing karmas by a sadhak - five organs of action, five organs of knowledge (senses), five life breaths, mind, buddhi, memory, ego, five elements are army of Pandavas. A sadhak must reexamine, enquire again, and is able to overcome the desires of Eshana Traya, he will definitely live as a Jivan Muktha.

149) Swami, How to do charity?

There is a Yajna called 'Viswajit'. Someone who does that Yajna must donate their entire wealth in charity. It is similar to the 'niluvu dopidi' (everything from your body is given in charity) given at Tirupati. One householder resolved to perform 'Viswajit' yajna. As per the procedures of yajna he started giving away cows. But, those cows were "Peethodaka, Jaagda-truna, Dugda-doha-ha, nir-indriya-ha". It means, they are in a stage of losing their lives. Cannot drink water, can't eat grass, no question about yielding any milk. Their lifeline was at an end. Son understood that his father came up with a scheme to get rid of these cows by performing this Yajna. He was pained thinking what is the use of this kind of Yajna? You get to see these kinds of people in the world. Not having is poverty. But, not giving while having is mental poverty. Some give in charity the items that they have no use for. Anyway they do not get any merit, since those articles are not usable, you will get the curses from those who took them. There is no greater sin than giving leftover and putrid food to workers. Only food worthy of eating be given to others. Whenever any food is given, it should be given with a mother's heart. Whatever one has give it with satisfaction. Not only limited to humans, food given to any living being must be like that. Only then the Paramatma in every living being gets happy. Do not think that God is in only temple. Every 'body' is a temple. Every Atma is the form of divine. His father did not have this feeling hence he was giving useless charity. Son was feeling bad for father's outlook, he went over to him and said "kasmai maadasya seethi" "O father! To which Ritvik (priest) are you going to donate me?" Father has no answer so he did not reply. Son asked him two times more. Father got angry at that and said "Mrutyu-vey vaivasathaya tvatvam dadami ithi" "I will give you to the Sun's son Yama Dharmaraj (god of death)". See how detrimental anger is! On one side father is unable to understand the truth that he is violating Dharma. On the other side feeling bad for having to end up in a void world due to his Adharma activity, as son was objecting, in anger uttered inauspiciously "I will give you to Yama", see how inappropriate it is ! Since he uttered it, his son determinedly asked his father to do so. In the end, father sent son to Yama Loka (world). Here a peculiar thing took place. At the time when son reached, Lord Yama was not in his Loka (world). He fasted for 3 days while waiting for him. Since he is the son of a Muni (sage), as usual he was doing Sadhya Vandan, Gayatri mantra, meditation on Shiva. Lord Yama returned. His wife and ministers said pleadingly about the boy who was a guest at his home "O lord of Dharma! In whosoever's home a brahmin stays hungry, owner of that house incurs sin. Merit decreases. Therefore, immediately you make that brahmin boy happy". Right away Lord Yama went to that brahmin boy and offered Namaskar (obeisance). "O brahmin boy! My obeisances to you. May auspiciousness come to you! You are a guest deserving obeisances, yet in my home you stayed hungry for 3 days. I wish to give you three boons, one for each day. Ask !". Understand why did I tell you this story, and what is its inner meaning. In real life it is your karmas that are root cause for your sufferings, joys, happinesses, saying so this Anjaneya with great humility, obedience petitioning you with these words, accept them with respect, and set right your personal life. This is a prayer.

150) Swami, Why do they say Shiv Ratri, Shav Ratri (night of dead body)?

Godly quality is auspiciousness. 'Shiv Ratri' is the night to enhance such auspicious gunas (qualities). Instead, if you just hear and still go ahead and develop bad qualities then it is not 'Shiv Ratri', it can be called 'Shav Ratri'. Shivam means auspiciousness. Life principle consisting of inhaling-exhaling is called 'Shivam'. When the inhalation-exhalation stops it turns into 'Shavam' (dead body). Inhalation-exhalation are teaching you Self-Knowledge (Atma Body) as 'Soham'. 'So' means That (God) - 'Ham' means 'I'. In this manner the inhalation-exhalation are uttering 'I' am God. Therefore, "I am God" remembrance is auspicious (Shivam). When that 'So-Ham' stops that is inauspiciousness (Shavam).

151) Swami, How to feel every night is Shiv Ratri? How to experience it?

The day of contemplation on God is Shiv Ratri festival day. It is not limited to once a year. Every night is to be considered as Shiv Ratri, and experienced. Although you cannot do God's name chanting all night, once while sleeping, once when waking up if God's name is thought, it becomes Shiv Ratri.

152) Swami, How to increase devotion?

In the spiritual path many different thoughts, feelings arise in people. But must have one pointedness in the God thought, feeling. Turning your love toward the world can be said as self-conceit, attachment. Must turn your love towards God. That is devotion, Bhakti. You must increase such love principle (Prema tatvam). To destroy attachment, turn that attachment to God. That is real devotion.

153) Swami, How long should sadhana be?

Sadhana must continue as a continuous process till the last breath of life. There is no rest, or break for it. The inseparable relationship between Sun-Sun's rays is also there between sadhana-sadhak.

154) Swami, In case if it is not there, what is the state of sadhak?

Even a little forgetfulness, neglect on the part of sadhak brings harm. Because, in the great dense jungle of life a tiger called mind is ready to pounce, and at slight opportunity is awaiting to pounce on the cow called sadhana. That is why a sadhak must stay very alert.

155) Swami, Why is eye spoken of as great? What is inner meaning of everything is in the vision (Drushti)?

Where is God? He is right in the sight of your eye. Three fourths of your eye ball is dark. White portion that is the support for black portion is Satyam. In the edges Rajo Guna shows up as little red. Hence, for entire creation root cause is eye.

156) Swami, How are all the Vedas contained in the human?

Your body is a machine. Inhalation-exhalation is Mantra. God's Inhalation-exhalation are Vedas. Your heart is Tantra (method, procedure). Prayers to God combined with feelings full of melody/ beat is Sama Veda, worshipping with 108 names of lord along with mantras is Rig Veda. To get ready to let go bad gunas, bad customs, bad behavior, this is the right mantra form for Rajo Guna activity. Perils that surround you, facing sufferings, battling with them, and to resist, overcome them, you keep making appropriate amount of effort. That is Atharvana Veda. You do not need to search for God. Rig Veda announces the Truth that he is right within you.

157) Swami, Gopikas who did not know any scriptures, what did they understand that made them eminent historically?

Gopikas who did not know any scriptures, only partook the handily available milk as essence of Vedas, Upanishads, and became historically eminent. By singing, 'O Krishna! Speak words that are dripping with honey O Mukunda!' They consecrated their lives thus by changing the essence of Vedas into melodious sound to their heart's content.

158) Swami, How to praise (stuti) Lord Surya (Sun God)?

At dawn standing facing east if stotram (praising verses) is uttered, great illnesses are destroyed. Poverty gets removed. Sins are wiped out. If prayed at noon five great sins (pancha maha patakas) are removed. Uttering at dawn gives prosperity and gets you understanding and experience of Vedas. Surya Bhagawan is inner instruments of Mind, Buddhi, Chittam (memory), Ahamkar (ego); five life breaths of Prana, Apana, Vyana, Udana, Samana; Jnanendriyas (organs of knowledge) of ear, skin, eye, nose, tongue; Karmendriyas (organs of action) tongue (speech), hand, foot, excretory organ, procreative organ; five subtle elements (Panch Tanmatras) of sound, touch, form, taste, smell. Aditya (Sun's one of 12 names) is of the form of speech, form of bliss, great in spiritual knowledge (Vijnana ghanudu). To such Bhanu (another name of Sun) one must praise (do stuti) for seeking freedom from death, and for granting a long life.

159) Swami, What does one get by Suryopasana (worship of Sun)?

Suryopasana gives strength of Buddhi, and body. In the end it will absolve you from great death. Although one leaves the body one time or other, if suryopasana is done with three fold purity, one can attain freedom from birth. If one is still in the sadhana stage, can get a superior birth and get freedom in that life. In Yajna Yaga rituals Surya Namaskar must be done. Aditya (another name for Sun) is witness of Karma, witness of the world, visible witness, visible God!

11-05-2019 07:30 PM

In the school called life every second, every event is teaching you what you need to learn. To recognize it, is letting go of your Ahamkar (ego). Suppressing all your karmas, must bear the troubles-losses with happiness. Real sadhana is to sanctify the time in your life by participating in Satsang, be immersed in contemplation on God and absorbed in meditation. Entirely letting go of the hopes, illusions one developed for the body and beauty, it is most beneficial to ceaselessly make effort for direct experience of Atma (Atma sakshatkar) !

12-05-2019 08:00 AM

160) Swami, In what way does Karmendriyas, Jnanendriyas affect us?

In human body and in life style ten indriyas (organs) play a key role. Among them eyes, ears, nose, skin, and tongue are five Jnanendriyas. Two legs, two hands, mouth, excretory organ, procreative organ are five Karmendriyas. Jnanendriyas in gathering information, Karmendriyas in bodily duties, play a primary role. But, the information gathered by Jnanendriyas is dependent on the life that transpired earlier. Based on the nature of vasanas in the subconscious Jnanendriyas get inspired. No two people samskars (vasanas) are alike. Therefore, as per the nature of their samskars, information gathering from surroundings occurs. Currently all human beings are experimenting with Prakriti (Nature), world, and are engaged in gathering information. Therefore, from the time of birth till the time of death, the amount of samskars keep increasing. Without melting away the old samskars, acquiring additional new ones, man gets caught in the Karmic bondage. Mental stress increases. Life becomes problematic. Hence, for old samskars to melt away, by not forming new samskars, must completely withdraw from the five Jnanendriyas that are outward paths into external world. From the standpoint of Vedanta, it is called Pratyahara. Subsequently, sadhana of subtle processes like concentration, meditation, and samadhi must be done.

161) Swami, How to know that we are mere instruments?

Humans bring the results of Karmas from many lives, despite God's grace keeps removing them, it is man's weakness to feel dejected with despair, depression. Not knowing the consequences of prior lives karmas, currently builds unstable mansions of hope/desires, and gets churned with dissatisfaction. Key to happiness is satisfaction, contentment only. Not properties, grains, wealth. If you keep thinking about me, I will keep thinking about you. Then your Karma keeps getting burned. Remember me alone then you will get Mukthi. If you offer your mind and feel anguish for me that is enough, I will take you to the shore. Realize how strange is the drama of destiny, and how strong is destiny. Ordinarily every human speaks as follows when the occasion arises. When someone gives work to do and says "how are you going to do? Do it carefully". He replies "ok, sir! You don't have to worry? I will pour my entire energy, ok?" This statement indicates that he has some great energy or power, and he is going to pour all of those into that work. But, do you really have energy, power? Not there. But, each piece of work that we do is done greatly, isn't it! True. Based on the work you do those energies, power are manifesting through you. When any program is undertaken, or started a work selflessly so that it is useful to a score of people, whatever energy, power needed to fulfill that work is manifesting through you. For those works, whatever energy is needed to that degree it is manifesting. That is, the power, energy manifested is not based on you, but based on the work being performed. When you don't know this, you are in the illusion that you have or possess that energy, power. That is why, periodically you get egotistical. But the fact is, when work is undertaken to please God, or for social goodwill God manifests through you the needed energy, and skill. Once that work is complete those skills and energy are withdrawn by God. That is, you must realize you are a tool in the hands of God, a mere agent. You must operate with that knowledge. When energy and skill transmits through you, you need to worship them. If capable of worshipping like that, God will utilize you for social benevolent programs, God ordained activities to the extent needed.

162) Swami, How can we restrain Ari Shadvargas (six evil qualities)?

There are six thieves that are constantly pursuing to steal the invaluable gem of Jnana from man by enticement, entrancement, and by drowning him in intoxication. Those six thieves are desire/ lust, anger, greed, attachment, pride, and jealousy. Desire (Kama) is the very strong thief subjecting man to great difficulties, and confronts him with agitation, disturbance. This Kama is the ring leader of the six thieves. If this leader is imprisoned, rest of them can be easily taken over. Everyone knows that the thief Kama - how much destruction it has created, how dangerous it is, how it made great personages fall down. Maya means nothing else but desires. Because of these desires man gets enamored and unable to realize the Atma residing inside of him. In order to imprison this thief Kama, one must know its location, residence, isn't it! The residences of desire are senses, mind, Buddhi. Through these, desire obscures the Jnana, makes man get attached. It is ingrained nature of senses to run after joys of vishaya (objects, thoughts, emotions) and get attracted to pleasures of vishaya. Indriyas (senses) collect erroneous/ contaminated information, unholy thoughts/ emotions and makes mind poisonous. Due to their effect Buddhi loses discrimination capability. Then man has reached the state of downfall. That is why to get rid of Kama there is no choice but to seek Rama. It is the nature of Indriyas to get attracted to pleasure objects, therefore one must stay away from objects that instigate Indriyas. If Kama vasanas (tendencies of desire) that enter through the Indriyas make permanent residence in mind, restraining them is very difficult. Hence, if precautions are taken to restrain the Indriyas first, then restraining mind and Buddhi becomes easier. That is why, wherever eyes go mind should not go there, man should not go wherever mind goes.

A Guru with his disciples while going to a neighboring village, in the middle of the way they had to cross a river. At that time some travelers who were crossing the river, a young woman among them slipped and fell into the river. Immediately Guru picked her up on his shoulders and took her to the other shore. By evening time Guru disciples reached the ashram. A disciple went up to the Guru who was resting due to tiredness of journey and asked "Guru ji ! While crossing the river you carried a young woman on your shoulders. That is violation of Dharma of Sanyas?" Right away Guru gently reprimanded him by saying "I carried her on my shoulder to the other shore only. While you are carrying her in your mind and brought her all the way up to the ashram". Therefore, the vishaya information gathered by senses and unholy thoughts should not be allowed to sneak into the mind. They should be cut right at the beginning. In this Yuga of cyberspace (antar-jala) many things that entice the senses, many more pleasurable vishaya that subjects one to attachment, are very easily available. Particularly the chara-vani (mobile phones) you are using, whole world is contained in your hands. Due to that, today's humans have a much greater need to be alert in restraining the senses. Each one of you must become 100 times greater than me. Everyone of you must become hero among heroes. If you have these three - obedience, readiness, keen interest and focus in your work - then no force can stop you. In song and play, in dress and speech, in happiness and sorrow, in all daily habits, live as the courageous ones without sidestepping ethics, morality. If life is built with that ideal, others will also follow you. You first become sanctified. Then entire world is seen as holy.

I have changed. I am changing. I am trying to change, those who use such words must examine a few things very carefully. Then the reality of your change becomes perceivable.

1. Till now loved your parents, relatives, spouse, children, friends. Right now did you start loving yourself?
2. You are not the world Atlas. You don't need to think of having to uplift entire world.
3. Stop haggling with vegetable and fruit vendors. By giving them a few extra rupees, there is no great loss you will incur. That money will come in handy for them to pay their children's school fees, think like that.

4. Don't get into an argument with Taxi driver for change. That little change brings a smile on their face that should make you happy. Whatever it may be, he is struggling in life more than you are.
5. Stop telling elders, why are you repeating the same thing over? Understand that it helps them to revisit the past.
6. Although you realize the fellow being has a fault, stop trying to rectify. Show by doing what you can and make them understand the mistake silently.
7. Know that rectifying everyone around you is not solely on your shoulders. It is important to rectify yourself than correcting others.
8. Shower others with praise freely, abundantly. Along with making them happy, you will be happy too.
9. Do not get perturbed by the stain on your shirt. Know that personality is more important than form.
10. Learn to stay away from those who do not give value. They may not know what your value is. But, I know what your value is.
11. When anyone tries to drag you into competition, learn to stay cool and peaceful. There is no need for comparison, competition with anyone.
12. Make sure your feelings, emotions do not disturb you. Because, what makes you as you i.e. as a person are those.
13. Instead of breaking a relationship, a bond, it is better to kill one's Ahamkar (ego). Because, Ahamkar will make you stand alone - if relationships, bonds continue, you are never alone, isn't it!
14. Learn to live everyday as if it is the last day. In fact, today may not be the last day!
15. Know that in this world you have nothing to attain, nothing to invent, nothing to change, nothing to discover. Think that setting the world right is a part of setting yourself right.

You are doing what makes you happy. For your joy-happiness you ...you alone are responsible. No one else has any part or relationship with it, knowing this is the change that occurs in you. You select the spiritual path for that. If you can understand to some degree the essence of Vedas, Upanishads then you would know the ultimate meaning of life. You will get an opportunity to make life blissful. What else do you need for your life? That is why, you are changing should become a hundred percent fact. 163) Swami, What is it that is called Atma?

Contemplate as follows: Is it the work of Atma awareness (chaitanya) to light up or to make known, the things of the world and creation? Is Atma spreading light in order for you to know? As an answer, Atma is Nishkriya action less, it does not do anything. Further, it is organ-less. It has no organs. Formless, subtlest of the subtle. Such Atma does not think, or do any activity. How wrong it is to say 'Sun is giving light to everyone', likewise it is as wrong to say Atma is giving awareness/ light to everything. Nature of Sun is to give light. Likewise nature (swabhava) of Atma is awareness, lighting up. That's all ! Therefore one must not call the nature of a thing as its work. Nature does not involve effort. Occurs naturally, effortlessly. Work is not like that. Occurs with considerable effort. Blinking of your eyes is your nature and not your work. If it is done as work, it becomes a great burden. Eye develops pain. Hence, lighting up/ awareness is the nature of Atma. Because of the presence of Atma, world and its contents are getting known, lighted up. World by itself has no light. It is only inert, unreal (Mithya), illusion (Brama). How to know this Atma that only has light, awareness as its nature (swabhava)? In fact it is not possible to know Atma. Because, anything that wants to know Atma, needs the assistance of Atma. That is why, Atma needs to come into experience only. This Atma can be experienced in 3 stages - 1) Mixed up (kalushitam) 2) savikalpa - state of suppressed samskars (seeds) 3) Nirvikalpa - seedless samadhi.

1) Atma is covered up with limitations. Atma is experienced mixed up or contaminated when it reflects in the mind filled with thoughts and desires. When a coin is thrown into dirty water, it does not look the same as pure coin. That is what mixed up, contaminated means.

2) When thoughts and desires subside, and if intellect stands stable, focused, concentrated, by constant contemplation of Maha Vakya 'Aham Brahmasmi', then the light of Atma experienced is called Savikalpa. Here Truth is behind a thin veil. Although mind is equanimous, there is Jiva still persisting. One who sees is still separate from Atma.

3) Mind and intellect are completely subsided, one who is meditating becomes goal of meditation, becoming one, Atma stays motionless, alone, and as itself. This is Nirvikalpa. A Guru is one who has achieved the experience of the realm of Atma awareness/ light by freeing it from Rajo - Tamo gunas, and by recognizing himself in eternal purity, aloneness. He is Paramatma! To that Guru my pranams (obeisance). That is, here Guru is felt as Paramatma, Guru who has become light of Atma, to that Guru this Anjaneya is offering his namaskar.

164) Swami, How to understand the world as Mithya (illusion)?

* Paramatma is the one who creates, sustains, and dissolves the entire elements. Waves get born in the ocean, travel some distance, and dissolve back into the ocean.

* During rain, bubbles form due to rain drops falling on the flowing water, travel a little distance, and then break with a little sound of 'tup'.

* A sleeping Jiva's mind creates a dream, which stays for sometime, then dissolves right in that mind. Likewise, this Jagat and Jivas all are born in the Atma, stay for sometime, and in the end dissolve into Atma.

For ordinary people who are in the illusion that this world is real, creation sustenance and dissolution understood with above similes, looks real to them. But, when thought deeply this Jagat and Jivas are all Mithya (illusion). That is, it is not the Truth. But, when in ignorance, it seems real. I will give a simile for how the birth, existence, dissolution of Mithya elements of this Mithya Jagat are in Atma. There is a big tree in a deserted place. You are going over there in darkness. In that darkness due to wind the branches and leaves were moving, and you thought it as a ghost. That caused fear. You thought about how to escape it. Started chanting Anjaneya Swami's dandakam (poetry resembling prose). Suddenly a big lightning occurred. In the light of the lightning, there was no ghost, only tree was there. Your fear disappeared. Due to darkness ghost was born, scared the mind for a little while, in the end when light came it vanished. Where did all this occur? In that tree. When? In darkness. Therefore, as long as in darkness that tree itself seemed like a ghost, and scared for sometime, when the darkness was removed by light, the ghost vanished. Before the lightning it was a tree, and after lightning it is still the tree. Ghost getting born, staying, and going is totally a lie (not real). Likewise, as long as one is in ignorance (Ajnana), Atma seems like the world. It gives rise to joy, sorrow, fear, pain for sometime. When the ignorance gets removed, attains Jnana, that is attaining Atma Jnana, remaining in the state of "I am Atma", Jagat disappears- Atma appears (pratyaksham)! When the tree appears (sakshatkar) ghost disappears. When Atma sakshatkar occurs world disappears. Therefore, Jagat that is Mithya gets born in Atma, stays in Atma. These two are in the state of ignorance (Ajnana). When Jnana arises...Jagat disappears. This is dissolution (layam). What remains is Atma. Only Jneya (that which is to be known). It means, light of lights, and is different than Tamas (darkness characteristics). That is, Jnana-Jneya-Jnana gamya triad is in everyone's heart. We will share the swaupa (real form/ nature) and swabhava (personality) of Paramatma tomorrow.

165) Swami, what are Jnanam, Jneyam, Jnana gamyam (knoweldge, object of knowledge, goal of knowledge) ?

In this world those which give illumination are Sun, Moon, Stars, Fire, Lamp, Electricity etc. These are all outside lights. Eye, nose, mind, intellect are inner lights (jyothi). None of these are self shining lights. They light up when something else gives them the power/ energy to light up. When we say hot water, heat is not a self characteristic of water. It is a characteristic of fire. Likewise, the power to light up all the above lights is not their own. That power belongs to Atma. Sun and stars are self illumining but they also illuminate using the power of Atma. Likewise, eye, nose and other sense organs are functioning due to the power of Atma. They are able to know all things. Some make an effort to see Paramatma (embodiment of light) as illumination, and light by closing their eyes. But Paramatma is not an object that can be seen with eye or imagined with mind. Whatever is seen by this eye is only an illusion, mithya. Hear the discussion between a Guru - disciple which reveals this aspect.

G: What is light to you?

D: Sun during day, lamp in the night.

G: To see that Sun, or the lamp what instrument do you have?

D: Eye

G: If you close your eyes, then what is light (instrument) to you?

D: Buddhi (intellect).

G: How to know that Buddhi?

D: by I myself.

G: Therefore you are that transcendental light! Self shining light!

D: Yes, Master! 'I' is the transcendental light, which is the light of all lights.

There is a disciple who has external vision which considers Sun and Moon as real lights. Guru step by step had to turn his vision inwards. That is why first eye is the light, then Buddhi is the light, and in the end got him to firmly believe that Atma is the real light. Jyothi (light, illumination) is that which can show everything else. All external things are illumined by lamp. Blind person can never see the lamp. One that illumines eye is Buddhi (intellect). And Buddhi is lit up by Atma. That is why mother of Vedas Gayatri declared that Buddhi is illuminated by Atma in the mantra “Dhiyo yo nah prachodayat”. Therefore, Light of all lights is Atma - Jneya (thing to be known) - indweller (knower of the field, kshetrajna). Atma is different from Tamas (darkness, ignorance). Tamas means darkness, ignorance, Avidya. Atma is contrary to all these, different from them. Tamas is darkness. Atma is self illuminated. There is no contact between Sun and darkness. Darkness cannot come to where Sun is. But Sun can come to where there is darkness, and can drive off darkness. Likewise there is no contact between Atma and ignorance. One who is in ignorance can never experience Atma. But Atma can drive off the ignorance. Field (kshetra) or world are mithya (illusory). Paramatma is beyond Maya, and ignorance. When the veil (avarana) of ignorance is removed, that itself is direct experience of Atma (Atma darshan). You closed your eyes, it is all darkness. But you are a witness of darkness, and you yourself are not darkness, isn't it! That is, you are beyond darkness. That is, you are self illuminating. You are the embodiment of Jnana (Jnana swarupa) that can know the ignorance, darkness (Ajnana). You are that light which can know darkness. You are different from darkness. Jnana means intelligence (telivi). Jneya means that which is to be known. Jnana gamyam means that which is to be attained by Jnana, intelligence. All three are Atma. Atma is Jnana. Make your mind understand this. The way I am patiently explaining to you, with that much patience make your mind understand. Mind will definitely listen to you!

166) Swami, what is the greatness of Atma Vidya ?

A Jnani is one enriched with entire good qualities. Jnani is Paramatma. Hence, Paramatma is Jnana. It means, among the things to know in the world no matter how many are known, it is of no use. That intelligence will get useless at one time or other. When? Once you know Jneya-vastu (that which is to be known), whatever is known till then becomes useless. Because worldly knowledge is not permanent (Anityam). That which is associated with an end. Hence, everything will become waste. One scientific investigator after doing many experiments found out new things. Then what is the use? Whatever is learned becomes wasted with death. On the other hand a Vedantin researched about Atma. Did not get to Atma Sakshatkar yet. Died. So whatever research he had done, does it go waste? Does not. In this life that Atma research - Jnana - sadhana all will be useful. If in this life Swa-Swarupa Jnana (Self-Knowledge) is attained, then no more birth - death. So for everyone what is to be known is Atma (Jneya). Once Atma is known then there is and will be nothing more to know. If it is known, then everything is known. This is the mystery in Prahlada's words "studied the mystery of all studies, father". Knowing Jneya-vastu, that which is to be known, is enough. There is no more to know. Vedantic secret in Vemana's words is this, "study study till death, study that which has no death". Study that has no death means the study that will free you from birth-death. That is Atma Vidya. It is also Brahma Vidya, therefore it is Paramatma that is to be known. Rest worldly Vidyas will not free you from death. That is, it will not remove birth-death cycle.

167) Swami, Where to have darshan (experience/ vision) of Atma ?

Jnana gamyam (goal of Jnana) is also Atma, Jneya-vastu (that which is to be known). Atma is to be attained by both, sadhana of Jnana, and with Atma Jnana (self knowledge), hence it is Jnana gamyam. Therefore, Jnana-Jneya-Jnana gamyam, all three are Atma. After all you need not be fearful as to where is this Atma to be attained (Jneya-vastu), and how far it is. It is in everyone's heart. It is in you also. Although Atma is everywhere but it has to be seen or experienced only in your heart. Lord Sri Rama as a baby saw the full moon and started crying for it insistently saying "I want it". Mother Kausalya did not know how to pacify him. Just at that time Sage Vasishtha who came there, got them to bring a mirror and showed the full moon in it. Likewise, omnipresent Paramatma has to be seen first in the heart only. We must get it reflected in purified Anthakarana (inner instrument). Just the way full moon is seen in mirror made out of earth elements, Atma must be experienced/seen in the Anthakarana made out of Maya. A cow has milk in its body, but must be taken only from the udder. Atma is everywhere, that experience must be attained only through the heart. There is a custom in Hindu Dharma. No matter which pilgrimage one goes, as soon as God's figurine is seen they close their eyes. In some religions they close their ears. Some raise their hands. Some look at the sky. But finally they reach there, they close their eyes. By the time they open their eyes guards pull them away from there. Why do they do that? Not that God (Paramatma) is somewhere in the sky, or some temple, but a faith that he is all pervading, and present as Atma form in your own heart. Therefore, the thought (bhava) is that by closing eyes one must have darshan in the heart, and not seeing with eyes open. Becoming inward focused is the highest meaning.

168) Swami, what is the convenient time to remember God ?

Who are superior (uttama) Yogis? Those who have completely immersed their mind in God are superior Yogis. There is no requirement of whether they are women, men, young, old, elders, scholars, or illiterate. One whose mind is in God is a Yogi, a Maha (great) Yogi. Ordinary folks keep their mind in the world, samsara. Yogis keep their mind in God. Mind is like a liquid. It takes the form of the container it is poured in. If poured into a tumbler takes that form, if poured into a cup takes the form of cup, if poured into a vessel takes vessel form. Likewise whichever object mind is placed on, it takes that form. If it gets into vishaya, takes the form of vishaya, if into God takes the form of God. In this manner mind must have place for God only. This is what "Mayya-vesya Manaha buddhi-hi" means. Till now we said mind must be in God. So when, it is not for sometime in a day, or a day in a week. Nityam nirantaram (all the time, ceaselessly) it must be in God. It is not real devotion, or real worship by remembering God as duty daily for one hour, or two hours. It is not Nitya Bhakti (constant devotion) to keep your mind in God when doing worship, when singing choir (bhajan), when doing Japa meditation, when sitting in a temple, or participating in satsangs like this, and rest of the time no remembrance of God. He is not a Nitya Yukta (constantly engaged). At all time in all circumstances must not let go remembrance of God. Actually God is never leaving you.

Whether sitting, lying down, sleeping, in bus, in flight, no matter what you are doing, he is located firmly in you. But, you for the worldly things, for worldly pleasures, are leaving him. It should not be like that. Pashyan, Shrunvan, Sprushan, Jignan, Gachhan, Swapan, Shwapan - seeing, hearing, eating, moving around, bringing, giving, getting up, sitting down, in all times all circumstances must have allegiance to God. Seeing God everywhere, contemplating on God ceaselessly is what Nitya Yuktha means. Such a devotee is supreme. A honey bee sucks the honey from flowers. A fly sits on sugar for sometime. It sits on garbage pile for sometime. The worm in cow dung is always in the piles of dung. In case if you bring it and put it among flowers it just dies. You like honey bees must always be engrossed in God. You should not land for sometime on God and for sometime on worldly vishaya (O, E, T). Do not know which second death will devour you, hence must do constant God contemplation. Then it will not be a problem no matter when death arrives. Therefore, a liberation seeker must always contemplate on God, remember/chant God's name. He is Nitya Yukta. He is the real devotee. And not "when sankat (problem) comes, Venkatramana (calling out for God)", like that when problems come, when desires are not fulfilled, when elections come, remembering God is not contemplation on God. A devotee's quality is constant contemplation of God. One might ask, What is the benefit of staying in God contemplation, remembrance of God all the time? Devotee will become God following the Bramari-kitaka Nyaya (maxim of wasp-insect). Jiva becomes God. Nara (human) becomes Narayan (God). Wasp puts the insect in a nest made out of soil. Makes a hole in that nest, while looking at the insect, it keeps pecking it. To escape from it that insect keeps on thinking, thinking, thinking about the wasp, in the end that insect becomes the wasp. This is Bramari-Kitaka Nyaya. Hence, a devotee must keep remembering God ceaselessly.

169) How to address the troubles in life, Swami?

In happiness filled life many obstacles, losses, troubles, sufferings are encountered. Taking then as life experiences, with patience put the burden on the God you have faith in, if able to fulfill your responsibility with Dharma, then whatever you come across will be joy, happiness. These you can experience. When nothing is permanent, would difficulties, sufferings stay permanently? If there is birth, then there is death. You are losing discrimination due to fear. No need to fear anything. Fear is only when mistakes are committed. You are responsible for your difficulties and happiness, isn't it. You have the destiny to enjoy and be happy, that is why you are subjected to difficulties and sufferings. Trees get dried out totally with all the leaves fallen off, they look like a stump, then in spring they beautifully come up with green growth and budding. When the leaves fell off they did not feel hurt, instead they felt happy that it will bloom again, and it did bloom. When you can face difficulties with courage, only then happiness will be yours. You might say, it is easy to say but hard to practice? Why this commentary? You know all the things. But when it comes to you personally, you lose the power to put into it practice. Between two people when for some small thing stubbornness develops, for huge conflict it may not stop at hitting each other, it can go to a peak level. If any one of them steps back, there will not be that much fury. This is what happens when we lose control. Later when they think about it, "Oh no. how much better it would have been if didn't do that way" and repent. Unable to think through and remain in that situation, they are resorting to suicide also.

170) Swami, Which are Anthakarnas, what is their effect?

Mind, Buddhi, Chitta (memory), Ahamkar (ego), these four things put together are called Antah Karanas (inner instruments) or subtle body. They stay in the form of Jiva and play a pivotal role in conducting life. But, such a subtle body is not visible to your eye. Those who have reached the state of Atma can estimate it. Subtle body is a transmutation of Prana Shakti. It means, everything is a reflection of Bhagawan (God). No doubt about it! In human body there are Indriyas (organs, senses), mind, Budhhi, and consciousness. If Indriya consciousness is more, there will be increased animal nature. Ari Shadvargas (six evil qualities) are exacerbated. Man gets limited to body and organs. If mind consciousness is higher, Ari Shadvargas are weakened, and humanity blossoms. When Buddhi consciousness is more, man possesses higher qualities like perception, discrimination, inquiry, analysis (vichakshan, vivechan, vicharan, vishleshan), gains an understanding of self, society, world, Nature (Prakriti), has an opportunity to fulfill his life spiritually. Mind consists of sankalp-vikalp (thought-uncertainty), buddhi based on the state of mind will have the decision making power. Chitta is an information center for past life, and lives experiences. All those are recorded in the form of samskars (vasanas, tendencies). Such a record keeps changing based on individuals. Therefore, every person surrounds himself with Ahamkar (ego), gets stuck in its boundaries, with "I am so and so" feeling, and lives in a nature of limitation. So, among such Antha Karanas there is no physical differences but, as intelligence/ wisdom (Prajna) gets diminished, Indriya consciousness increases. As it keeps expanding it changes into Buddhi consciousness. When limited, Ahamkar strengthens. By expanding it keeps melting away.

171) What is spirituality, Swami?

Spirituality means knowledge of Atma. To know about oneself. To know subtly what is in their inner being. To restore, transform oneself. To resurrect all kinds of deficiencies in oneself. If one knows about oneself entire cosmos is known. If one can analyze oneself, a clarity about life takes place. If one knows one's deficiencies, everyone else's deficiencies get known. If one's own mentality is understood, everyone else's mentality gets known. Currently the harmful aspect that is occurring in all of you is, you all are overthinking about others. You are exhaustively analyzing others. You are making effort to change others to your convenience. Recognize that it is very harmful. You are disregarding love. What is the essence of the teachings of God to you? What is the life you are living? Unable to practice as it is told, where does this misfortune come from? For by neglecting Dharma, Sathya, what is there to accomplish? Every person who moved farther from divinity, the dissatisfaction inside them reaches to peak heights. That is why you all are living in a state of confusion, chaos, and disorder. All this is not called higher journey. It is called transforming into lower journey. Lower journey occurs fast. Higher journey proceeds slower. Lower journey devours higher journey, no matter how much it is. Destroys lives. Therefore, to restrict it, individual maturity is a must for spiritual life. Only then those who are in your surroundings can stay peaceful. When? When you are peaceful. While increasing animal tendencies claiming that you are human, how does your conscience agree to it? You all who cannot restrict your intolerance how can you become sadhaks? The sweetness of the word mother you need to imbibe into every nerve of yours. All of woman's form is the very form of mother. To say it in one word, life must become a sadhana. Then one does not need to do sadhana separately. Purity your body from head to toe. If you can attain complete Jnana, you will get great results. After getting such results you must not divert your attention again to other aspects. Despite facing many obstacles, hurdles, difficulties, you must make an effort to overcome them, must attain them. Boat has to be taken to the shore. As sadhaks to control/ restrain mind, effort must keep on continuing.

revenge is like smoke. It surrounds you, it contains you.

172) Swami, How did physical world occur ?

Cosmos (Viswam) is infinite. There is no beginning - end. It consists of diversity, physicality, names and forms, animate and inanimate. All those evolved as part of the evolution. Changes occurring in the physical substances as physical evolution, changes in Jiva are known as Jiva evolution. In creation first physical evolution occurred. Subsequent to that Jiva thing occurred, from that Jivas arose, then Jiva evolution occurs. Among these two the physical evolution occurs very slowly, and Jiva evolution takes place very fast. Because, Jivas have birth-death, and pre-determined time limit is there. But, why should this evolution occur? Where does it get its inspiration/ instigation? What is the root cause for it? Think about this in terms of science and understand it. In creation nothing stays still. Ceaselessly changes occur. As a part of that, the Atma that is the support for the emergence of physical world also undergoes changes. When it is expanded, it is pure, firm, free of impurities. As it densifies, it will transmute as cosmic vibrational energy (Viswa Prana Shakti). It means it transmutes into Prana Shakti. It means, thought becomes Prana Shakti. Such a Prana Shakti subsequently transmutes into thinking power, energy. That is, thought is a transmutation of Prana Shakti. It cannot be seen by the eye. Hence, knowing its existence is very difficult. Such thought changes subtly into Sankalpa (resolve), or desire. Therefore Sankalpa is subtle. For such a Sankalpa to fulfill, it definitely needs a substance. In that manner, it creates a physical substance. But, how does that substance get manufactured? Due to transmutation of Prana Shakti sub atomic particles, combining the sub-atoms gives atoms, combining atoms gives rise to molecules, combining molecules gives substances, and due to them various forms and names get formed. But, no two sankalpas are alike therefore substances that emerge are not alike. That is why cosmos is filled with variety. If you discriminate carefully, all the visible substances in creation are transmutations of Sankalpa. A substance is needed till the Sankalpas are fulfilled. Once it is fulfilled the need for substance is not there. Therefore, it disintegrates, separates and mixes up into the five elements.

173) It is said Karmas to be performed with Nissangtva (detached) feeling, how to do that, Swami?

Water drops don't stay on a lotus leaf. Likewise, Karmas do not show any effect on a Yogi. Because, yogi does with an intellect that offers it to God, with disinterest in the results. Towards any person, any vishaya, any object, any action, getting feelings of like-dislike, association-disassociation, attachment-hate, the cause for them is the feeling of 'mine'. Because of ascribing 'mineness' (mamatvam) happiness-misery, victory-failure, gain-losses, these duality results show an effect on you. Therefore, Karmas must be done without 'mineness' intellect but with offering to God intellect, and with feeling that it is God's work. As an example, a person is working for a merchant. That employee does whatever work merchant asks him to do. All the work he does is for the sake of owner. That is why, whether the merchant makes money or loses, does not show any effect on the employee. Similarly the work you do is done with the feeling that is for God's sake, then the 'mineness' feeling does not arise towards those Karmas, no interest gets born towards the results, no matter what the results are they will not show any effect.

174) Swami, what transformation occurs through sadhana ?

I will say Yogis without 'mineness' intellect, discarding the desire for results, with intellect that offers to God, perform their Karmas. You might ask, actually what is the need for Yogis to perform work? Yogis discarding the desire for results, performs Karmas with body, mind, intellect, and organs for purity of mind (chitta shuddhi). Any spiritual sadhana usefulness is to attain purity of mind. For attaining sanctity of inner instrument (Antah Karana), for mind to be free of impurities. Therefore, systematic practice of Karma is for acquiring purity of mind. Just because clouds are in the sky one cannot say that there is no Sun, isn't it! Likewise, your chitta (mind) is covered with ignorance (Ajnana) you cannot say Paramatma is not inside you, isn't it! Like Sun shines when the clouds move away, the dirt or Ajnana covering up your inner instrument (Antah Karana) gets removed, darshan/ direct experience/ vision of Paramatma will occur. Every sadhak is making an effort for that purity of Antah Karana. That is the intent of all sadhaks, that is the purpose of all Yogis 175) What is the inner meaning of Maha Bharat, Swami?

Maha Bharat story of Kaurava-Pandavas when heard as a story, there will be enthusiasm and keen interest. But, when it is understood the right way as the story of Jiva in terms of higher Truth/ principle (Tatva Drishti), one can attain Jnana of one's own real nature (swa-swarupa jnana), and immortality. Story of Bharat tells primarily about the order/system of Jiva, and a sadhak. In the battle of life Jiva after getting born in 8.4 million wombs, in the end gets born as human; in many forms and in what way the enemies of desire behave that even Jiva cannot recognize; how they are throwing him into bondage of samsara; how is the discrimination between Dharma-Adharma; how is the tatvam (Truth, Reality) outlook; how does the battle for liberation for a sadhak proceeds; how to recognize and destroy the desire enemies by a Jiva; how God charioteers a sadhakall these things that are needed for man whether man wants or not, recognizes or not, but are clearly revealed in Maha Bharat. By comparing it to the story of Kshatriyas (warrior class), reminding the sadhana duty of the man who is the battle warrior of liberation sadhana, guiding him to alter his life path, to turn away from the desire enemies, Maha Bharat is revealing this to all without any distinction of race, religion. The narrative where a Jiva, who is journeying from time immemorial becoming human, and get transformed into Madhava (God) by the eternal path that is and will always be the truth, is revealed in this epic. Due to the merit acquired with effort in the past, obtains human birth, unable to break away the desires with the little Dharma that he believes, unable to mitigate suffering, he remains in the state of body identification (Dehatma bhava). Like this in many lives, gets carried away in the currents of samsara, after a long time seeks shelter of Madhava (God) in his heart. Asks for the way to end the suffering of samsara. Madhava, does not mean the husband of goddess Lakshmi. 'Ma' means Prakriti (nature). Lord of Prakriti is Madhava. By overcoming his Prakriti (nature), the higher goal man has to attain is Madhavatvam (state of Lord of Prakriti). That is Madhava. Hence, the outlook of higher Truth is required. To behave like that is Tatva Drishti. Any ordinary person gets deservedness for sadhana if they have desire to know spiritual Truth. The harmony between Pandavas birth and higher Truth/ principle is as follows:

Dharma Raj:- Lord Yama is devata (demigod) of Dharma. Lord Yama Dharma raj has the discrimination/ understanding of which Jivi out of all the living beings from the wombs of 1.84 million species is born to perform Dharma to what measure and structure. Discrimination between Dharma-Adharma is natural characteristic of Lord Yama. With that discrimination he punishes those behaving contrary to Dharma, and reveals the fault. Hence, Dharma Raj's role is the opportunity to enquire into the discrimination between Dharma-Adharma.

Bheem:- Bheem was born due to the boon of Vayu, Air. It means Bheem has constituent of air. Air is not visible to eye, motionless, and pervades everywhere. Due to the rotation of Earth, Air gets movement. When pressure is reduced, it moves whichever way it finds. Based on circumstance, sometimes somewhere due to air depression it moves very fast and forcefully. It destroys anything in its way. Likewise a sadhak's firmness, their inner characteristic is not visible in their organs. In firm condition, it stays stable. It stays without having to roam about in vishaya. In anything if strength of sadhana is diminished, right away creates movement and spreads. If it is a vishaya, that is detrimental, it spreads to destroy leaving no trace of name and form. It means, the firmness aspect of sadhana in a sadhak, is Bheem's role.

Arjun:- Arjun is born due to a boon from Lord Indra. Indra's unique characteristic is his weapon Thunderbolt (Vajra Ayudh). In the world there is nothing harder/ scratch resistant than a Vajra (diamond). There is no turning back for Vajra Ayudh but to charge ahead and destroy the enemy. Likewise, a sadhak must proceed ahead with Jnana that is sharp and hard like a diamond. A sadhak that does sadhana with great speed, without turning back, this hardness in sadhana is Arjun's role.

Nakul, Sahadev:- Skill, Experience. Ashwini Devatas (demigods) give medical care to Devatas (demigods). In sadhana, stepping back is one great disease by itself. To escape it, importantly two treatments are needed for being able to stay on with sadhana. 1) Skill/ resourcefulness 2) Experience. Both of these are right treatments for not declining in sadhana. Nakul has a Vidya (knowledge). While traveling on a chariot if it rains heavily, he can rotate his sword like a disc horizontally and can travel without having a drop of rain fall on him. Likewise, a sadhak in his wealth of four fold sadhana (sadhana chatushtaya), attaining some of their aspects and using them as weapons for his sadhana, the sadhana aspect of staying firmly in his place is the role of Nakul. Yukti (skill) becomes treatment for not being able to understand in above manner. Sahadev has scholarship (pandityam). In worldly way scholarship in anything means experience in applying discrimination, with that experience solutions can be found for issues in respective fields. Therefore, experience in the spiritual sadhana becomes treatment procedure for spiritual sadhana. The sadhana aspect called experience in sadhana of a sadhak, is the role of Sahadev. All the pandavas were bound to the word of their eldest brother Dharma Raj. This indicates the principle that the sadhana aspects are bound to Dharma-Adharma discrimination. In the battle of attaining liberation, killing all of their desire enemies, winning their worlds, remaining alone with their sadhana aspects, is indicated by only five Pandavas remaining after the battle. This is merger for sadhak (Kaivalyam). A state where Sadhak remains alone.

176) How do bad qualities affect the Jiva, Swami?

Every human has desire, anger, greed, and attachment. These arise only from the body. Because of this desire, this wish, Ramayan epic taught you a good lesson. What did it teach? Ravan was a great devotee, ascetic, and had enormous wealth. He was powerful, skillful. He had a lot of physical strength, intellectual strength, strength of prosperity. Despite having everything, due to submitting to the desire/ lust he lost entirely. He totally destroyed his kingdom. Therefore, desire/ lust is not good for anyone. Second is anger. Hiranyakasipu is a great scientist in the world. He went not only to lunar sphere (chandra-mandal) but also to solar sphere (Surya-mandal). He travelled all the mandalas (spheres). He took possession of the five great elements (pancha-bhutas). In such a person due to increase in anger, he got destroyed. Not on others, but his anger was against God. In the end, became totally destroyed. Now Greed. Despite taking such a huge kingdom, Duryodhan rejected saying he will not even give land the size of the end of a needle to Pandavas. As a result, that Duryodhan along with his entire family got destroyed. Therefore, to highlight the perils for desire/ lust Ramayan, for anger Bhagavatam, for greed Maha Bharat. You are reading Ramayan. Reading in itself is not enough. You must get rid of the desiring nature. Must gain faith in Rama nature (Rama tatvam). Only then your life will be happy. Only reading Ramayan is not enough. Must realize the inner meaning in it. The bad quality in Ramayan is desire/ lust. Becoming a slave to this desire the powerful Ravan was totally demolished. Therefore, Ramayan parayan (reading/ studying) must get rid of the desire in each of us. With Bhagavat parayan anger must be removed. Hiranya-kasipu due to anger while getting his own son trampled by elephants, the boy says Narayan, Narayan (God). Elephants turn into Narayan. Likewise, poisonous snakes, mountains become Narayan. 'Yad-bhavam Tad-bhavathi' ('as is the thought, so is the experience'). Whichever feeling/imagination you increase, God takes the form of that thought/ imagination (Bhava Swarupa). Now Greed. Duryodhan, Dusshasan did all kinds of terrible things due to this greed. In the tail end, faced so many troubles/ suffering. Prosperity, riches, valor all disappeared. In the end five Pandavas called Sathya (Truth), Dharma, Shanti (peace), Prema (love), Ahimsa (nonviolence) attained victory. Hence when good qualities are increased they will always be victorious. Failure/ defeat will not approach you. Fill yourself with love. Fill hands with sacrifice. For hands sacrifice is the adornment. For speech Truth is the adornment.

177) Swami, what transformation occurs through sadhana ?

To honor Jnanis, Tatva darshis (those who experienced the Truth principle), God devotees, great renunciates (yogis) and respecting them is your tradition. That is why, when great people come to your home you respect them by washing their feet, sprinkle that water on your head, give them offerings, and hospitality. "Abhyagati-hi swayam vishnu, Athidhi devobhava" verse indicates this very truth. When honoring holy and wise, if additional devotion is shown, you will get joy, peace, happiness. Because of their visitation that day gets sanctified. Due to that your sins, anxieties diminish. You will be enriched. At the feet of holy and wise you must keep your mind peaceful. You will get lot of satisfaction. The day holy and wise come spend the day with happiness and enthusiasm, celebrate just like the festival days of Dushera, and Deepavali. Bad company is not good, but company of the holy and wise is good. Contact and connections with Mahatmas (great Atmas) becomes a path to goodness. Company of holy people is not for worldly things, instead, for enquiry of spiritual truths, seeking their shelter for acquiring Jnana, through them learning about the higher truths one is seeking, all of which leads to good. Satsang (company of holy and wise) is like a wish fulfilling tree. It fulfills the desires both worldly and beyond, transcendental. Teachings and moral advice given by Mahatmas, like rain of nectar, will remove your anxieties, sorrows in a moment. That is why, Satsang is very necessary for every person. You must get the proximity of great people, holy people. Due to that your bondage with worldly reduces slowly. Because of that you will become Nissang (no bondages). It means you will transcend the bondages and relationships. Due to Nissang which is conducive to reach a higher state of beyond 'I' and 'mine', if attachment and strong desire for persons, objects, wealth, gold, properties/ vehicles are there, it helps in destroying them. In this manner the attachment to worldly things, that is a yearning to possess them dies, and one becomes a Jivan Muktha. A dacoit called Ratnakar, by getting the nearness of Spatha Maharshi (seven great sages), got initiated into Rama Mantra, transformed into Valmiki Maharshi, wrote the great epic Ramayan. A murderer named Angulimal with visitation of Gautama Buddha, turned into a great saint. Take current Avatar Sathya Sai. Due to the company of Swami's devotees, those who did not give a fistful food to their own father, today are participating in daily Narayan Seva (feeding the poor). Those not used to remembering Hari (God), are participating in daily recitation of God's name, and Nagar Sankirtan (going around town chanting the name of God, in the morning everyday). Those unfamiliar to philanthropy, are participating in selfless activities. Giving donations. All these is the effect of the company of holy and wise!

178) So how does the yearning and resolve to get Sajjan Sangat (company of holy and wise) occur, Swami ?

Perform every activity with attitude of offering it to God. Every action you do, every word you speak, every thought cannot escape his scrutiny. He is a witness to everything. If you have the awareness that he is looking over you every second, you will always be remembering Hari's name, and get the company of the holy who are constantly engaged in service of God. With the miraculous effect of Sajjan Sangat, you will get closer to God. When you touch a flower that is emanating fragrance, your hand will get that smell too, isn't it. Do not forget that. I might not know all this, but all I know is one. I know only one naked truth. That is the only onethat is faith, confidence. That is what is making this life function now, forever, for sure, that is truth of all truths!

Lord of millions of universes, a mine of infinite prosperities.
pervading every atom in creation, in every living Jivi and motionless inert, that divinity pervading infinite cosmos what can you give? how will you serve that infinite power? when he is everything, what can you offer him?
only with your mind, intellect, Atma, get dedicated to that Lord of Cosmos meditating with great devotion, with blessings of your Gurudeva this Anjaneya, with infinite devotion, till your last breath, hanging onto valuable truth, walk towards the highest goal

179) Which wealth is greater than all the wealths, Swami ?

You have to remember one thing. Seeing the people with excessive worldly wealth, rest of them might feel envy, jealousy, or might feel bad that they did not have. You are not viewing and feeling that the wealth of Jnana is greater than the physical wealth. Whatever I said above, viewing on the surface, people do not get jealous. Some may get jealous looking at the wealth of Jnana, there is one other wealth even greater. No human gets jealous seeing that wealth. They do not feel bad that they do not have that wealth. That is Sheela Sampada (wealth of character). That is the greatest of all good fortunes. It walks you towards Satyam (Truth), it removes the layers of ignorance and can shine the lights of Jnana. Without enhancing his wealth of Gunas, without the goal of liberation, man cannot restrain the inner forces, cannot attain complete peace. Man's happiness is not dependent on how much recognition he got in society? How much employment and sustenance he created for others? How many are under his supervision? How much name and fame did he earn? How much wealth he accumulated?

Two persons with equivalent amount of wealth came to a Sadhu (a holy man). During conversation they mentioned that they are wealthy at about same level. Right away that Sadhu points to one person to the other and says "No, no. This man is richer than you." Then both said "No swami ji, both of us have equal amount of wealth". Then Sadhu said "you might have equal amount of physical wealth. But, he has the quality of charity, compassion more than you do. Hence this person is more wealthy than you.". Those who attained everything, because they have to do something, they do, but in fact they do not think about why they are doing that, what real contentment, satisfaction, and happiness are they getting?

180) Is performance of Karma an obstacle to attain bliss, Swami ?

Now a days when you look at anyone, each one is immersed in constant activity. Everyone is engaged in work (because they cannot stay without engaging), they think that they need to keep themselves happy. It is very difficult to restrain mind without work hence, they say they are deploying themselves in some work, those who do not have right qualifications for attainment are engaging in meditation, spirituality. One should not leave Karma suddenly all at once. There is a danger of losing control on mind completely. In reality those who accomplished attainment (siddhi) become passive people (nish-kriya). They don't need work to get happiness. It does not mean they don't do work. Their happiness is not dependent on work. Those to whom happiness becomes self-determined (bliss), from that self-determined happiness (bliss), they do work to the degree desired, they are complete humans (paripoorna manushyu). Rest of all are invariably engaged in work, or engaging themselves in work. Those who belong to the second category get happiness based on destiny/ luck (adrushtam).

181) How and what is wealth of Gunas (Guna Sampada), Swami ?

For Siddhi (attainment), for state of passivity (Karya Rahita stithi), the spiritual processes available are the one's I taught Raja Yoga, Karma Yoga, Bhakti Yoga, and Jnana Yoga. All the yogas in the Sanathan (eternal) Dharma, I am dividing them into four and giving it to you. Whether man realizes or not, you should always remember that only the wealth of good qualities (Gunas) attracts God's attention. Today the attention is all on the body, thinking beauty means that which is externally visible, are not even putting an iota of attention to enhance the internal beauty (of gunas). It does not count much to have physical beauty without the beauty of Gunas. Except for those who lack awareness, it does not even feel like beauty for the rest of them. Hence, realize that all your effort is to enhance the richness of good qualities and become wealthy - make even the demi-gods jealous !

182) What is it that we need to learn from epic Ramayan, Swami ?

When there are people who criticize, slander, abuse someone like Sri Rama, an Avatar, to think that no one will criticize you is your naiveness. To strive for being recognized as a good person by all is a sign of lack of discrimination. But, just because personalities like Manthara, Ravan considered Lord Rama as a bad character, he never lost his mental equanimity. Therefore, recognizing that there are going to be critics, someone or other, must practice not to lose one's mental peace. Sri Rama moved about in harmony with forest dwellers, Rishis (sages), demi-Gods (devatas), wildlife. In the end, even with restless monkeys he could utilize them capably. But, many among you cannot work harmoniously, and cannot get others to work. One needs to learn from Sri Rama about how while staying alone among others, to live harmoniously with them. When Kausalya was pregnant king Dasharath said "If you have any desires, let me know I will fulfill them". She replied "Lord! I do not have any desires. I am very contented now, am in bliss". Likewise, in the happiness of Rama being born she tried to give a chain of gems to her maid servant. Then that maid servant said "Mother! I do not want any jewelry. Just give me the permission to pick up that child shining with divine luster for a minute." Based on this understand that in the presence of Paramatma, while contemplating on him, they do not have any interest in worldly desires, or delight in wealth/ riches. Likewise, when mother Sita was in the forest she considered darbha grass bedding as the royal bed, roots and tubers as the royal delicacies, Panchavati (that part of the forest) as the inner quarters of the royal palace and felt contented. Because of the close proximity of Sri Rama the difficulties faced in forest did not feel like difficulties to her. Like this after spending 13 years in the forest happily, mother Sita had to face troubles for 1 year. The cause was, although she was enjoying the presence of Sri Rama, her mind desired the golden deer i.e. it turned towards worldly vishaya (objects). Similar to the way mother Sita felt the forest dwelling as royal palace in the presence of Rama, the day you engage in constant remembrance and contemplation of Paramatma, the troubling circumstances that you face will not affect you. When mind turns from Paramatma to world, from then on your troubles begin. Due to mother Sita desiring the golden deer, while making effort for it she got separated from Rama. Likewise, if you open your list of desires in front of God, in the process of fulfilling those desires he gets farther away from you. Therefore, you must decide whether you want the presence of Paramatma that gives bliss, or you want the worldly things which brings suffering. A drop of poison like Manthara was enough, Kaikeyi's mind pure like milk turned poisonous. Ravan's mind which was like a poisonous container despite putting in drops of milk like Mandodhari, Marichi, Vibheeshan, the effect was shoonya (void). Hence must stay away from evil like Manthara. Must recognize that transforming someone evil like Ravan is extremely difficult. Manthara's words lit up the jealousy-hate in Kaikeyi due to which Ayodhya kingdom turned upside down. Shurpanakha's words were like pouring ghee into the fire of Ravan's desire/lust/anger, due to which Lanka city got destroyed. That is why, when you do not fall into jealousy-hate, desire-anger, and can stay tranquil, unaffected, then you can lead an ideal life like Sri Rama. Only then your lives become meaningful, means attained the fulfillment of human life!

183) What kind of broader outlook we need to have, Swami ?

Death is the great equalizer. You are coming into this world empty handed, if you remember that empty handed you will have to go then victory is yours, can stay away from feelings of failure. Two are diverse experiences. See how quickly you can learn lessons from diverse experiences. Cause for not feeling satisfied with what you have is, not knowing that heart is more useful than intellect in the process of digging the mine called bliss and obtaining diamonds. Making others as part of you, every person attaining samskars, spiritual values, maturity of heart, feeling that there are no others, make the effort to make everyone a partner, they not only be able to restrain their feelings-emotions but will grow into the state of universal love. Love will lead to peace and happiness. There are no others in this world. All are yours. Must make an effort to make the entire world as yours. That is why, you must participate in service activities. Must experience the happiness derived from selfless service. Maturity of heart must become its usefulness. Must always remember that one is a part of all and all are a part of one. Becoming identified with body, one should not forget the oneness of Atma. Otherwise selfishness keeps rising. The wealth that you possess is not yours, it belongs to God. You are just a doer of Dharma. One must have a strong belief that for the benevolence of the world God is using one as an instrument only, and as a part of the process God has accumulated that much wealth in you. If money accumulates more than your needs, one must feel that it is an opportunity for performing Seva to others, must be used for helping poor, afflicted, and not for wanting to use it for themselves, their family members thinking that it is their hard earned money. You are not owners of anything in this world. Think that what you have has come to you due to God's grace, assist those who are suffering and hunger stricken. Contrarily if you wish to enjoy it yourself, Prakriti will not let you. You will get farther from God if you wish to use all that is accumulated for your body or for two or three who are related to that body. If accumulation is a result of hard work, there are many in the world who are doing hard work. But, all of them are not becoming wealthy, isn't it? It is not appropriate to disrespect, or disregard fellow beings by thinking that your wealth is due to your hard work. Every person has a societal responsibility. As your social and economic status keeps improving, your responsibility keeps increasing. If you are forgetting or neglecting that responsibility, it means your heart is shrinking. Heart is the abode of God. An example of entire power/ energy. This abode must not weaken. This center becoming weak becomes cause for many mental and physical ailments. So will you, by doing seva, gaining maturity of heart by giving love, make the effort to attain fulfillment of life?

don't know how to glue them, don't keep tearing them

184) How to get the experience of Omnipresent God, Swami ?

God (Paramatma) is subtler than subtlest, Omnipresent (Sarva Vyapak). In fact there is no second thing different than Paramatma. "Ekam-eva-dvayam Brahma-nehana Nasthi Kinchana". All that is one and only Brahman (Paramatma), there is no second other than that even a little bit. If you were to ask, then the Brahman pervading everywhere why is not being seen? Akasha (space) that is everywhere why are we not able to see? It is fault of the intellect (Buddhi). One that is subtler than subtlest is not visible to the gross sight (eye). You are realizing the space because of sound (vibration). True, you are able to know. Because Akasha has the characteristic of sound which is why you are able to know. But, Paramatma is Guna Rahita means free of characteristics. Hence, cannot be known with eye, mind, or buddhi. If the question arises, then with what are we to know God. God must be known with Buddhi. Although one must remove the contamination, faults in the Buddhi, then one can know with that pure Buddhi. If you were to ask, what is the fault in Buddhi? It is worldly vishaya vasana (worldly tendencies). Because of them Buddhi became gross. When it is made subtle, not just the surface level body and mind, but one gains the skill to have 'darshan' of Atma which is the basis for those. Then whoever is seen will be 'seen' as Atma, Self. All living beings will be 'seen' in Atma. Like this who 'sees' Paramatma everywhere, will get the experience that they themselves are Paramatma. In that case how can one be separate from the Paramatma? How will Paramatma be separate than oneself? There is only one. This is merger in Paramatma, this is Sakshatkar. You are a doctor. To take part in a drama, you practiced with your friends. Your role in that of a female. You played that part very well and shined. Walking like a woman, displaying the demeanor and feelings of a woman, you played very well forgetting that you are a doctor. After the drama is over you took off your makeup. The woman that was on the stage till then, is she different from you? No. If anyone asks, you will say that woman is I. It means there is no difference between you - and that woman. If anything, only difference is in the makeup. In the same manner, God with the Maya called Ahamkar (makeup), is living in this drama called wheel of samsara as Jiva. Forgetting that he is God, with all the sorrows, fears, sufferings is bouncing up and down. Due to the proximity of great holy ones, by knowing scriptures, one must make intense effort to know who one is and to stay that way. This is Dhyana yoga. Removing the Maya called Ahamkar through that Yoga, removing the makeup called notion of Jiva, remains in one's own true state/ identity as God. If you were to say, then is there a difference between God and the one who is Jiva till now? There is none. That Jiva is God, this God is the then Jiva. There are no two now, one only is. That one is God, Paramatma. One is that - Tat (Paramatma). Tat, Tvam are one 'Asi'. 'Asi' means one ('I') who is in all living beings, whosoever 'sees' Atma in oneness, that one no matter how they move about, they are operating in me.

185) What is the need and greatness of Prayer, Swami ?

Without using the words 'I' and 'my' to communicate personal experiences is quite difficult. Even personal experiences in the end will change into spiritual experiences. Personal life also becomes no longer personal. Those who lost their feeling of individuality are lucky ones. They become recipients of God's blessings. In such people a high very elevated illuminating state resides. Before starting to share your spiritual experiences, first Bhakti and respect needs to be expressed for cosmic peace prayers. It helps you a great deal even from your childhood. Every time such prayers are uttered that fills you with happiness, divine feeling, ecstasy, it makes you experience the presence of Paramatma pervading you, and Easwar who is inherent in every atom filling your body. Every time you do the cosmic peace prayer you will get same experience. When you do the cosmic peace prayer, or any other prayer that appeals to your heart, or when you do spiritual prayers, you might/ you will get such divine experiences. This will assist you in reaching to the nearness of God.

186) Why must we undertake sacred vows (Diksha), Swami ?

No one should view prayers, fasting (upavas), meditation as distinct from each other. In the vow of fasting a sadhak must pray for freedom from Ahamkar (ego). Due to that, one must observe the improvement of health in the body, maturity in Buddhi, and peace in the heart. Many people often fast only when their health is not well. Instead of doing upvasa for physical gain, for health, for long life, you must do it for the God who is Omnipresent. Through peace prayer must attain experience of bliss, equanimity (nischal stithi) and peace.

187) What is 'getting closer to God' ? How is that possible, Swami ?

You must experience God's divine experience both inside you and outside. One can attain them while being silent. At that time it could be fasting, or could be feasting. Such holy feelings are immortal. Such great experiences, divine experiences, divine perceptions cannot be expressed in words, not possible to express. In what way can you describe the sweetness of sugar? That is known only when you experience it. How is it possible for anyone to describe the grandness of God's glory with limited language, and limited intellect? Would it ever be possible? Hence you must make effort to know Brahman. Must make the effort to know the Parameswar (God) in whom the brilliance of million Suns is present as self-evident illumination. Not only the Ahamkar that seemed grand till then, but also the great world, all disappears. All the vishaya vasanas (senses) that keep roaming outside turn inwards. One pointedness in Buddhi is attained. Thought process gets firmer. Freedom from ego (Ahamkar) occurs. Crossing all states, the truth seeker floating in bliss travels in that state, and in the end has to engage in silence. When these kind of spiritual message experiences are related, a lot among you may get disheartened. Such people would have interest in Atindriya shaktis - powers beyond senses. They imagine spiritual experiences are things like - attaining clairvoyance (doora drushti), able to communicate with people far away or not alive anymore, seeing strange lights, illuminations or hearing holy utterances of mantras, hearing musical sounds. But, I am thinking that for real seekers of Truth I must tell them facts, truths. Such kind of beliefs might occur to sadhaks who are at a lower spiritual state, or to those who have reached a higher state. But, there is state of duality in this. Duality is an indicator of Ajnana (ignorance). Last goal of all spiritual experiences is attaining God's divine experience, know and recognize the existence of Paramatma. This must be recognized first. When you are doing a work, or in prayer, or in meditation, or while talking, or in complete silence, what you need to know is - doing work itself is knowing God, worshipping God, experience of Paramatma or non dual silence (advitiya mounam), which is the highest state among all. But, do not forget the goal with all kinds of work. While living, when that divine light is still shining in you, you must make the effort to reach your real goal. Then people will become free. Individuality will no longer be a specific individuality. In a way 'becoming' is not the right word. Because, in fact individuals can never become free or cosmic. There is only one. That stays ever. It is the cosmic energy that is invisible to the eye. Individuals can know it, recognize it or perceive it. The Jiva who perceives will turn into Brahman. May you constantly be immersed in the grandness of the contemplation of supreme principle that is beyond thoughts (bhavateetha ateetha tatvika chintana). It is transcendental to senses, buddhi, discrimination, ahamkar (ego), time, and causation. With your thoughts, with buddhi that is limited by your outlook, you must understand that all the visions perceived only by the senses are an illusion, like a mirage in the desert. When you are happy, and contented, only then you will have the experience and understanding of peace.

188) Swami, In what way bondages are obstacles to spiritual progress ?

How can a person who is in bondage attain freedom? Think about it. Whatever is said, thought, and did from completeness (poornatvam) it gives energy. Does not generate bondages. All occurrences from limitedness diminish energy. How will it be when you think you are same with everyone, and equal to everything? How will it be when you think less than some, and more than some others? More means feeling of superiority, less means inferiority feeling occurs. Those two are harmful. Less more are all reflections of diversity. When felt everything is equal, equal vision/ equanimity develops. That becomes the royal road to Samadhi. If someone else is thought to be more than you, or less than you that becomes diverse view/ vision. Energy is depleted through diversity vision/ view. Equal vision increases energy. This is called state of Avadhuta. Important purpose of spirituality is to live in bliss (Ananda). In fact what is Ananda? Ananda means state of Atma. It is not something to be seen, define, describe, or proven. If someone says I am happy, that is not bliss at all. Bliss will come into experience when one transcends body, senses, mind, and buddhi boundaries. If one reaches the state of experiencing bliss, then the body is no longer there. In case if you ask, without body how will it have life, society, Prakriti? This is the key aspect of worshipping formless, without Gunas. Although reaching that state is quite difficult, but making teachings of Anjaneya as basis, if a clear understanding is gained of the physical worlds's nature and personality (swarupa, swabhava) then that state can be attained. Therefore, individual is not important. Even the principle is not important either. State of inner being is important. When you know yourself, then you will know about everyone, everything. If you keep thinking about others, their every movement becomes lodged in hidden form as samskars giving rise to attachment-hate. No matter what or which information about the world, they are all reflections of Maya. It only pollutes one's inside and does not give freedom. There is no other greater ignorance than collecting constantly changing illusory (Mithya) duality related unnecessary information. As long as bondages exist, there is no chance of freedom. The root cause for such bondages is unnecessary information about the physical (awake) world. No matter how great is the path adopted, one must be alert about the way one practices. If the way of practice is not right, not only devoid of good results, but there is a chance of incurring loss. If one person's form gets lodged strongly inside, getting rid of it is very difficult. Relationships with individuals are obstacles to freedom. Therefore, for individuality to blossom, entire samskars in one's inside must be completely melted away. Any kind of sadhana is harmful when one is in the notion of me, my family is important. Those who lead spiritual life are in the expanded feelings of cosmic inclusion, therefore the inside gets completely cleansed. If samskars related to Rajo, Tamo gunas are inside, they become obstacles to the feelings of cosmic inclusion. For that, one must get rid of personal relationships completely. Only then there is the opportunity of completely merging into the cosmos. For that, one must eclipse the body, mind, senses, and buddhi boundaries and reach the Atmic state. Currently your ways are to strengthen your mental limitations/ boundaries, hence you are unable to attain the completeness in your personality. In the process of knowing oneself entire cosmos gets known. Without knowing oneself if effort is made to know others, bondages get strengthened and become obstacles to freedom. Because, it is very easy to develop bondages - but to get rid of them is very difficult. Therefore, attain complete Jnana, acquire perfection in personality, and make your lives blissful, this is what Anjaneya is wishing with thought word deed, make him happy my sweet little children!

189) What gain is accrued by restraining speech, Swami?

Chains of gems shining like moon necklace, shower gels, flowers, hair ornaments, none of these can give real beauty to human. Only beautifully refined speech is the ornament to man. Even if all the ornaments perish, even after body perishes, word stays alive. Then, where did such power come to speech? if one asks why does God's speech has so much power? because sacred feeling, and universal love are blooming in God. Therefore, there is that much great power to the speech. Likewise, make your speech, mind as one. It means, to be without deceit. Then truth in itself will come to fruition. Mahatma's words have extra-ordinary power. Speech uttered by them literally comes true. Likewise my word become alive, powerful and penetrate the depths of your hearts. The first door to Yoga is restraint of - speech (Vak-nirodham), untruthful speech, harsh speech, disconnected speech, speech that will generate misgivings between two people - by not doing these, wasteful gabble is restrained. Speaking sparingly gives control on speech. Purity of speech occurs by frequently taking vow of silence, and satsangs. Speech gains strength from purity of speech, and mental purity.

190) In what way does Japa chanting helpful for sacred living, Swami?

To think that one gets degraded or becomes unholy by seeing or touching desecration, impurity, is a great obstacle to sadhana. Purity and impurity is all in your mind, mind mayas' only. Those who lead a pure life whether they pray to God or not, they make quick progress towards God. Those who are embedded into the worldly morass even if they try to remember God, it is impossible for them to get freedom from bondage (bandha vimukthi). Man is constantly engulfed in Ari Shadvargas - desire, anger, greed, attachment, pride, jealousy. Thoughts get contaminated due to their effect. Life journey becomes disorderly, upside down. To get out of that such unbearable circumstances and for altering the way of thinking, Japa (chanting the name of preferred deity, or mantra) and Dhyana (meditation) are a good solutions. If you ask, How to overcome desire? I am stressing that where there is God's name, there is no place for desire and there will not be. Once mind gets habituated to chanting God's name, there is no chance for desire tendencies to arise in the mind. You might get additional doubts. It may be possible while awake, but while sleeping desires arise in the form of 'dreams' then where is the protection? God's name will protect you from such kind of perils also. If God's name is chanted correctly, its power will protect while sleeping also. Those who know how to utter God's name they do not leave it day and night. Then just like breathing, digestion, name chanting (japa) continues while sleeping also. Efficacy of chanting the name restricts the dreams. It keeps body, and mind pure. In case if any dreams arise, power of the Japa wakes up the sadhak right away. Protects day and night. Bad thoughts take man into degradation. To escape from those and to purify those thoughts, one must develop the love principle. Be in the company of holy and good. Then one becomes purified. Only they can get closer to Paramatma.

do not veil with illusion that this body, mind are permanent with body's friendship you got ready to be bound to the rent this is not your own home, owner is Paramatma the day you get evacuation notice, have to vacate same day how strange! drama of in-between wealth for few days delight why the arrogance, why the show-off?

mental inquiry on steps of greatness spreading Jnana fragrances 191) How to know nothing sticks to Atma, Swami ?

It is enough to say "Atma, although it is in the body, it does not do Karma (activity), does not get stuck with the pollution of Karma. Atma is not a doer of Karma hence does not attain the result of Karma, or pollution of Karma". But, anyone might get the doubt saying, "this body is constantly doing some activity or other, isn't it! Every time karma is done the karma results sticking to the body is unavoidable. How can the contamination not stick to the Atma that is spread everywhere in the body?" Because, everyday we pour water into a vessel, put it on the stove and heat it up. Vessel gets heated up. Due to that the water in the vessel heats up too. Hence the doubt, the contamination that sticks to the body, would it not stick to the Atma in the body? To explain and clarify the doubt, Akasha (space) can be taken as an example. There are some close resemblances between Atma and Aksasha. What are they? Atma is subtler than subtlest. Akasha is subtler than other Pancha Bhutas (air, fire, water, earth). There is nothing else more subtler than that. But, the reason for Akasha as the example, there is a close resemblance to both. Atma is all pervading - Akasha is also all pervading. Hence Akasha is not in gross substances. Atma is imperceivable by senses - Akasha is also imperceivable. Except for sound there is no other way to know Atma. Atma is immovable - Akasha is also immovable. Now if Akasha is shown that no contamination sticks to it, then Atma is proved unequivocally that no contamination sticks to it. Akasha pervades everywhere and gives opportunity to everything. There is air in Akasha, there is fire, there is water, and there is earth in Akasha. When air is moving wildly and furiously, Akasha is unmoved. When fire is burning as an inferno, Akasha does not burn. When there is torrential rainfall, Akasha does not get wet. When dust storms occur, Akasha does not get dusty. When there is smell of jasmine in the air, or unbearable stench, does not touch Akasha. No smell sticks to it. Thunderstorms occur, lightnings strike in Akasha. Enormous thunderous sounds are heard. Even then, Akasha stays as nothing happened to it, has no relationship to them, and stays as it always did. If a murder occurs, land is soaked in blood. Yet, Akasha has no stains. Many birds travel in Akasha. But none of their foot nails or wings leave any impression in Akasha. Nothing sticks to it. Therefore this Akasha while giving opportunity to all, pervading in everything yet stays untouched by any of the faults in Gunas of those things. Because, Akasha is subtle, grosser things cannot show their effects on subtler things. Akasha is subtle therefore, none of the markings, impressions, beatings of gross substances show up on Akasha. Now if this is the circumstance of Akasha relative to the gross substance, in what way we can enumerate Atma that is more subtler than Akasha and is in and pervading all, including gross substances (plus Akasha)? No dirt or faults stick to Atma. No matter which body it is in, it stays without touching (Asang), Atma is Asang to that body's activities and contamination. Whether in the body of demi-gods, in human bodies, animal, bird, bug, insect bodies, their good-bad, and faults in their Gunas do not touch or stick to Atma. Faults in body, mind, buddhi, hot-cold, happiness-suffering, such contaminations do not touch/ stick to Atma. Therefore, you are Atma and hence you are not the body. So, vasanas, results of karmas and such faults/ contamination do not touch/ stick to you. You are Asanga. Pure. One who feels "I am this body" Ajnana (ignorance) suffers due to contamination/ pollution of the body. Gets born again and again, and undergoes the results of Karma. A Jnani who recognizes "I am Atma" and stays as that Atma, the body contamination/ dirt does not stick, and hence remains as embodiment of bliss. How entire all fields (Kshetra) are 'lighted' up by Atma can be understood by the example of Sun (Surya). Just the way one Surya alone is lighting up entire world, likewise this entire Kshetras are lit up by only one Kshetra dhari (bears entire Kshetras). Atma is detached/ disinterested (nirliptam). It does not do activity. Does not get stuck with results. Till now I took Akasha as an example and discussed. I will elaborate it again.

192) What is Chanchal Swabhav (restless personality), Swami ?

Restless personality is called Chanchalyam (lacking steadiness). This brings great harm in worldly dealings, and spiritual contemplation. Naturally your conscience (Antar-Atma) is inspiring you to keep your mind peaceful, and not to do bad actions with fear of sin. Due to that impact, even for a few seconds you think of “from tomorrow onwards must do only good actions”. To think of “from tomorrow” is clearly the hampering, Chanchalyam in the thought process. To say not from today, from tomorrow means to allocate today for doing something bad. To think “this is not our age to do Pujas, Bhajans. There is more time for that” falls in this category. In case if going to a temple, instead of visiting God with Ananya Bhakti (none other than thou devotion), getting engaged in all other discussions is Chanchalyam. Due to Chanchalyam of buddhi good destiny in spirituality, and due to seeking tasty food good health, is getting lost. By letting go of that Chanchalyam, pure buddhi and good health are attained.

193) How is Ahamkar, Swami ?

Ahamkar means pride. It is giving importance to proclaim one's own greatness by saying I-I, Aham-Aham for everything. It takes man towards a trivial, dull state. One who thinks they are greater than all is a Ahamkari (proud). This Aham does not let one grow fully, does not give room to learn new things. Due to that, a proud person gets limited to narrowness. Wealth of Jnana, and good fortune of friendship are not attainable by them. They lost out on a natural treasure of happiness. Yayati performed many Yajnas (fire sacrifices), but by portraying pride in front of Lord Indra, came down to lower world from heaven. Because the occasion calls for it, I am sharing this with you. This Anjaneya's body with the power of Rama leapt across a vast 100+ kilometer ocean, when he reached mother Sita who praised him heart-fully, without getting proud, said humbly that he is lower than all the monkey war heroes at the other shore, Lord Rama blessed him saying “becoming Chiranjeevi (eternal Jiva) be a worshipped deity to all and flourish”. That is, when Ahamkar is let go, one can attain all entire fortunes.

194) How to overcome pitiableness (Dainyam), Swami ?

All Jivas are embodiments of bliss. Not embodiments of sadness. "Maa Kaschid dukha bhaag bhaveth" (let no one be suffering!) is a noble ideal. This miserableness is an unnatural state of Jivi. Children who do not know sin-merit when they are laughing, no one asks why are you laughing (except in some odd circumstance)? If they are crying then your attention is immediately drawn and ask, why are you crying? Man must without belittling oneself, need to feel he is an elevated being. This feeling will free him of any contamination. The great truth uttered by Swami Shankaracharya in "Chidananda-rupaha shivoham shivoham" is this. When such lofty ideation is there, would bad or evil thoughts arise in anyone? One who thinks they are the embodiments of bliss then no worry or mire sticks to them. To think one is a destitute increases inferiority complex. It renders your natural powers, energies impotent. It makes you frail, weak. That is why Gita-charya (Lord Krishna) warns Arjuna "Kshudram Hrydaya Daurbalyam, Tyaktvo-thishta Paramtapa" which means " set aside degenerate mental frailty, stand up". Aadi Shankaracharya prayed to Iswara, "Ana-yasena maranam, vina dainyena jeevanam, deh-anthe tava sayujyam". Death without struggle, living without distress or pitiableness, after death merger in Iswara, what else can a Jiva pray for? Not having physical prosperities and trivial conveniences, is not Dainyam (pitiableness). Journeying with the question of "Koham" (who am i), not realizing "Soham" is the (I am that) real pitiableness, I am stressing this point. Realize the truth in what is said.

there is nothing greater than Dhyana (meditation) in this world Dhyana renders you Dhanya (consecrated)

195) Nowadays do not know who to trust and who to distrust, Swami ?

Para-pavada Nirath-aha Parama-dukho-dayeshu cha I Paraspara Virodha cha Yathanthey Satatho-dhitaha II

Some are interested in criticizing others. Some are constantly, alertly all the time trying to create conflicts between people, and generate sadness/sorrow in others. Those with contaminated minds try to behave in a way that hurts others. Due to jealousy cannot bear others growth/ success. Develop hate causelessly. Without any reason verbally abuse others. Throw slanders, spread bad rumors. They get happy by making others sad. In your language, they are called 'sadists'. Their mind is contaminated with sickness. Fire of jealousy keeps smoldering in them. It keeps burning away mental peace. With untruths, and provocative speech they fight with others, and create fights. In Maha Bharat Shakuni's, in Ramayan Manthara's evil roles. Duryodhana by nature was a cruel person, rich with jealousy. Shakuni did everything that can be done to destroy Duryodhan. With faith betrayed him. First got him to have faith in him, later when he started believing in him blindly, betrayed him. Those who are aplenty with good gunas (qualities), and well known for humility, also cannot tolerate even a small difficulty to living beings. Due to the guna of compassion people recognize the good gunas in individuals. Compassion is godly quality. Due to the compassion God tolerates the crimes committed by Jivas. In particular the harms done by human are beyond counting. Yet God tolerates. With the quality of compassion, if man wants to overcome evil and devilish inclinations and to live with saintly qualities as a great person, the only easy path is service (seva) to Sadguru. Because, a sick person has to be treated by a doctor only. To a weak person only a strong person can help. A sinner can be absolved by Sadguru only. Hitahara-vamshi born for a purpose, brought a great transformation in a dacoit Naravahana and made him a great person. This is an actual happening that occurred in Mathura, Brindavan. Just like a sculptor turns a hard stone into a beautiful sculpture, Sadguru can redeem even a cruel, sinner. Valmiki story is that, isn't it! Therefore, since man is a captive of mind, he must whole heartedly offer himself to the Guru. Vidya cannot be had without humility. Without Vidya life chariot cannot reach destination.

Sadosham Darshanam Yeshaam Sam-vaadey Samahad-bhayam I Arthaa-daaney Mahan Dosha-ha Pradhaaney chamahad-bhayam II

To see those who create conflicts, and mixing with them generates fear. Giving money to them or taking it from them both will bring harm. Some create conflicts due to their personality. As a consequence get happiness. With unreal unknown rumors they generate misunderstandings among people. Those without tolerance quickly misunderstand. It is difficult to understand. For that one needs kind-heartedness and tolerance. One must not believe immediately anything told by anyone. Must know the personality of one who is telling. One already knows about their close ones hence, must determine the truth slowly. Ninda means remonstrate other person's mistake. Apaninda means attributing a mistake that was not done. In both the situations you have to demonstrate tolerance, forbearance. Silence is destruction of conflict. Must win aversion with silence. Not with arguments, fights. When you make a mistake, to think that no one should remonstrate is not right. Elders have the right and authority to rectify the mistake. Elders can be Gurus also. To think that no matter what you speak, no matter how you behave there should not be a counter response, that leads to one's downfall. When a thorn pricks into the foot, the pain won't go till it is taken out. Good and holy will be restless till they rectify their mistake, keep repenting. A lie is also a great sin. Each lie takes you down a step at a time. If you don't control yourself on those downward steps, your end goal will be hell. Guru is the one who can put a stop to that downfall. Based on your devotion and surrender towards your Guru, his divinity shines. You can reach the fruits in the tree based on your height. And reachable by hand. You cannot grow physically but, not impossible to grow spiritually. For that there is no other way than surrender to the Guru who is bestower of Jnana. Method of study is not limited to formal education only. What is the secret in education, what is Atma Jnana, is made known lucidly, clearly.

for a mind that gets irritated at every little thing for a man who grudges for right or wrong reasons there is a treatment - that is gratitude medicine!

gratitude is not merely a lifeless word - it is a mantra of personal maturity gratitude expands your heart

196) It is said life is three day excursion, how is it Swami ?

Happinesses are like mirages, suffering is like the fires in a desert. First ones do not give permanent happiness - second one does not extinguish completely. As long as one lives there is no escape from running after those mirages. In those fires of desert, there is no escape from worries, anxieties. To describe man's life there is no better example, simile than this. So, from the fruit called world, you have greed for extracting something from that fruit. If did not get as much deliciousness as expected, severe disappointment. If thought critically, there is no stable happiness in life to the degree you deludedly expected. In these bondages there is no lasting peace. You can compare this life, body with impermanent things like wick in a lamp, or husk of a grain. With obsession called wealth, family/ samsara, do not waste valuable time with those blind attachments. Worldly pleasures are like Indian Plum, Ber. What essence is in these worldly pleasures? Without thinking about God, how long are you going to keep flapping in these and misusing your time? This life of mediocrity is like a sleep. Some dream shines like a lightning. Like stretching one's hands with a desire/ hope, when eyes are opened with expectation, the dream dissolves away. Back to normal state. Anxiety/ eagerness, indifference remains. The nature of the mind burning with desire is strange. No matter how much you struggle, it is a wasted effort with no great result. This thing called desire has no beginning-end. Because of this out of control mind, your attraction for this world keeps increasing. Although one struggles but if it is not tamed, mind will keep running helter-skelter. Your peace is put on fire by that. In a lamp it lights as long as it has oil and wick in it. It extinguishes when oil is gone. Your lives are similar. As long as oil called longevity is there till then life is glittering. After that journey is to the cemetery. Why so much attachment to this kind of life? This body is useless like the husk on the grain, why so much interest, attachment? In this world anything that you acquire/ grow with great love are not going to stay permanently. They do not give unlimited peace and happiness. Yet there is no end to your anxiety/ worry. That is your deplorable state. Neither body, or wealth, nor your life and not your permanent possessions. You all came to this hotel/ guest-chamber called vast world. In this rest house equipped with two colored door-ways called dawn-dusk, even great rulers enjoy for sometime along with you, and leave by making room for arrivals. Your time in samsara is born as a result of Karmas, which is like measured grain put into storage. Sooner or later it is going to empty out, no choice. Likewise, contemptuous life is like pre-made rice that is gone bad. Knowing that it is not useful, must eat it no choice. Until God's grace is there, endless distress is not going to end. Only when Atma-Ananda (Atmic bliss) is attained, liberation can be had? Making God as the basis, no matter how much one wanders in this samsara there is no danger. At the right time God himself will pull you aside. This samsara is like a hot plate. But if you increase your love for God, he will pull you off of the hot plate, and give place in his cool lap. Increase love that is in you. That love is God's divine palace. Therefore, grab hold of love tightly which is your lifeline.

197) How should our behavior be towards Kathin-atmulu (harsh/stern people) Swami ?

Even in those people whose minds are boiling in harshness/ sternness, in hiding the fragrance of humanity lies/ must lie. No one is one way all the time. No matter which sculpture one time or other, there will be some movement. Even in a hard sculpture when dug, water wetness can be seen. Similarly, those who seem without any humanity in their hearts at one time or other respond humanely. Everyone who looks grave and grim are not heartless harsh personalities. At right time there is no end to love and affection demonstrated by them. This Anjaneya is an example of that. I keep telling many times to change/ transform. If humanity is not there how can we say they are humans? I will share one thing which you must understand. If you understand and practice, you will be lucky else you Many times you put some impressions on some people and keep viewing them from that angle. Even if they are trying to come out of their prior impressions, but you with your firm opinions, keep them in their earlier state in your interactions/ transactions. No matter how much a thorn is trying to become a rose, however it might struggle, you continue to operate so that thorn stays as a thorn permanently. As a result that thorn remains a thorn for a longtime. Any finger that touches it, whether it likes it or not, keeps pricking. Therefore I am telling you. Do not say no to thorns. With your touch they must tingle. I will say thorns are also flowers. Seeing snow behind the fire, seeing good only in people, those who awaken the aspect of humanity in them are Mahatmas (great holy people). In the kingdom of Sugriva there used to be a doctor. He was blunt. Words from his mouth used to shoot like arrows. Even his spouse and children used to fear him. All of their opinion was he had a heart made out of stone. But, Sugriva used to speak to him with lot of affection. No matter how harsh the questions were presented, he would answer softly, harmoniously. On one occasion he said "my wife and children did not understand me like you do. They think I don't have a heart at all. They don't believe that I shed tears too. That is why when I do not have any work outside, I feel like spending time with you". One day, it was raining very heavily. Sugriva was ill. Then worrying about Sugriva whether the doors were closed or not, whether he was given medicine or not, next day morning he told that to Sugriva. When I heard that I felt that he is a Mahatma who could bring out kindness, compassion even in people who are like forest fires.

What is the greatness in interacting softly gently with people who are soft and gentle? Speaking unitedly with harsh/ stern people adds completeness to your softness/ gentleness. I am aspiring for such hearts with completeness. Melt even the solidified stone heart inside you. Bring out the humanity in you. Dawn is over. Being close to dusk, if change does not come in your thoughts behaviors, these words of Maruthi are a waste (Vrudha), spending effort is a waste (Vrudha), getting close to you is a waste (Vrudha). Instead of living wastefully in old age with so many wastes, leave the useless, and lead life abundantly.. (Inni vrudhala-tho vruddyapyam-lo vrudhaga jeevinchey badulu, vyarthalani vadili, samruddiga jeevanam kona-saginchandi.)

198) How to attain completeness (poornatvam) Swami ?

Food is related to purification of Annamaya Kosha (food sheath) - spirituality is related to purification of Atmamaya Kosha (subtle body). First and foremost disciplines (Niyamas) are absolutely necessary. Yet, in a way they are a binding too. One who has transformed spiritually does not follow any disciplines (Niyamas). Because, following Niyamas means strengthening Ahamkar (identification with body) only. Samadhi (absorption) means remaining, not doing anything. To do something or other means beginning stage only. To get a handle on such Samadhi, Satvik food is a must. Partaking in a limited way it becomes Satvik, taking it in excess becomes Tamo guna, not partaking sufficient to the need becomes Rajo guna. Partaking all foods is Yoga - forcibly restricting some foods becomes Roga (ailment). If earning money is dharma compliant, food becomes nectarine. Living non-dharma way, habituated to unlawful earning, eating vegetables under the guise of Satvik food, there is no benefit. When inner self is sanctified, food partaken also becomes sanctified. When inner self is contaminated, taking any kind of food turns into poison. Being habituated to physical comforts, there is no use following any disciplines. Whichever food is eaten by those who work hard gets completely digested. Nowadays all are intellectuals (medhavulu). This intellectual group being careful about food, giving too much importance to food. If one has higher qualities like courage, self confidence, mental strength, capability, body will be healthy, firm, and can live longer. Those who lead life artfully/ efficiently, if they adopt moral values with discipline, they have no need to think about health. When inner cleansing is occurring, the thought process also changes. Mind gains full control on the body. Inner organs work wonderfully. Then there is no need to think about the physical health. The gross portion of food goes to Annamaya Kosha (food sheath), and subtle portion of the food goes to Manomaya Kosha (mental sheath). Therefore there is no need to follow harsh disciplines. But, non-vegetarian food must be completely restricted. Because, aspect of violence to living beings is completely conflicting to spiritual progress. It is enough to live peacefully, eating Satvik food, and following the sequence of sadhana without fail. For completeness in human life there is no other alternative to spiritual path. Because, individual who attained completeness, their Prajna (intelligence, wisdom) expands infinitely, attaining complete freedom, they live like that and finish life in the same manner. For that from Annamaya Kosha to Atmamaya Kosha, all koshas must be entirely purified, and must experientially realize the aspect that there is no body. This is an extra-ordinary aspect. Among crores of people it is possible only for a few. Observe the path you are experiencing, your thoughts, and your methods. You are practicing with only your physical health in view. Due to that only temporary relief is attained, and there is no possibility for permanent resolution. Therefore, in the manner this Guru taught, if body, senses, mind, buddhi limitations are transcended, only then you can reach the pinnacle state. There is no other alternative. For that complete Advait Brahma Jnana is the Pashupat-astram (weapon of Pashupati, Shiva). On top of that it must be attained in agreement with the scriptural injunctions, and free of impurities. To remove the darkness called Ajnana, you need the light called Atma Jnana. But, that has to be complete Jnana. Currently there is no one externally to give you that complete (Paripoorna) Jnana - and there are none who are anxious/ eager to attain it. In that situation this Anjaneya became Guru, Sadguru, is handing you effortlessly the infinite brilliant Jnana. Those who receive, if they experience it, they will become Poorna Jnanis (complete Jnanis') is certain! Mind of Poorna Jnani will be like a full pot. In that state "there is no body" feeling occurs. If body is not there, then there is no possibility for mind, buddhi, chitta, Ahamkar to exist. If body is melted (destroyed), then there is no life. The Jiva who operates it has no existence. In that state the information related to society, world, nature (Prakriti), cosmos, all look like Maya. Some might have the doubt that reaching to such a state may not be possible. But, with this Anjaneya's validation, it definitely becomes possible. It is a 100% fact that this visible universe has emerged from oneness, from Brahman, from Paramatma, from God. There is no doubt of any kind. Universe is one, Truth is one, Brahman is one, God is one. There are no two, no second one. There is no chance for that. From that Atma oneness physical world consisting of diversity, gross, names and forms emerged. From Vedanta standpoint it is called Anatma (not Atma). Such Anatma consist of dualities. Duality means two half portions present in equal proportion. Eg. Jnana - Ajnana; Sathya - Asathya; God - devotee, Paramatma - Prapancha (world) etc. in this manner there are two pairs. They are called mutually dependent. Likewise, in human life birth - death; good - bad; success - failure etc. appear as two. If you can develop that understanding Poornatvam (completeness) is attained. In fact, even though they appear as two, those two are one. One is a reflection of the other. Eg. Anatma emerges from Atma. Again Anatma returns and merges in Atma. Therefore, Anatma is Atma itself, isn't it! That can be related with human life. If you take birth - death, if there is birth, there will be death. But, God is the basis for both of them, isn't it! Therefore, birth - death both are impermanent. If completeness is there, they must be melted. For that one must completely remove the samskars of past lives. Jnani accepts duality equally - Ajnani gets into conflict between the two. Therefore, after attaining Poorna Jnana, if one continues sadhana, samskars get cleansed, dualities completely melt away and Poornatvam (completeness) is attained. There is no doubt in this. This is Anjaneya's word, promise !

199) Swami, what is the importance of Karma in life? What types of Karmas one must perform?

There is an inseparable (avina-bhava) relationship between Karma - results of Karma (Karma Phala). There is no possibility of separating Karma from results of Karma. Hence, how should those Karmas be? They should be useful to oneself, one's family, and society. Those are called meritorious karmas. Instead, if they are harmful to oneself, one's family and to society, then they are bad karmas. Selfishly if one demonstrates great love for one's prosperity or one's progeny can be deemed as attachment (moha). This Moha is same as quicksand (oobi). When an intelligent man finds a blade of grass, he uses it as support reaches to shore safely. An unintelligent man even if an elephant comes and offers its trunk to pull him out, he not only not cooperate but makes an effort to go deeper inside. King elephant who came to assist instead, with annoyance puts his leg on his head and pushes him down. Think for a second the cause. Do you want discrimination, or indiscrimination? Let go of the Ahamkar inside you. This Veer Anjaneya who came to help, hear his melodious words and get ready to follow and practice. In what is said, even if a part is followed, this Pavan Kumar will get ecstatic. You who are called as sadhaks getting distraught, distressed due to lacking Sadgunas (good qualities), putting those who are watching you in agony, what kind of sadhana is this? Is this called sadhana? Elaborate on this, I will get absolved listening. There is no better way than this for me to get liberated. This is your good luck, and my bad luck. When feelings are not good, it is beneficial for this Bajrang Bali to sit down and do Bhajans. This is my lofty karma. Through good karmas not only one grows higher, but becomes useful to all in many ways. By bad Karmas, the first person to incur loss is themselves. Subsequently it spreads to family, and society. Those who perform bad karmas, their mental peace gets deficient. There is no opportunity for Ananda. Hence you must be careful about the karmas you do. Root cause for anyone doing bad karmas is their past lives is bad samskars. Bad Karmas acquire bad results while good karmas beget good results. This has no relationship with anyone else. Your life continues through you only. No one is responsible for that. There is no relationship between God and your life. Dependence on God means increasing your slavery. Actually God is human being's primary weakness. There is no other ignorance greater than thinking that others are the cause of your karmas. Those who put the burden on God, slavery increases in them. Tamo guna increases. So, to destroy bad karma God must be taken as a support only, but there is no danger greater than putting the complete burden on God thinking he will remove it. God may be the cause for your creation but, not the cause of your karma. Those who think of God externally, are unable to recognize the God inside them. Therefore, accept the responsibility. Make your life worthwhile by freeing yourself from your bondages. This is my prayer, humble request !

Anjaneya's Question Answers

1. What does your weaknesses do to you?

A: To win, after winning to flourish, you have to increase your strengths get rid of your weaknesses,. Although winning is your goal, many do not recognize their own weaknesses. Over and above, they believe and argue that these are natural characteristics in everyone and they do not pose any obstacles to their goal. In fact, your strength increases only when you get rid of your weaknesses, small or big. Because, weaknesses always make a path for your failure/ loss. Sometime or other they disrupt your name and honor.

2. How to understand that for those who are traveling towards goal, it is not good to demonstrate anger?

A: Weakness in all individuals is anger. Anger which is considered as a natural quality is a mental state. Due to anger, a situation occurs which makes you behave opposite to your natural state and circumstance. You forget what you learned when anger arises. The truths that you already know get obscured. Moves people farther from each other. You will end up hurting others with words and actions. As a small anger or a rage, in the end it leaves behind a bitter taste. Therefore I am saying, those who are stepping towards a goal, it is not wise to exhibit anger.

3. Stress increases due to anger. Please let us know how will mental state be due to that?

A: Work being done, or to be done, either small or big there is pressure to some degree. Along with that, "I need to do, I should not make a mistake. All should appreciate me and my work", if these feelings are there, pressure increases further. If longing joins that pressure, no need to describe further. If any small oversight, or mistake is observed, or noticed, anger breaks all barriers. Rage crosses boundaries.

4. Everyone knows about the adage "one's anger is one's own enemy". Yet when anger arises, they forget the adage and how they behave, please tell us?

A: Although they know one's anger is one's own enemy, when anger arises they forget that. They behave counter to their natural state. In some everything will be in high proportion. Eyes jump out of their sockets. Eyebrows get knitted. Looks are penetrating. Blood pressure increases in the body. Heart beats rise. Words lose their gentleness. When anger is at its peak, body starts shivering like a young leaf. Some contrary to this circumstance, undertake a harsh vow of silence. Will not speak to anyone. Reject any food or drink. No matter how much the other person pleads they do not step down, do not let go of their vow. Will not communicate openly what is in their heart. Anger has so many negative qualities.

5. What all is accomplished by anger, think and respond.

A: When anger comes, no matter which method is followed, it is certain that those who are near you get victimized. You will become the person who subjected them to misery through your words and deeds. In the end you are left over with a bitter experience. If you ask yourself, what got accomplished? how much gain?, the answer is void, nil. Over and above, you are subjected to disturbance, lack of peace. One pointedness gets scattered. In the end you might feel guilty that you made so much fuss for such a small thing. That is why, anger degrades one's greatness.

6. Then how are you to think about it, how will you change?

A: Due to whom and for what reason you got angry? You can communicate with them through your speech peacefully. If your speech has clarity and sincerity in it, others will understand quickly. Above all, your behavior and your work are not going to be pleasing and likable by all. Similarly other people are not going to be the way you like, by understanding the reality that they will not do things likable to you, then anger will not stay in you. You can reach your goal peacefully.

7. So, leaving these kinds of things, when, which way, in what manner must sadhana be started?

A: Discriminating between Sathya-Asathya (permanent-transient, truth-untruth), always discerning the Truth, by enquiry into essence-non essence must only attain the essence. Throwing away the shell, collecting only pearls, in likewise manner you must start your living. After that it is self effort, God's grace. It is most beneficial to do the enquiry into Sathya-Asathya first before you do other enquiries. That enquiry is very necessary for any little thing, any transactions, and in every worldly thing.

200) Swami, We ourselves are cause of our downfall. How to prevent it?

You are exploring, researching, working hard day and night, anxious about your progress, introducing into yourself explosion of information, are you observing which way it is taking you? The experiments you are conducting is spreading the mind contamination into your entire heart (feelings, notions). Information revolution is the root cause of all kinds of issues, problems. You are filling your minds with unneeded very harmful contaminated information, due to its impact losing the firmness in your body. Because, unnecessary bad information is very easily available, hence getting attracted, thereby bad seeds getting sowed in your mind which later are transmuting into results. There is no opportunity for aspects like moral values, sanctity, responsibility, discipline, love, sacrifice, seva. You are getting buried in intoxication. Devotion (Bhakti), Bhajan, bondages, relationships, divinity, such trend is not even visible for namesake. All these are external activities and when it transforms you internally then you have successfully followed/ practiced them. External activities purify outside, inside thoughts create a miracle, and rectify you fully into an awesome person. No matter how many precautions I take, if they get contaminated inside you, if you get deficient of peace in your inner environment, how long can I keep you bound? When an embankment breaks and river starts flowing forcefully, one or two people can they stop it with their hands? Think ! Those who tell you, preach you good things are being isolated. Those who foment weaknesses are becoming dear ones. Bad is everywhere, in everything increasing its upper hand. Observe, your mental state is rotten! I had been alerting you constantly to such dangerous aspects for many days. But, my words remain as cries in a deserted forest. It became like blowing the conch to a deaf person. Because, you do not have the courage to accept and practice it. Don't have the capability to grasp it. Not getting time to resurrect yourself. Your yearning/ anxiety to achieve something, got ready with sufficient plans, schemes, programs for life, living in outside journey, you are unable to think about what is happening inside you. You are yearning to know something. But, unable to understand that whatever you are getting to know is Maya. Whatever decline meant to happen, has already occurred. Even now if you don't get transformed, think about the loss that is occurring. What is the use if it is too late? That is why, as a last arrow I am showing you a wondrous path. I am thinking of turning you towards the royal road. Are you ready for that? If you are, you will attain liberation right at this moment. If you have faith, belief in this Anjaneya's word and path, follow it without fail. Else, old story repeats itself. How long will you live in hell? How many people will you make suffer? How many problems will you create? If you are able to perceive that you are not journeying on the right path, must start trying for resolution. Are you thinking that growth in physical world is the proof?

Then you yourself are seeking perdition ! Transform, repent ! Must travel towards Sathyam (Truth, highest abode). Making Dharma as the basis must move forward. After time passes by, after reaching the last stage, after everything is over, what is it you or I can do? If life's ultimate meaning is understood, there will be an opportunity to stop the decline that will occur in future. If you are ready for that, you will definitely find a path. Do not keep waiting for someone to come, something they will do. Do not kill your inner being. Do not deceive your Self. Do not pawn your life to anyone. Resurrect your life. The decision you take now becomes the golden road to future. It will become a tree, wishing tree, and will become your wish fulfilling cow (Kamadhenu). That is why do not delay. Think and proceed ahead. Fill your conversation with gentleness. Interact softly. Japa and Tapa (austerity) should stop the six evil qualities that are getting born in you. The Daiv-agni (mantra we do during fire ceremony everyday) should burn down your gunas. Offer your negative in you to me, take positive from me. That is, give me the loose coins and take currency notes from me. Lighten your burden. Support, assist this Anjaneya. Beget by offering helping hand. Recognized as good persons, attain fulfillment to your life.

Understanding the actual circumstances faced by today's sadhaks in their sadhana, what are the things to be explained, to what degree they need to be illustrated, considering the realities and current situations, this Anjaneya is teaching all those things that need to be taught. You need to think deeply of the step you are taking and proceed. This is the time to wake up
